Vol. 42 No. 38 | Five Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, July 26, 1997 | $28.50 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

When urbanization encroached on the Smith family's New Jersey farm, they reluctantly sold it and bought one in Reinholds. # Growing Corn By Degree (Days)

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — "Growing degree days" are more and more becoming part of the mainstream farming vocabulary and Lebanon County agronomy Extension Agent Delbert Voight said that those who aren't using the measurement tool to help with crop management are missing out.

Corn is king in Lebanon County, Voight said recently, referring to results of data he collected this past year from 270 fields in the county.

He did the survey to establish existing planting patterns and weed problems (perrenials are the main problem with thistle heading the list) so as to have a base from which to work to help provide growers with research-based information for bettering their production.

But knowing, as he already guessed from observation, that corn is king in Lebanon County, he also knew that the farmers have a valuable tool available to them that not many use or of which they might not be aware.

Corn is a crop for which "growing degree days (GDD)" work well, he said.

Voight said earlier this year that farmers, especially dairy producers who raise most of their own feed, would probably do well to learn about and use GDD as a management tool.

Growing degree days is a measurement of the energy usable by a specific variety of plant. Correlations between plant growth stages and the amount of calcualted GGD is established through research.

Clover Grand Champion At Lancaster Holstein Show

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) - Silvermine Holsteins, Willow Street, owned by the Thomas family took top honors at the Lancaster County Holstein show with the grand, reserve grand, and reserve junior champions. Donegal Creek farm, Columbia owned by the Joe Wivell family was premier breeder, and Wengdale Farm, Quarryville, owned by the Bob Wenger family was premier exhibitor.

The stylish C Wridale Broker Clover, topped the senior three-year-old class for Sandra Thomas and went on to be the grand champion of the show. The Broker daughter out of Jaclean Jet Cake is working on 30,000m 1,100f 1,000p. The reserve grand champion was the senior two-year-old, MVF Raider Desaray.

The junior champion for both the open and youth shows was Howcrest Mandel Charlyse, the homebred fall calf shown by Lindsey Howard, Willow Street. The reserve junior champion in the open show was Silvermine Mandel Raye, the winter yearling shown by Austin Thomas. And the reserve junior champion of the youth show was Hilltop-Heritage Star Lizzy, a spring yearling shown by Crystal Brubaker, Mt. Joy.

The grand champion of the youth show was Welk-Acers Raider Mandy, the junior three-year-old entry of Andy Welk. Randy Wenger had the reserve grand champion of the youth show with Wengdales Horace Honey.

While the number of entries was down this year, Judge Steve Wood, an Adams County Holstein breed-

Five More Flocks Have Avian Influenza, Poultry Shows Canceled

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As an added measure to stop the spread of avian influenza, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. issued an order Thursday, canceling live poultry exhibits at agricultural fairs in nine counties for the remainder of 1997. Counties included in the order are Berks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Montgomery, Schuylkill and York.

"This is a precaution we believe is necessary to prevent any possible spread of the H7N2 virus," Hayes said. "We will make sure that those fairs which cancel live poultry exhibits are still eligible for reimbursement for exhibit costs."

Also, Hayes confirmed that an additional five flocks, comprised of approximately 750,000 birds, have been found to be positive for the avian influenza virus through active surveillance. One flock is being maintained as a study flock to try to gain additional information on the avian influenza. So far, over 1 million laying hens have been depopulated in Lancaster and Lebanon counties.

A quarantine to stop the spread of avian influenza was placed on a 75-square-mile area of northwestern Lancaster County on May 16.

Hayes said he is working closely with Pennsylvania U.S. Sens. Rick Santorum and Arlen Specter to encourage the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to allow the development of a protective vaccine. Nearly 4 million doses of the vaccine are currently being developed and stockplied for possible uses if the virus continues to spread.

An influenza risk-assessment team from the USDA is in Pennsylvania this week, meeting with state Agriculture Department and poultry industry leaders to determine a future course of action. This is a first step in providing the necessary background should the request be made to use the vaccine.

While there is no threat to human health, the quarantine in Lancaster County will continue.

On June 18, Gov. Tom Ridge signed into law a bill to appropriate $5 million to provide financial assistance to Lancaster and Lebanon county poultry producers affected by the outbreak.

The poultry industry makes a $563 million contribution to the Commonwealth's economy. Of the 25 million chickens in the Commonwealth, 17 million are in Lancaster County.

Ag Progress Days Coming

The time for the annual Ag Progress Days, sponsored by Penn State's College of Agriculture Sciences at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rock Springs, is fast approaching. Scheduled for August 12 to 14, the show includes more than 300 commercial exhibitors and research and education programs that address issues of interest to every farmer. Lancaster Farming's August 9 issue will pay special tribute to this event with field maps, schedules of events, new areas of interest, and messages from our advertisers. To have your advertising included in this issue, call us anytime during office hours Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at (717) 394-3047 or (717) 626-1164.

Dairy Of Distinction Section

In a special section this week, we honor the new Pennsylvania winners of the Dairy of Distinction awards. Look for photographs of each farm, information about how to obtain the distinction for your farm next year, and messages from our advertisers. We congratulate all the winners.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JULY 23, 1997

Wheat bids continued higher due to heavy fund buying on the board and good export sales. Corn bids declined on the potential for continued hot temperatures throughout the Midwest. Soybean bids climbed higher with hot weather in both the Midwest and China, pushing bids upward. Good foreign demand was also a supporting factor for beans. Wheat 5 to 10 cents higher. Corn steady to 1 cent lower except Minneapolis 3 cents higher. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents lower. Soybeans 3 to 9 cents higher. U.S. Export Sales:

Delmarva Broiler

JULY 23, 1997
Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was disappointingly light. Offerings were in excess and difficult to place. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights varied, but were generally desirable to light. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 61 to 75 cents Trade sentiment was weak and unsettled. In the parts complex, thighs remained no more than adequate. Other items were fully sufficient for the generally lackluster buyers interest.

NE Chicken Pts 1&2

JULY 23, 1997

Trucklot buying activity was poor and much worse than a usual Wednesday. Offerings were often noted as difficult to place even at sharply discounted price levels. Retail and distributive movement was slower than most dealers expected, with not much of a change expected for the first-of-the month. The market tone continued weak and unsettled.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

JULY 18, 1997

Prices were generally unchanged for whites, and prices were higher for other items. The market tone was steady to firm with whole eggs and yolks strongest. Demand was mixed, and mostly moderate. Plants ran full schedules. Shell egg supplies were tight to adequate, and offerings were limited in the Southeast. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending July 12, 1997 were 32% more than last week, and unchanged from the same week last year.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JULY 28 - AUGUST 3, 1997

LAMMAS DAY, AUGUST 1.

MY STARS & COMETS

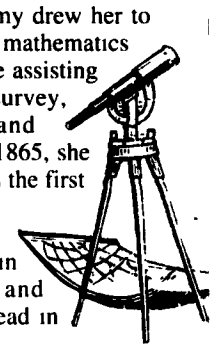
Nantucket-born astronomer, Maria Mitchell, entered the galaxy on August 1, 1818. An interest in her father's hobby of astronomy drew her to star-gazing, and a natural ability at mathematics took her even further. In 1847, while assisting her father in a U.S. Coast Guard survey, Maria discovered a new comet and managed to determine its orbit. By 1865, she had joined Vassar Female College as the first female professor of astronomy.



Her discovery also led to her being invited (the first woman ever) to join the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Turns out, having your head in the stars can be good

Look bravely up into the sky, and be content with knowing . . . – Sarah Orne Jewett

TIP OF THE WEEK

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

3 medium green tomatoes
1/2 cup cornmeal
salt and pepper, to taste
6 tablespoons oil
1/2 cup sour cream
2 scallions, chopped

Wash, dry, and slice tomatoes into ⅛-inch slices. Dredge them in cornmeal, and sprinkle both sides with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a large, heavy skillet over moderate heat. Add the tomato slices, without crowding. When the tomatoes start to sizzle, turn and brown on the other side. They should be just tender — not mushy. Remove slices as they are done and keep warm in a 175° F oven with the door slightly open. Serve warm, with a dollop of sour cream and a sprinkling of scallions.

Makes 4 servings, as a side dish.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A white mist in the evening over a meadow or river, dispersed by the Sun the next morning, means a good day, all day.

Five or six fogs in a row and you'll have rain.

WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

OPINION

Dairy Of Distinction, A Distinguished Program

The Dairy of Distinction Program was developed to recognize the most attractive dairy farms in the region. The farms that apply for the recognition are rated for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance by a team of judges from each local district. Dairy farms exhibiting the highest standards of excellence are named.

There are a lot of very good things about this program. First, it is run on a very low budget by volunteers. And it starts milk and dairy product promotion at the very root of where a good impression on consumers must start. Dirty cows and sloppy barnyards and farmsteads do not appeal to the wholesomeness of milk.

In Pennsylvania alone, more than 650 dairy farms have been named to receive the Dairy of Distinction award. And many of these farms use the designation to promote their own farm or to attract employees for their dairy operations.

We would like to congratulate the 1997 winners. A special section this week is dedicated to them. And a program at Ag Progress Days in August will bring these winners together.

But we would also like to compliment the area moderators of the program. These volunteers are the backbone of the program, encouraging their local dairy farms to apply, selecting the judging team, and presenting the awards.

Most dairy promotion efforts cost a lot of money. But the Dairy of Distinction program has distinguished itself by getting something done at the farm level with a small budget. Keep up the good work.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Utilize Small Grains in Drought

Most of Pennsylvania is under a drought watch with many areas experiencing severe drought conditions. Even with Wednesday and Thursday's rains, many producers are going to need supplemental feeds. Small grains and soybeans can provide additional forage, according to Dr. Elwood Hatley, Penn State agronomist. Spring oats may be used for fall grazing or silage. It may be seeded during August and early September at about three bushels per acre. In most cases no additional inputs are required. Penn State has not been able to obtain significant yield increases from added nitrogen especially when planted following drought stressed corn. Winter grains may be used for grazing this fall or silage next spring. Winter rye has traditionally been the major small grain used for forage. It has the most winter hardiness and can be planted the latest for both erosion control and forage. Corn, rye and oats were seeded on August 5 at Penn State Research Farm, Landisville, Pa. Silage yields were: Corn (harvested October 5) - 1.5 tons per acre and 61.2 per cent TDN, rye (harvested at soft dough) - 2.06 tons per acre and 68.4 per cent TDN and oats (harvested at soft dough) - 2.05 tons per acre and 75.8 per cent TDN.

To Look At Soybeans

Dr. Elwood Hatley, Penn State agronomist, reports soybeans tend to be more drought tolerant then other grain crops because they flower over a longer period and can take advantage of late rains. However, with severe prolonged drought, plants may start dying. Under these conditions, harvesting as silage is an option. Soybean silage tends to be higher in protein and fiber then corn and lower in protein and higher in fiber then alfalfa. Soybeans may also be seeded for silage until early August. They will continue to grow until the temperatures approach freezing this fall. In some areas this could provide sizable tonnage. Limited data indicates that soybeans planted in mid-July at State College could yield approximately 1.5 ton of dry matter per acre when harvested in mid-September. Planted this late, they should be seeded with a grain drill at a seeding rate close to 300,000 seeds per acre. They should be harvested prior to a killing frost to maintain as much leaf material as possible. These are a few ideas on ways to increase your forages for this winter.

To Protect Yourself From The Sun

Prolong unprotected exposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays may lead to skin cancers, according to Dennis Murphy, Penn State agricultural engineer. To prevent skin cancers, farmers should use sun screens regularly. Using a product with SPF (sun protection factor) of at least 15, which will block 94 per cent of the ultraviolet B rays most likely to cause skin cancer. The SPF factor is a rating the multiplies the protection naturally provided by the skin. For example, if your skin burns after an hour, using an SPF 15 sun screen allows you 15 hours of exposure before burning. Sunglasses are a most. Prolong exposure to the sun can damage the retina, cornea and lens of the eye. Remember the sun is the strongest between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

HAS SOMEONE PAID THE BILL?

July 27, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 10:1-14
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 9:11 through 10:18

"Sir, someone has paid your bill."

"I beg your pardon?" I replied to the hotel clerk.

"Your bill has been taken care of," he assured me.

In time, I discovered who that "someone" was and my reaction was one of deep gratitude. I felt indebted to our benefactor.

Actually, I had dreaded checking-out of the hotel. I knew that we had charged to our room a number of expensive services. It was a pricey hotel and we were afraid our room bill would come as a great shock to us. And it would have — except that a friend had already paid it. In a sense this is what lies at the heart of the good news of Jesus Christ: "Sir/madam, someone has paid your bill!"

How much more unnerving is it to contemplate standing before our Creator? The "bill" we accumulate along the way in life — no matter how careful we are — tends to be overwhelming. Even the best of us tend to run a bill that is devilishly expensive.

ANDREW CARNEGIE

Andrew Carnegie, for example, was a ruthless steel baron of the late 19th century. Later, however, Carnegie began to give away large chunks of his wealth, establishing libraries throughout the world and buying pipe organs for deserving groups. His philosophy: "The man who dies rich dies disgraced."

Yet, despite the great amounts he gave away, he died a very, very rich man. I don't know whether, by his own definition, he felt "disgraced," but Carnegie found that it is virtually impossible to give enough away to settle the bill. That's the way it is in life: we can never say enough, give enough, do enough or be enough to settle our account with God.

Under the Levitical priesthood, people tried to pay the bill with sacrifices which the priests made on their behalf. But the system didn't really work, because people tended to concentrate on the ritual rather than the meaning behind it. Hebrews says plainly," . . . it is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins" (10:4). He also recalls the words of the Psalmist (which he attributes to Christ): "Sacrifices and offerings thou hast not desired, but a body thou hast prepared for me" (10:5,6) — a little different from your Bible because he is quoting from the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures.

A SINGLE SACRIFICE

The point is that God does not require these sacrifices and they are of only temporary value, at best, to the people. In stark contrast, however, is the sacrifice which Jesus makes of himself. "For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are sanctified" (10:14).

We do not sacrifice animals today, but we have our rituals — ecclesiastical and personal — by which we seek relief from our guilt and atonement for our sins. Some people direct the guilt inwardly, loathing themselves and trying to inflict the punishment they feel they deserve. Others project it outwardly, hating and despising others because they cannot deal with their own guilt.

Here the gospel comes proclaiming that "Someone has paid your bill" and we strive to live rightly, not to win God's grace — which we can't — but we strive to live rightly because we have already received his grace. Our lives are dedicated to demonstrating by the way we live how deeply we are grateful that the bill has already been paid — in full!

Grain Field Day July 29

NEWARK, Del. — University of Delaware Cooperative Extension will hold a grain crop field day on Tuesday, July 29, from 9:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Research and Demonstration Area on Marl Pit Road (Rd. 429), approximately one mile east of the intersection of Delaware Rt. 71/U.S. Rt. 301 (Armstrong Corner). Please note the new time.

According to extension agricultural agent Carl Davis, the program will cover: wheat and barley variety trial results; field trials to include Bt corn hybrids, Bt and non-Bt corn hybrids planting data study, full season and double-crop soybean varieties, Roundup Ready soybean varieties and grass control; and extension specialists' general updates on the crop disease, insect pest, and weed control situations.

This year's free lunch is being provided by University of Delaware Cooperative Extension and Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc. Following lunch, the Brubakers will conduct their field day just across the road. Credit toward Delaware pesticide license recertification will be awarded.

The meeting is free, and everyone interested is welcome. For more information or special consideration in accessing this meeting, please contact the extension office, in advance, at (302) 831-2506.

It was announced this week that Megan Souder is completing a summer dairy internship with Fort Dodge Animal Health, a division of American Home Products Corp., headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas. Megan is a junior at Delaware Valley College. Her parents are G. Lee and Marian Souder, Mechanicsburg.

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
JULY 23, 1997

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle and calves steady. Demand good for most classes, moderate for feeder heifers. Last Friday's bearish COF report has had no effect on live feeder and calf markets. Feeder cattle and calf markets more in tune to corn prices which are half of last year. Most buyers thinking another bumper corn and milo crop upcoming. Quality and conditions are improved from last week. Quality of supply plain thru attractive. Weighups full to mainly average. Flesh remained medium. Slaughter cows steady. Slaughter bulls 50 lower. Packer demand good. Total of 700 cows and bulls sold with 65 percent going to packers. Receipts this week 10,900; last week 9,669; last year 9,666. Supply consisted of 75 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 19 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. Feeder Steers: Medium and Large 1 275 lbs 120.00; 400-500 lbs (450 lbs) 96.00-106.00 (99.64); 500-550 lbs (516 lbs) 94.50-100.00 (96.92); 550-600 lbs (587 lbs) 90.00-94.50 (92.78); 600-650 lbs (615 lbs) 87.75-94.75 (92.19); 650-700 lbs (673 lbs) 85.00-91.25 (87.61); 700-750 lbs (711 lbs) 83.00-87.00 (85.25); 750-800 lbs (780 lbs) 80.75-84.50 (82.56); 800-850 lbs (821 lbs) 80.00-83.75 (82.54); 850-900 lbs (866 lbs) 77.00-82.50 (80.37); 900-1000 lbs (950 lbs) 75.00-78.50 (76.94); 1025 lbs 74.00. With Petition, Farmers Can Have Voices Heard

What Would Bottle Bill Mean To Beverage Manufacturers, Other Industries?

Last Of A Series

Editor's Note: Are there alternatives to a state bottle bill? Answers are conflicting. But experts who have studied litter problems in rural areas understand the difficulties of using a "no bottle bill" approach. Bottle bills in other states have proven widely successful in reducing bottle and can litter. Now farmers can have their voices heard through a petition they can send to their legislators. The statewide organization that supports farmers and bottle bill legislation says it's about time.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PERKASIE (Bucks Co.) — Rep. Paul Clymer (R-145th) believes the answer to the problems of bottles and cans in Pennsylvania farm fields lies in Texas.

That's right, Texas. The Lone Star State has pioneered a program that targets not the industries that produce bottles and cans which end up in fields, but the people responsible for putting the trash there in the first place.

Within the next year, Clymer indicated his office will help coordinate a workshop to discuss a program spearheaded by the Texas Department of Transportation that targets what they believe are the purveyors of trash in fields — 18-35-year-old males.

The Texas program makes heavy use of radio and TV ads that bring in respectable role models to essentially tell the guys "don't mess with Texas — don't litter," said Clymer.

Texas has no bottle bill. But, according to Clymer, the Texas transportation department insists that the campaigns, funded through the department with financial assistance from the bottling, distributor, and retailer industries, actually work.

"Irresponsible people do litter," said Clymer. "This program is an attempt to solve the problems of litter in fields without having to put the responsibility on the people not responsible for the problems to begin with."

Clymer, who did not have a specified date for the Texas program workshop as of presstime, believes education is the key. However, opponents of the Texas plan wonder about the "nontarget" audience — females, those under 18 or over 35, or those who simply don't see or hear the media spots.

Clymer actually co-sponsored Pennsylvania's Bottle Bill H.B. 922 with Rep. Arthur Hershey (R-13th) and 53 co-sponsors. In order for a Pennsylvania program that is modeled on the Texas campaign to work, "we need people from Texas to come in" and show how it can be done successfully.

Does education work? Just ask George Moyer, dairyman from Myerstown.

Education, noted Moyer, is not enough. "If education would solve the problem, we wouldn't have a drug problem, either," he said.

Or ask Peter Spendelow, waste reduction specialist with the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). The Oregon DEQ has recently completed a study that examined 144 roadside litter sites.

Spendelow, working in Oregon (the first state to pass bottle bill legislation in 1971), said the study, patterned after a 1979 study he conducted as a graduate student working at the University of Washington, could show similar results. One result of the 1979 study showed that containers marked with a deposit refund "disappeared from the site," compared to nondeposit items, said Spendelow.

Results of the recent study will be available in a few months.

Oregon's Bottle Bill has been highly successful, according to studies by the Glass Packaging Institute. The institute announced that the 1995 U.S. glass recycling rate remained at 37 percent. Another institute, the Container Recycling Institute, responded by releasing the results of a survey showing that the glass recycling rate is more than twice as high in bottle bill states compared to those without a bottle bill. According to the survey, approximately two million of the total of four million tons of glass recycled in the U.S. in 1994 came from the states with a deposit system.

The U.S. lags far behind seven countries, who recycle more than 47 percent of their glass containers. The U.S. and three other European nations recycle glass bottles and jars at the rate of 37 percent or less.

That equates to millions of tons of glass not showing up in farm fields, destroying equipment and cows, and costing farmers millions of dollars in repairs, animal replacement, and wasted productivity.

But the Pennsylvania Soft Drink Association, lobbyist for 33 soft drink bottlers with facilities in Pennsylvania, opposes any bottle bill. They claim the passage of the bill will put jobs in jeopardy.

John P. Kolb Jr., vice president of human resources of the Philadelphia Coca Cola Bottling Company, testified in April at the Pennsylvania House State Government Committee Public Hearing on H.B. 922, Pennsylvania's proposed bottle bill. Speaking on behalf of the association, Kolb said the Philadelphia company he works for is the second largest minority owned business in the United States and the seventh largest Coca Cola bottler.

Kolb noted that curbside recycling, as set forth in Act 101, The Municipal Waste Planning, Recycling, and Waste Reduction Act, "is more effective than forced deposits.

"Forced deposit systems and comprehensive recycling are not compatible," Kolb told the committee. "Why? Because beverage containers are an integral part of the curbside recycling programs. Soft drink containers tend to have a high scrap value. The revenue generated from this high value helps to offset the cost of collection and recycling of materials that are not quite as valuable."

Kolb, citing a study out of Falls Church, Va., noted that beverage containers represent less than 20 percent of all recyclables collected at a typical recycling program, but generate more than 70 percent of the curbside program's revenue.

"By requiring consumers to comply with another system for the recycling of their containers, revenue will be lost, which will result in a more costly curbside program."

Kolb told the committee that a "forced deposit system would have a detrimental impact on both the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the soft drink industry" in the state. He noted that loss in sales tax revenue was "immediately apparent" in other states that enacted forced deposit systems.

In a Can Manufacturers Institute study, in 1984, the year after the last bottle bill law was enacted, "the nine deposit states lost an estimated $28 million in revenue derived from the excise taxes as a result of decreased sales under the deposit laws. The federal government lost $41 million."

He said New York lost $9.2 million in tax revenue the first year the state's deposit law went into effect and beverage sales for the state decreased 5.6 percent.

With the passage of the bill, cost of soft drinks could rise by more than $1 per case, Kolb noted. The result: possible job losses.

Kolb pointed to a 1984 study by the Can Manufacturers Institute that indicated in Connecticut, 556 employees lost their jobs in the first year of the law's enactment.

Also testifying before the committee was Rick Bloomingdale, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, representing a coalition of labor, businesses, and organizations who oppose the concept of forced deposit legislation. The coalition includes various unions and the state soft drink association, brewing companies, distributors, and others. The coalition represents approximately 50,000 Pennsylvania workers involved in the packaging, production, and transportation and sales of beverages, noted Bloomingdale.

In the soft drink association's position paper, the association insists that "major job losses in the can and glass industries can be traced directly to forced deposit laws in other states. For example, Connecticut lost 556 jobs and Michigan lost 800 skilled jobs in the first full year from the enactment of forced deposit laws."

George Moyer disagrees with that argument. Moyer, a dairy farmer in Myerstown, a staunch proponent of the bill, said many jobs were lost simply to factory automation.

"Job loss is not going to happen," said Spendelow of Oregon's Department of Environmental Quality. Actually, jobs will be created at reclamation sites, at the industries to wash and prepare the recycled bottles, and in other areas. While many initial jobs will be "grocery box boy" jobs to help collect and sort the bottles, he said, higher pay will occur in other sectors of the recycling industry.

When Oregon's Bottle Bill was first proposed to the state legislature in 1969, bottlers were opposed. But since its passage in 1971, "many people were actually pretty supportive here," said Spendelow.

The Oregon bill came on the heels of sweeping environmental legislation taking root in the early 1970s. Back then, said Spendelow, it was more of a litter issue. "People were aghast when they visited the parks on a Sunday and found it littered with thousands of bottles from the night before," and became very supportive of forced deposit legislation.

Since then, many industries have benefited from the bill and Oregon is a lot cleaner and rural areas are safe for farms and rural residents alike.

The Oregon Bottle Bill includes provisions that indicate all beer and soft drink containers must have a minimum refund value clearly marked, paid by distributor to dealer and by dealer to consumer. Minimum refund value of each container is 5 cents. Anyone may establish a container redemption center.

Mel Eckhaus, director of state legislative programs for the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, said the bureau has been "putting the pressure on all year" to get the bill passed. George Moyer and other farmers insist the time is now for farmers to get their voices heard.

Lancaster Farming has responded by printing a petition to gather signatures of people who want Pennsylvania's Bottle Bill passed. It is included in this issue.

Until then, more work will be ongoing to convince legislators of the need for a bottle bill, according to Eckhaus.

"We're going to get the signatures, county by county," he said.

Two UM Ag Field Days Scheduled This Week

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Two University of Maryland Research and Education Centers (RECs) will showcase their work on behalf of farmers and farm families at separate locations on consecutive days, July 30 and 31.

The Central Maryland REC invites residents of southern and central Maryland to attend the 47th annual field day on Wednesday (July 30) at its Upper Marlboro facility in Prince George's County.

And the Western Maryland REC welcomes Piedmont area dwellers to its annual field day on Thursday (July 31) near Keedysville in Washington County. This year's field day will mark the 20th anniversary of the center's founding.

Both field days will get under way at 8:30 a.m. with wagon tours of research plots. Early arrivals will be able to participate in three or more different tours. Noon lunch will be available in shaded areas at moderate cost. Short programs after lunch will conclude the day's activities at each location.

The Western Maryland field day will feature a hog roast, with reservations requested by 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday (July 29). Call (301) 432-2767, extension 307.

Corn By Degree (Days)

nies use and provide GDDs with other data about varieties they offer, though historically the "relative days to maturity" have been the mainstay of farmers.

But days to maturity is not a very good help to predicting when a plant variety will actually reach that stage.

Using GDD estimates can narrow down maturity very closely, without having to go the field every other day to check for other plant indicators of maturity.

Starting at 50 degrees Fahrenheit — the bottom threshold temperature for corn activity — the accumulated amount of energy usable by a plant to achieve certain stages of maturity, including maturity, can be followed during the year to help predict field work requirements for optimum harvest.

GDDs can also be used as a general indicator of which varieties of corn (and other crops that have been shown to have growth changes that closely correlate to GDD) may be most suitable for a specific location, harvest window, and use.

Dr. Greg Roth, a Penn State Extension agronomy specialist, stated in a several-year-old Extension publication, "Hybrid maturities for corn are rated either by a 'days to maturity' system or by a 'growing degree day' system."

That publication, "Latest Planting Dates For Corn Hybrids In Pennsylvania," referred to the last possible dates in the year for planting a corn variety so that it would mature before frost.

It discusses GDDs and the formula for calculating them.

A farmer who knows his daily high and low temperatures can calcualte the GDDs on his farm, track and anticipate the growth of plants.

"The days to maturity system is a relative measurement of hybrid maturity and is based on the grain moisture content of hybrids at harvest compared with check hybrids," Roth wrote.

"For example, under similar conditions, a 75-day hybrid will generally have a lower grain moisture content at harvest than a 100-day hybrid.

"The days to maturity expressed in these ratings do not actually represent the number of days needed for a hybrid to mature, since a 100-day hybrid may require 95 days to mature in a warm season and 115 days in a cool season."

With GDDs, if it requires 2,450 GDDs to attain maturity, that doesn't change, regardless of cool or warm season.

In fact, by using GDDs, a grower can know fairly well what kind of season he is experiencing while it is happening, not a month or more later.

Though the information about GDD has been around for years, its use has not been that great. Voight wants to change that because he said he believes those who use them can better plan optimum times for harvest and also because they can be used to predict insect emergences.

Two weeks ago Voight said that some of the corn in test plots he was involved in planting this spring should start tasselling this week.

At the time, with unseasonably high and dry weather, with corn leaves curled tightly and brown bottom leaves, and with plants stunted and looking about ready to die instead of advancing into a reproductive stage, his prediction based on GDD seemed as though he was putting too much reliance on an estimate.

Perhaps with the long cool spring/summer seasons, and the heat only picking up relatively recently, it didn't seem as though corn was developing to have much maturation.

He made the prediction and it came through.

What it means is that for dairy producers who need to build up feed stocks for their herd, there is a lot of short corn and silage and grain production should be cut dramatically from last year.

While corn prices are currently relatively low, several people this week suggested that dairy producers may want to purchase grain needs now in advance of any price increases, in order to cover their shortness in home-grown feed.

But what Voight's come-true prediction also means is that using GDDs actually works well, much better than days to maturity in narrowing down when things will happen with the plants.

Corn growers who haven't been in their fields in the area should also be interested to know that corn rootworm beetles have infested many fields, and their emergence and activities can also be tracked and predicted using GDDs.

As more and more research is done to correlate GDDs with plant and insect activities, the ability to monitor them at home should help farmers better plan their activities.

The publication that Roth helped to author was mostly concerned with helping farmers figure out which corn hybrids would fit in their fields so as to reduce the risk of frost-kill before maturity.

Color-coded maps of Pennsylvania are included in the publication that correlate colors to weeks in the spring during which a hybrid could be planted with only a 25-percent chance of frost before maturity.

If the weeks when frost kill historically hits a farm field can be determined, and a farmer has access to historic daily temperature variations for his area, he can calculate GDDs for his farm fields and what varieties will mature before frost.

The formula for determining GDD is simple: the daily high temperature is added to the daily low temperature and divided by two; 50 is then subtracted from that number.

"50" is used in the equation because at 50 degrees, corn plants are basically dormant. Any temperature below 50 is considered effectively to be 50.

Likewise, a corn plant generally doesn't grow any faster at temperatures above 86 degrees, so for any recorded daily high temperatures above 86 should be considered as 86 degrees in the equation.

GDDs are cumulative.

For accumulation of growing degree days for corn, 50 or less would equal zero accumulation. Likewise 86 or above would equal 86.

In the seed company literature, the GDDs are generally reported along with the relative days to maturity. For most varieties of 85 days to 120 days, the GDD is usually above 2,000 and less than 2,800.

Some are very close in terms of relative days, but the decision of whether to harvest or not to harvest on a specific day can be determined if GDDs are tracked.

Voight's prediction of tasselling

(Turn to Page A21)

Delbert Voight, Lebanon County Extension agronomy agent, stands in between corn variety test rows to show the difference in growth and response to growing degree days. Based on his recording of growing degree days for the area, he is able to predict within a day or so when certain stages of growth should occur. By tracking GDDs, and knowing the research determined levels for physiological changes, as well as following the weather reports, he was able to predict about two weeks in advance about what day the corn would be in tassel. By continuing to collect and record GDDs, he will be able to predict maturity of corn for harvesting. The pratical application of using GDDs as a farm management tool is that it can significantly help plan work, and provide a better sense of control over activities on the farm.

From the left, Del Voight, Lebanon County Extension agronomy agent, shows a corn rootworm beetle to farm owner Tom Krall, and how to determine the difference in sexes. By using growing degree days, it is possible to predict insect activity for better anticipation and preparation for control.

Corn By Degree (Days)

was done on the basis of known GDDs of the test plot varieties and by tracking local GDDs.

(A tassel on corn is the male reproductive part, whereas the silks are the female parts. The pollen comes from the tassells, falls down to the silks and travels down the silks to where it combines with the female part in the ovary and forms a seed which develops into a kernel. If the silks are too dry, or insect activity destroys them, it this can prevent proper fertilization and thus reduce the number of kernels on an ear of corn.)

He said he thinks that many more people should be using it instead of the relative days to maturity because they can be more precise in planning, planting and harvesting. Increased precision can mean less wasted time and fewer missed opportunities.

In the publication, Roth wrote that GDDs are not universal in reporting by companies, so farmers should be aware of industry inconsistencies and ask for the GDD basis.

"Hybrid growing degree day ratings are available from most seed corn companies. Not all companies are consistent in their calculation of GDD requirements.

"Some seed companies, for example, use growing degree days from emergence to physiological maturity.

"In this instance, GDD ratings should be increased by about 150 to be comparable to those calculated from planting.

"When GDD requirements are not provided, they can be estimated from days to maturity ratings."

The publication contains a chart for rough conversions.

Roth also warned that there are other factors affecting the growth of corn.

"Growing degree day requirements to mature a specific hybrid may also vary between seasons because of factors other than temperature that affect corn development."

Drought for example would seem to be a factor.

"That variation, however, will usually be much less than the season-to-season variation in the days to maturity system."

GDDs are also being recommended for pest management, especially with Integrated Pest Management (IPM).

By following the GDDs, the emergence of certain pests can be predicted fairly certain. That means that any field scouting to check on population levels can be better scheduled, and control spraying can be much better anticipated for effectiveness.

Lists of activity GDDs for some insect pests of trees, ornamentals, grasses and row crops are available through Extension and can be used to predict emergences and plant injury times.

With insects, the activity base temperature (for corn it was 50 degrees) is different for genus and species. There are some computer programs that can more accurately predict GDD than the simple daily high and low temperatures.

For more information on using GDDs as an effective tool for the farm, contact a local Extension office.

Planted at the same time as the other varieties in a test plot, this corn variety requires more growing degree days to mature.

This corn variety requires fewer growing degree days to reach this stage of tassel development than some others. Using seed company data of GDDs, and keeping a record of local GDDs, it is not difficult to make better judgements on crop maturity requirements than by using the standard "relative days to maturity." By understanding specific historic season trends, determining which corn varieties to select for a specific farm, even field, can be done better.

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The lady, Tashas Dunker Tara, as far as judge Dale Olver was concerned, was "very dairy."

In fact, Josh VanTassel's four-yr. old cow merited being set apart from her Holstein and Brown Swiss counterparts at the Somerset County Junior Dairy Show, to be named Supreme Champion.

At first, nobody knew which way the judge was headed because he commented highly on Destiny Stardom Kisses, the grand champion Holstein's smooth udder attachment. She is owned by Philip Petenbrink of Meyersdale.

Then Olver said that Four D Heidi Erica, Adam Coleman's grand champion Brown Swiss five-yr. old cow, had exceptional udder attachment and beautifully open rib.

Although the 15-year old, home-schooled VanTassel showed little emotion, his mom, Kimberly VanTassel, the mother of eight — soon to be nine — children, shared that it was Josh's goal one day to have a supreme champion at the county show. Obviously, inside he was feeling good.

Ernest VanTassel, Josh's dad operates the family farm of 163 acres near Friedens and intensively grazes the milking herd of some 90 registered Jersey cows.

Kimberly, who saw her son Ezra's cow named the Jersey reserve champion, said the older kids help with barn chores in the morning before the family gathers for a time of devotions. They attend the Somerset Christian Missionary Alliance Church.

After that, the kids do assigned household tasks and finally, settle into doing several hours of school work when school is underway.

Josh, 15, has decided on a future career as a constitutional lawyer following college, according to his mother.

Matt Mosholder's senior three-yr. old was the Holstein reserve champion. Sarah Saylor's junior-three-yr. old was the reserve Brown Swiss champion.

In Guernsey, Eric Murray's junior-two-yr. old was the grand champion and Justin Kaufman's spring calf was reserve.

Heat, more than anything made the day tough on both the animals and the people. At 4 p.m. the mercury at a local bank was still registering 93 degrees, so earlier, it was probably higher.

"It's a good show," Olver commented, "but the heat is having a definite effect on some animals."

Larry Lohr was the ringmaster.

Somerset County Jackpot Show Held Recently

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The Fourth of July fireworks and Independence Day celebrations began to wane when the Somerset County Beef Producers and Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association held the Somerset County Jackpot Show.

Out of a field of 87 steers and 15 heifers, judge Steve Taylor from Indiana picked Sara Campbell's heifer as the show's premier champion.

"I feel excited and surprised," the 11-year-old Greene County girl said about the animal, a MAx breed shown in class two with a hip height of 50 inches.

From Sycamore, the Graysville Middle School student's parents are James and Jackie Campbell.

Nicole Fairman's steet that swept class five and division two, Taylor named the grand champion steer. He stood 50¾ inches at the hip and weighed 1,200 pounds.

Fairman, 11, lives with her family at "Bibs and Lace Limousin," located near Creekside in Indiana County.

The reserve champion steer belonged to 13-year-old Jana Cessna from Clearville, Bedford County. The ANx breed fellow stood 50½ inches at the hip and topped class eight and division three.

Jay Covell had the reserve champion heifer.

Erin Livengood was the county exhibitor champion and Bill Sines was the reserve county exhibitor.

Ryan Seiler was first in club calf and Tim Bishop, second.

"I am very, very impressed," remarked Taylor, "with the quality of the kids. They are the kind of kids that make you proud to be in this business."

Taylor observed that the exhibitors' work ethic learned at home was obvious. They chose to show — it wasn't forced on them by the parents, although the projects were fully supported by the parents.

Erin Livengood was the county exhibitor champion at the Somerset County Jackpot Show.

Taylor noted in particular that three newcomers to showing were in the same class and, despite a lack of experience, did an outstanding job of controlling their steers.

He remarked, pointedly, that the rigors he had put one little girl through while her steer was being judged didn't dampen her spirit. She kept smiling through the entire routine.

The animals, as well, impressed Taylor. He said their impressive quality got started with good seed stock, but through a good management program it was continued.

The skittishness of the steers in class nine brought out Taylor's amiable sense of humor. He suggested that he should get "combat pay" for moving amongst the fidgety animals to get his job done.

Missy Leiden, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Queen who lives in Cambria County, a junior majoring in family and consumer science at the nearby Indiana University of Pennsylvania, graced the event by presenting ribbons and trophies to the recipients.

At the Gerald Leiden Farms, St. Lawrence, the beef operation of Missy's family includes some 300 head of Angus Charlais cattle, she said.

The beef producers, this year, removed the old sawdust from the floor of the show arena and replaced it with limestone sand. It seemed to work well.

During the show the dust was greatly reduced. Formerly, when the sawdust was dampened for a show the result was nuisance wet spots at various intervals. The new material, the producers hope, will eliminate the problem.

Keeping it clean will be an easier job, they said, when the show was over.

Following is a partial list of winners.

Empire Farm Days Features Expanded Dairy Focus

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. — More of everything for dairy producers is featured at this year's Empire Farm Days — more trade show exhibits and more new information, according to Show Manager Melanie Wickham.

The annual outdoor farm show will be held Aug. 5-7 at the Rodman Lott and Sons Farm near Seneca Falls, N.Y.

An expanded schedule of educational programs for milk producers is available this year, all sponsored by Agway, Inc. and coordinated by Holstein World/HFW Communications, Inc. Presenters include top dairymen not only from the Northeast but also from Wisconsin and California.

Also taking part are leading educators, researchers and industry experts. Among the highlights will be Floyd Baumann, owner of the world record cow with more than 63,000 pounds of milk in a single lactation. Also leading sessions will be Dr. David Galton of Cornell along with Dr. Charles Sniffen and Everett Thomas of the Miner Institue in Chazy, N.Y.

Topics include managing the dairy herd for maximum profit and productivity on Tuesday, including a presentation by Dr. Ben Turner, veterinarian and dairyman. Day two, Aug. 6, focuses on the transition cow, moving her from the dry lot to the top producing string while minimizing metabolic disorders. On day three, Aug. 7, a leading employee management specialist, Steve Duea, is featured along with a complete program on corn, from seed to feed bunk.

"We're delighted to help bring this cutting edge information to dairy producers," said Roger Crary, vice president — farm sales & nutrition, Agway Ag Products, River Valley Division in Syracuse, N.Y. "Dairy owners, managers and employees from all size operations will benefit from the presentations and everyone is welcome."

On Tuesday, Aug. 5, Robert A. Fischer, Jr., vice president of Agway Ag Products, will open the proceedings and welcome the audience.

The programs begin at 11 a.m. on Aug. 5 and 6 and at 10:30 a.m. on August 7. Dairy producers attending will receive a picnic lunch and participate in drawings for prizes and cash. All of the dairy education programs will take place in the Dairy Seminar Center, a spacious tent located between E. Seneca Acres and E. Make-A-Buck Avenues.

Another feature of the dairy program is the introduction of the New York Dairy Initiative, according to Charles C. Elrod, senior extension associate, Cornell University.

A press conference at noon on Tuesday, Aug. 5, will lay out the details of this new effort on behalf of dairy producers in New York State.

More than 40 business firms are joining with the extension service to provide on-farm business consulting to dairy producers. CEOs of some of the Empire State's leading firms will participate.

"The Empire Farm Days Dairy Profit Seminars make a great place to introduce this important new opportunity to the dairy industry," Elrod said.

Meyersdale Farmer's Senior Three-Year-Old Wins At Somerset Holstein Show

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The grand champion at the Somerset District Holstein Show held on July 16, at the Somerset County Fairgrounds, was Elk Lick Kittie Pans Flip, owned by Willard Maust, Sunny Vale Road, Meyersdale.

She's a daughter out of Cook-Farm Starbuck Flip and Elk-Lick Kitt Magic Pansy, born on Feb. 16, 1994. She was also the best animal bred and owned.

The lifetime farmer who grew up farming and at age 69 hates to think of quitting dairy business, said: "The dam of this senior three-year-old is the only three-generation home bred 'excellent' cow that we have.

"The dam has over 200,000 pounds of lifetime milk. Her last lactation at 13 years is 23,000 inc. for 305 days.

"She's due again in mid-winter," Maust, who has the true heart of a dairyman, said.

"I don't believe I'm in the dairy business just to do something," he said, reflectively, adding, "God has given me this special interest in genetics of livestock."

With his wife, Ella, Maust owns Elk Lick Holsteins, an operation of some 55-60 registered milking Holsteins, and markets the product through Milk Marketing, Inc.

They have been doing DHIA testing since 1953, he said.

Matt Mosholder's Mossys Choice Julia was named the reserve champion by judge Robert Morrell from Cochranton, Crawford County.

On the previous day, the senior three-year, in the Somerset County Junior Dairy Show was also the reserve Holstein champion. In the class, Morrell gave her the highest marks for best udder.

Born on Sept. 20, 1993, Julia's sire and dam are The Choice of Mark Adam-ET TL and RCB Blackstar Joy-El.

The Rockwood area teen-ager belongs to the Milkshakers 4-H Club.

Ben Miller, Boswell, got honorable mention with a junior two-year-old that, in the class, had the best udder.

Delvin Mast, Grantsville (Garrett Co.), Md., a face regularly seen at the annual show, was named premier breeder and premier exhibitor in the four and a-half hour event, with his 12 Holstein animals.

Eleven of them were milking cows and heifers that were entered in the various classes and a spring yearling.

Mast said he likes the Somerset show for a number of reasons. Besides its nearness — under 20 miles — to his own backyard (or shall we say barnyard), the farmers who show their livestock here, not only are personal acquaintances, but Mast knows the animals, unfailingly, are of a good quality.

Mast also shows his animals in the Garrett County, Md. Holstein show, he said.

Dan Ream, Markleton, in the senior show, was the junior premier breeder and premier exhibitor and Philip Petenbrink Garrett, had the best animal bred and owned.

Various persons commented that Morrell's acceptance of an invitation to the Somerset District Show was an honor.

A man who engaged both exhibitors and spectators with his ready wit, Morrell, reportedly, usually works the bigger state and national shows.

Apparently, his first trip here was made because he had gotten wind of its reputation for having animals of a good quality, according to the man himself.

Mert Maust, Mark Ream and John Fox were on the show committee.

Carol Brown did the catalogs. Stacey Ream organized trophies and Bob Brown, director of the Somerset County Cooperative Extension, did the announcing. Jessica Lynch, dairy princess, presented trophies and ribbons.

Following are the top three in each class:

Spring calf: 1. Dan Ream, 2. Hilary Knepper, 3. Shannon McWilliams.
Winter calf: 1. Melinda Thomas, 2. Jessica Rose, 3. Matt Mosholder.
Fall calf: 1. Cassandra Knepper, 2. Jessica Rose, 3. Dan Ream.

Khan Daughter Tops National Heifer Sale

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — AU Tildys Khan Taffi-ET, a Jersey yearling daughter of Greenwood Sooner Khan, topped the 1997 National Heifer Sale in Indianapolis, bringing $9,000.

The 1997 National Heifer Sale averaged $2,629.59 on 49 head. The sale was held June 29 in Indianapolis in conjunction with the annual meetings of the American Jersey Cattle Association and National All-Jersey, Inc.

The top seller was consigned by Kurt and Carol Alberti, Wendell, Idaho, and will make her new home with Coppini Lane Jerseys, Ferndale, Calif.

"Taffi's" dam, AU Tillies Legend Tildy, EX-93%, has records to 6-0 305 27,220 4.9% 1,326 4.0% 1,102. "Tildy's" mature equivalent (m.e.) average on seven lactations is 23,454 lbs. Milk, 1,104 lbs. Fat and 913 lbs. Protein.

Walden Farm Angel Barber Seeker, consigned by Jo Grady Armstrong, East Hardwick, Vt., was the second-highest selling animal. Coppini Lane Jerseys bid $6,100 for the 9-month-old daughter of WF/L&M Duncan Barber-ET.

"Seeker's" dam, Walden Farm Berretta Deity Angel, has a first lactation projected m.e. average of 23,270 lbs. milk, 958 lbs. fat and 823 lbs. protein.

Eight percent of the gross sale price from animals sold in the National Heifer Sale is used to fund the Jersey youth programs. Co-chairmen of the sale were Keith Hubbell, Brownsville, Ind., and Anthonty Dalessandro, Richmond, Ind. The sale was managed by Jersey Marketing Service, with Merlin Woodruff of Ohio as the auctioneer.

Tall, Presidential Tasks Await These Farmers

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — "This was a chance, I thought, to prove that careful husbandry could restore land to its original fertility . . . Although we haven't achieved the greatest success . . . there are enough lush fields to assure me that I shall leave the place better than I found it."

That quote by the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower in "At Ease: Stories I Tell to Friends" indicates how much he cared for the land.

It was to his farm in Gettysburg — the only place he and his wife, Mamie, ever called home — that the couple went after the 1961 inauguration of John F. Kennedy.

The Eisenhowers had bought the small dairy farm just outside Gettysburg in 1950 from Allen Redding with the hopes of retiring to it, but they were to travel many more trails before that became a reality.

Today there are three farm outside of Gettysburg — all part of the Eisenhower legacy left to the people of the United States — where the land is still tilled and cattle raised.

The job falls to Wilbur and Dolores Martin of Martin Acres of Gettysburg and their sons Sam and Eric Martin.

The Martins recently won the 1997 Adams County Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award.

Wilbur and Dolores moved to their farm of 104 acres in 1969 after he had worked as a steel fabricator which involved a lot of overtime, in addition to farming a smaller property at Two Taverns.

He said, "I figured if I'm going to kill myself, I'm going to do it as my own boss."

Wilbur explained that the family rented the Eisenhower Farms when the federal government "Advertised it and we had to go in and apply for it just like you do a job. I understand when I first applied for it there were 30 some farmers that applied to get the farm and I was selected. They gave me only one farm to start with and I had that for a year."

He's not sure exactly what year he added the Eisenhower Farm to his operation, but knows it was in the early 1980s.

He was later asked to take over the other two farms. There are 489 acres he now rents on the three farms, including 150 acres of pasture.

But then a glitch in the way the farms were rented cropped up and they were put out for bid.

"You know how farmers talk. 'This guy's bidding on it and This guy's bidding on it' so by that time we got into the deer problem. I was hesitant to even bid on it because they were eating up all the profits . . . so I got to fighting it with the help of a lot of neighbors and we had a meeting with all of the big people out of Philadelphia. There must have been 30 people there from the Department of Interior and, of course, we (farmers) sat back along the wall like a bunch of bumps on a log."

But, he finally spoke up and told them if they didn't do something about the deer problem there would be no farming on the Eisenhower Farms. "We couldn't keep putting our money into it . . . then the next year they gave it to me rent-free just so we'd farm it until they decided on what to do with the deer. It was nothing to go down there and see 200 in a bunch."

From left, Eric Martin and brother Sam Martin work Martin Acres in Adams County along with their father Wilbur Martin. They also farm several other properties, including the three Eisenhower Farms. Anyone who has stood on the tower on the Gettysburg Battlefield has looked over the Eisenhower Farms.

The government eventually shot many of the deer — a story that made national headlines — and Wilbur said, "Last year I planted corn down there and I got a decent crop and it looks pretty good this year too."

While Ike and Mamie lived on the main farm, he had a herd of prize-winning Black Angus.

Pa. Holstein Association Sponsors Bedford County-Based Judging School

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Young people from all over Pennsylvania traveled to Bedford County for a Pennsylvania Holstein Association-sponsored Junior Judging School.

According to executive director of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, Ken Raney, there were 65 participants ranging in age from 10 to 19. "The Holstein Association has been sponsoring these schools for 20 years," said Raney. "We found Bedford to be a good spot this year."

Judging of cattle was held at the Mark Yoder farm near Imler; Bernetta Gable's Snider Homestead farm in New Enterprise, and Rick Deputy and Wayne Koontz, both located in Friends Cove.

Yoder and Deputy have Holsteins, Koontz has a herd of purebred Jerseys, and both Snider's Guernseys and Milking Shorthorns from the James Young herd were judged at the Snider farm.

Teaching judging techniques was Jason Myers of New Windsor, Md. Myers is a dairy farmer and has judged at 4-H, county and state competitions. He is president of the Maryland Holstein Association.

Helping to organize the event in Bedford County were Wayne and Rick Cessna, both directors to the Bedford County Holstein Association.

"It is an event that is both educational and fun," said Raney. "Anyone can participate. We have a registration fee but there are no additional charges."

All participants were treated to a night at Clara's Best Western in Bedford complete with a cookout and swimming.

Amick Honored By PA DHIA

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dean Amick, director of field operations at Pa. DHIA, had the distinction of winning the first ever Dean Amick Award of Excellence as well as being the first inductee into the Pa. DHIA Hall of Fame.

The Dean Amick Award of Excellence was initiated just this year by the technicians association to honor a person who demonstrates outstanding leadership qualities in DHIA along with maintaining an excellent community spirit.

The committee found it very appropriate to give this prestigious award to whom the award was named. This is a rotating award and will be given to a select person each year.

Dean Amick began his career over 42 years ago as a technician in Lancaster County, building an outstanding circuit of over 90 herds over a 16-year period.

In 1970, Dean transferred to State College to work for Pennsylvania DHIA to manage the newly opened central milk testing lab, one of the first centralized and electronically equipped DHIA laboratories in the world.

While managing the lab, Dean had the opportunity to serve as the first president of the North American Lab Association and served on the advisory committee for five years. While serving as lab manager, Dean was responsible for supervising lab staff, testing process supervision, quality control supervision, equipment performance evaluation and state and national field staff contact.

After almost 20 years of excellent service in that capacity and after earning recognition as the foremost DHIA lab manager in North American, Dean transferred to the newly formed department of support services where he successfully developed many new functions, including a sample transportation system that was less expensive than the previous system. He went on to establish and coordinate 92 truck stops throughout Pennsylvania, which consists of five truck routes.

In 1991 to present, Dean has served as director of field operations. These job duties include supervising and being responsible for over 160 employees.

Currently Dean is an Amateur Softball Association district commissioner responsible for supervising a seven-county adult and youth softball program involving 540 teams and 9,000 players.

This position of the last 24 years requires the coordinating of all local tournaments leading to the state and national championship play. Currently he also holds the office of vice president for the Amateur Softball Association of Pennsylvania.

Past development projects completed by Dean includes the development of shipping containers which maintained quality and saved Pennsylvania DHIA $20,000 per year which are now purchased by three other states. He also assisted in the development of the first computerized milk laboratory in the United States, data entry department at the central milk testing lab, new computer programs for processing all DHIA records and the MUN program as we know it today.

Past awards and honors include being inducted in 1980 as a player and manager to the Pennsylvania Softball Hall of Fame, outstanding supervisor performance award in 1966, twelve consecutive years of DHIA merit awards, outstanding contribution to the North American Lab Manager Association in 1987 and a recipient of the Penn State Dairymen Club awards.

Dean and his wife Shirley reside in State College. They have two grown children, Jolene and Dean Jr., and have one grandson, David.

All employees of PA DHIA would like to thank Dean for his long-term commitment to Pa. DHIA. The great wealth of knowledge and experience that Dean gives to his job benefits Pa. DHIA in a big way.

Dean Amick, Pa.DHIA director of field operations, receives the first annual Dean Amick Award of Excellence.

main farm. "I have a Black Angus herd down there" and then he chuckles — one of the herd is red.

"They (officials) said something to me, but I said, 'Hey, I bred the cows to a black bull' but I think there's a red factor in one of the cows. There is a Red Angus," he explained.

He has 37 head of Black Angus in the herd.

Wilbur goes on to explain that the farms are numbered one, two and three. "Farm one is where Ike lived — it is bounded by Red Rock Road, Pump Station Road, Millerstown Road, and Old Route 15. Farm two is right beside the first one and then the third one. They're all in a line," he said.

He has some of his 240 head of cattle in four different pastures on the Eisenhower Farms.

The partnership that includes his sons has about 80 milk cows. Replacement heifers and a couple Holstein steers and 34 calves, in addition to the Black Angus.

Wilbur notes that anyone wanting a good view of the farms can get it from the tower on the battlefield. "Everything is strip farming," he said of the farms' fields.

But that's not all the land the Martins farm. They also rent land from several other properties so that with their own farm and the Eisenhower Farms they operate on 804 acres.

They plant soybeans, corn, wheat, hay, and oats which in most cases is fed back to their animals.

He said he must send copies of soil tests to the Department of Interior "so that they can see that we're keeping up our end of the deal."

As Ike wanted to "leave the place better than I found it." The Martins too are interested in protecting the land.

They built a free-stall barn and every day thley hauled manure to the fields. But when the snow got too deep they started putting it our behind the barn and depending on weather conditions sometimes they ended up with a two-foot hole in the ground.

Then the Martins signed up for Chesapeake Bay Program assistance in May of 1992. They were looking for the technical and financial assistance in planning and constructing a manure storage pit.

"We realized we had a problem with stacking manure and milkhouse waste, not to mention the runoff," Wilbur said.

Sam remembers looking at various options and touring different types of pits.

The pit they built looks like concrete. Wilbur said, "And we really like it. When it gets full we empty it and when it rains it washes the sides and it looks clean. It's been three years and we're really tickled with it.

"We try to get the manure into the ground 12 hours after we haul it. In fact I follow the manure truck, when he's spreading it. We have someone come and do that," Wilbur said.

Wilbur added that he grew up on a farm and started farming intensively at the age of 16. He remembers that conservation was something that they just did. "When I bought this farm I just did what my father taught us," he said.

"You want to do something difficult, try farming across corn rows on the contour while sitting on a steel seat of an old M Farmall. That's conservation," Wilbur said with a laugh.

When they entered the Bay Program, the Martins didn't have to make many changes in the fields because they were already doing it right.

"We've gotten farms offered to us because the owners saw how we treat the ground," Sam said.

Field Day Cancelled

Because of drought conditions, the field day, scheduled for Middletown, DE, by Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service on July 29 has been canceled. The September 4 field day in Lancaster will proceed as scheduled.

Lancaster Holds 4-H Dairy Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — The Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Show was held Wednesday at the Solanco Fairgrounds.

The show is a prerequisite in Lancaster County to district level and state competition, although a number of entries had already exhibited at the Southeastern District show in Lebanon County the previous week to qualify for the state show in September.

Type judge of the show was Jed Beshore, while Sue Beshore was showmanship judge. They are from New Cumberland.

The fitting judge was Tom McCauley, of Elizabethtown.

In the Jersey show, Stephanie Donough of Willow Street showed the senior and grand and reserve senior and reserve grand champions of the show.

Her senior 2-year-old, Royal Queen Impreial Lanita, bred and owned, was the senior and grand champion, while her 4-year-old, Royal Queen Juno Laurane, was the reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

The junior champion Jersey was a spring yearling, SSF Trader Erin, owned by Timothy Donough, also of Willow Street.

Morgan Thomas of Lancaster showed the reserve junior champion, a winter calf, Meadow Winds Tops Whisper-ET.

In the Guernsey show, Jason Henisee of Columbia showed the senior and grand champion Guernsey, a senior 2-year-old, Maple Lane DP Dana.

The junior and reserve grand champion was a fall yearling, King & Queen GH Daffodial-Twin shown by Andrew Smith of Denver.

The reserve junior champion was also a fall yearling, King & Queen GD Dandelion Twin, owned by Andrew's brother Brian Smith. It was also the best bred and owned animal.

In the Brown Swiss show, Lancaster County Dairy Princess Elizabeth Smith of King & Queen Farm in Denver showed the grand and both junior champion animals.

Her aged cow, King & Queen Simon Angel, a 7-year-old, was named senior and grand champion. A pair of fall calves won her the junior and reserve junior champion rosettes and trophies.

Her fall calf, King & Queen Sensational Lady was named junior champion and was also the best bred and owned, while her King & Queen Challenge Whitley was reserve junior champion and reserve best bred and owned of the show.

Her brother Andrew Smith showed the reserve grand champion, a senior 2-year-old, King & Queen Leverage Angelina, bred by Elizabeth.

In the Holstein show, Denise Bollinger of Manheim showed the grand champion, an aged cow, Darr-Lynn Mandingo Vanessa.

The reserve senior and grand champion Holstein was a senior 3-year-old, Hilltop-Heritage Bstar Gift, owned by Heather Oberholtzer, of Elizabethtown.

The junior champion was a fall yearling shown by Benjamin Welk, of Quarryville, while the reserve junior champion was a fall calf, owned by Lindsey Howard, of Willow Street.

In the fitting contest the evening prior, in the junior division, Lindsey Howard was first, followed by Crystal Brubaker and Timothy Donough.

In the senior division fitting contest, Brent Oberholtzer was first, followed by Denise Bollinger and Heather Oberholtzer.

In the showmanship contest, held prior to the Holstein show, in the 8-10 year-old division, Blaker Brubaker was first, followed by Aaron Trimble and Cheryl Hershey.

In the 11-13 year-old division, Daniel Bollinger was first, followed by Benjamin Welk and Lindsey Howard.

In the 14-18 year-old division,

Nominations Due All American Pot O' Gold Sale

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Nominations are due August 19 to be considered as a consignment for the Pot O' Gold Sale held during the All-American show and sale in Louisville, Kentucky.

Only the best heifers are considered for this sale, held each year.

A West Coast Pot O' Gold sale will be held in conjunction with the Western National activities.

Only juniors are allowed to bid on Pot O' Gold animals, and they are eligible to purchase only one heifer each year. Juniors may buy the animals individually or form partnerships to bid on Pot O' Gold animals.

Heifers purchased at Pot O' Gold sales are then eligible to compete in the Pot O' Gold contest after completing their first lactations.

The top-selling animal at the 1996 All American Pot O' Gold Sale was Auburnvue Berretta Kelsey consigned by Keith Glover and James Payne Jr., Greensboro, Ala. Traci Ferreira, Lemoore, Calif. paid $3,650 for the 14-month-old open yearling. "Kelsey" had a parent average of +1,249M, +40F, +54P, +2.2 Type and +324 PTI.

Nominations should be directed to Jersey Marketing Services at (614) 861-3636 who will make the final selections.

Western National Jersey Show

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The Western National Jersey show is scheduled to be held Friday, Sept. 5 in Puyallup, in conjunction with the Puyallup Fair.

Eric Lyon, Toledo, Iowa is to judge the Jersey classes beginning at 10 a.m.

The Great Western Jersey Futurity and Western National Junior Jersey Show are to also take place during the open show. The futurity class is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. and the junior show classes precede open classes.

The Western National Sale will also be held on Sept. 5 beginning at 7 p.m. Contact Jersey Marketing Service of Reynoldsburg, Ohio at (614) 861-3636 for consignment or catalog information.

Kimberton Community Fair Holds Aryshire Competition

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — In Aryshire competition at the Kimberton Community Fair on Monday, some of the same names from past competitions kept resurfacing.

In the open show and in 4-H competition, Craig Noland took champion honors with a 3-year-old Trident Minerva. Noland also showed a senior calf to take reserve honors in the junior show and 4-H champion in the junior show.

His brother Kevin took the 4-H reserve champion honors in the senior show.

The two brothers, another brother Brian, and a sister Becky are the children of Rob and Sharon Nolan who operate Dreamnol Ayrshires in Cocranville.

Seth Wolfgang, 19, showed 5-year-old Mars-Haven Heligo Sprinkel for the reserve placing in the Ayrshire open show.

Seth and siblings Amy Wolfgang, Brenda Wolfgang, and Karen Sterner operate Amber Knoll in Schwenksville and have been consistent winners in Ayrshire competition.

Eureka Farms had a string of winners with 11 head from their herd in Pottstown. Su-K Regal Pearly was named junior champion

A 3-year-old Trident Minerva clinched the champion Ayrshire title at Kimberton Open Show. Kevin Nolan shows the champion Ayrshire for his brother Craig.

Seth Wolfgang shows 5-year-old Mars-Haven Heligo Sprinkel, which took reserve placing in the Ayrshire open show.

No doubt the youngest exhibitor at Kimberton Community Fair is 4-month-old Abby, daughter of Jonathan and Karen Sterner of Bectoldsville. Her 3-month-old calf named Jill is from the Wolfgang herd.

Huffs Clinch Championships In Junior And Senior Jersey Kimberton Shows

LOU ANN GOOD

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — Kimberton Community Fair and Jersey breeds are synonomous.

"There's lots of good competition with quality Jersey breed. This is where whole family's enjoy showing and do a good job at it, but it makes my job a lot harder," said Jane Pepple, who served as judge of the 81 entry show on Thursday night.

Brian and Patrica Huff of Cochranville took top honors in both junior and senior shows. Junior champion of the show was WRF Jude Dime and senior champion was WRF Noble Liza. Patricia has been showing champions for years with a small string of Jerseys. But four years ago she and her husband purchased a Jersey herd from Canada and now milk 70 cows. The junior champion is a daughter from the Canadian herd.

Showing a senior yearling named Top-O-Hill Imperial Thread, Mildred Seeds took the reserve junior champion female. Seeds also showed the reserve champion in the senior open show. Seeds has been showing a string of champions for 45 years and was back despite undergoing recent surgery and seven weeks of radiation for cancer treatment.

"I couldn't do it if it wasn't for my 4-H kids," she said. Although her right arm is paralyzed, she was in the show ring again and again with her 20-head herd and doing as impressive job as ever.

Four-H competition in the junior show was clinched by Meridith Bailey who leases Admiral Peaches of Top-O-Hill, which is one of Mildred Seeds' Jerseys. It's 14-year-old Meredith's fourth year in showing. She is the daughter of Jane and Bernard Bailey ow West

Huffs Clinch Championships

Chester, where they are known for their lineback cattle.

Both grand champion reserve junior and senior 4-H champions went to Patrick Jenkins who showed a junior calf named WRF Terror Emma, which is from his Aunt Patricia Huff's herd, who won junior champion.

Eleven-year-old Patrick is from Toughkenamon. With the same heifer, he had won at the Lebanon show a few weeks ago.

Robert Petrovich of Cochranville took the 4-H grand champion honors in the senior division.

A partial listing of show results will be published in next week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

IPM To Be Highlighted At Field Day

CELEERYVILLE, Ohio — Whether you farm or just enjoy what farmers produce, effective, environmentally sound pest control is an important issue.

Scientists are studying Integrated Pest Management, or IPM, at the Muck Crops Branch in Celeryville, Ohio. They're developing new, innovative pest control methods and will be showcasing their results at the Muck Crops Field Day, July 31.

The branch is at 4875 State Route 103 South in Huron County, about two miles south of Willard, Ohio. It's one of the 10 outlying branches of Ohio State University's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. It focuses on fresh-market salad vegetables — lettuce, carrots, onions and more — grown on soil that's high in organic matter.

IPM relies on a wide range of methods — such as crop rotation, cultural practices and, as necessary, limited pesticide use — to control pests. The goal is to use fewer pesticides.

"We will be demonstrating Dr. Casey Hoy's research on insect growth regulation as a method of controlling maggots on scallions or green onions," said Bill Evans, branch manager. "We will be sharing with growers and others interested in muck crops the current research at the branch." Hoy is an entomologist who specializes in IPM on vegetable crops.

Evans said research shows that insect growth regulation is a powerful control method but is relatively unused. Also, it leaves virtually no chemical residue on crops.

"Using growth regulation could significantly reduce the amount of pesticides used to produce green onions," Evans said. "This is another example of the IPM strategies that everyone is moving toward. It's no longer an accepted practice to spray your crops each week to control insects, whether they need it or not. We work to utilize weather data as well as other forms of detecting the presence of pests, such as traps."

Evans said the field day should be of interest to vegetable growers in Ohio and surrounding states as well as home vegetable gardeners or anyone interested in crop production.

The Muck Crops Branch is celebrating its 49th anniversary this year. It is the oldest and smallest OARDC branch and is located in the heart of Ohio's commercial salad vegetable production region. The field day is an excellent opportunity to see recent innovations and equipment upgrades, Evans said.

Admission is free and open to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to noon. The program will be held rain or shine. In case of rain, Evans said smaller group presentations will be held indoors on the same topics. For more information, call (419) 935-1201 or send e-mail to (evans.346@osu.edu).

REINHOLDS (Lancaster Co.) — King and Queen Farm finally has a real princess living on it.

At the Reinholds 91-acre farm, Thomas Smith is king and his wife Dale is queen. Their 19-year-old daughter was recently crowned the Lancaster County dairy princess—a dream come true for her father who always wanted her to fill the role of dairy princess.

Two brothers, Andrew and Brian, are just as thrilled as their father to have their sister selected as dairy princess. An older sister, Mary, is married to Andy Sims.

Although Elizabeth shared her father's dream of becoming a dairy princess, she postponed the event longer than most contestants "until it seemed like the right time." A time when she could be most effective to the dairy industry.

Poised to begin her second year of college at the Penn State Berks Campus, Elizabeth plans to use the pointers she receives as a communication major to represent the dairy industry.

Elizabeth is well-qualified to represent the dairy industry. Milk has always been her drink by choice. She is intent on helping women realize the severity of osteoporosis that results from not including enough dairy products in their diets during their growing and young adult years.

Until 1988, the Smiths farmed in Allentown, New Jersey. It was difficult to move from the farm that had been in the family for three generations, but the surburban sprawl brought a new breed of neighbors.

"One neighboring family washed the outside of their house every Sunday because they didn't like flies that they said came from living near a farm," Elizabeth said.

Although the soils were about the same for growing effectiveness in the two states, one major difference surprised Smith.

He said, "In New Jersey I could park a wagon and expect it to stay on the same spot. But here, after several wagon escapes, I learned to get used to putting a rock in back of the wagon wheel."

When they moved, the Smiths were also surprised to be greeted by a bunch of neighbors who helped them move in. The machinery had been steadily moved before the actual moving day. On moving day, cows were brought in by truck one day and the heifers the next.

"We were surprised at how well and how quickly the herd adjusted," Smith said.

The family has a 100-head herd with 55 milking cows, which are fairly evenly divided between Holsteins and Brown Swiss breeds.

When Elizabeth was six years old, her parents presented her with a birthday present—a Holstein cow. She was thrilled. Later, her parents gave her a Brown Swiss.

"It's my favorite breed. I love them to death," she said of the 10 head she now owns.

Elizabeth considers the color variations intriquing. "It's always a surprise to see what the new calf looks like. A dark brown cow may have white offspring."

The calves usually start off as pink or peach when born and become darker. She said that Brown Swiss can appear dark haired until clipped, which reveals light-colored hair underneath.

Each cow's distinctive facial features enables her to easily differentiate who's who among the herd. "But all of them have big beautiful eyes," Elizabeth said.

"Brown Swiss normally go past their due date, but give a grand entrance with no birthing problems even if a bigger than a normal one. When they are first born, the calves resist drinking from a bottle but soon relent and will playfully chase after the person who feeds them," she said.

Sharing the work load is a way of life for the Smith family. Elizabeth considers her parents excellent and credits them for instilling high values within her.

Elizabeth arises at 5:45 a.m. daily to feed the calves and help her dad finish milking the cows. After milking, Brian and she take care of teat dipping before letting the cows out to pasture.

On the Smith farm, the cows are put out to pasture every day of the year to exercise. A stream runs through the pasture that is divided into two padlocks. Even during the blizzard that coated the county two years ago, the cows were able to go outside because of the way the wind had blown the snow.

"Having the cows go outside, gets them off the concrete, heat detection is easier, and it gives me time to clean the barn," Elizabeth's dad said.

After breakfast prepared by her mother, Elizabeth vacuums while her dad cleans the barn. Depending on the duties of the day, Elizabeth's responsibilities vary. She helps bale hay and straw. Usually square bales are made, but this year the Smiths were experimenting with something different. They had a neighbor use his round baler. Another new experiment this season is using no-till planting. Time was the major factor in making this decision because of the fields being too wet in early spring.

In addition to crop farming 91 acres on the farm, another 40 acres two miles away are also farmed by the Smiths.

"Most of the land is cropable and none is wasted in woodland," Tom said.

In the afternoon, Elizabeth often works with her show animals. At 2:30 p.m., she feeds the calves and puts in new bedding.

Sometimes, Elizabeth's mother finishes the evening chores because Elizabeth works at a supermarket from 5 p.m.-9 p.m. several times a week.

Since the Smiths moved to the Reinholds' farm, new heifer facilities were built and comfort stalls added. An open-front calf barn has sides that can be moved down during cold months. Eight calf pens, which can easily be cleaned out with a tractor and divided into half if more space is needed, have been erected near the open-front barn.

One great advantage of moving to Lancaster County, Smith said, was the many agricultural services available in the area.

Elizabeth has first-hand experience when she talks about the plight of farmers. She said, "Farmers are being pushed to the side. It's impossible to survive because people can't grasp the effects of high feed costs and low milk prices. People probably won't be concerned until they have no food. Then they'll ask, "What happened to the farmer? Farmers are a special breed because they just keep going."

Elizabeth believes that people cannot realize the magnitude of work required to farm unless one lives on a farm.

Few dairy farms exist in the Cocalico School District, and, Elizabeth said that classmates often made derogatory comments about the smells and practices of farming. But she was greatly encouraged by her biology teacher.

He had grown up on the farm and his sister, Becky Sonnen, had been a state dairy princess. Elizabeth was thrilled to meet Becky, who now works for Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association and serves as the dairy princess coordinator in Lancaster County. Elizabeth said, "I consider her my mentor. I'd love to have a job like Becky and promote the dairy industry."

One of Elizabeth's responsibilities is to visit schools and teach them the importance of including dairy products in a healthy diet and to look for the real seal to differentiate between dairy products and look-alikes.

"I think it's important to grab the attention of children while they are still young," she said.

Elizabeth is well-qualified to represent the dairy industry. Milk has always been her drink by choice. She is intent on helping women realize the severity of osteoporosis that results from not including enough dairy products in their diets during their growing and young adult years.

The whole Smith family is involved in 4-H. After moving from New Jersey where the parents were 4-H leaders, they started the Cows R Us 4-H Club and continue to serve as 4-H leaders. The family participates in county, district, and state dairy show competitions.

Generally Elizabeth and her brothers each show three animals at each show; but last year, she showed five. Elizabeth shows Brown Swiss and her brothers show Guernseys.

Elizabeth and her siblings have boxes of ribbons and trophies from competition. Most exciting over the years has been showing the grand champion Brown Swiss at the state level, and the grand champion of junior-owned Brown Swiss at the All American, and receiving the National Junior Bell Ringer award, based on points accumulated over the show season.

"We have our own cattle trailer, and take off in the afternoon and stay overnight so that we're there the next morning for the show," Elizabeth said of the All American Show.

This is Elizabeth's last year to show for 4-H, but she can still show at the national level.

"I love showing and will always help with shows," she said. "It is important to remain alert in the show ring. A cow may walk fine one day, and the next rear up,"

Elizabeth said that her family became interested in the Guernsey breed when they were looking for a gentle breed for her brother Brian to show. Although Brown Swiss are loving, they are often stubborn and pushy when young she said. Guernseys are very sweet and cooperative and just the right breed for Brian who has Down's Syndrome.

Elizabeth credits Brian with having a huge impact on her life. She was three years-old when he was born.

"We don't use the word 'retard.' It isn't a word that should be used to describe anyone," she said in regards to the defense she encounters with other school children.

"Brian is the most caring, affectionate brother. He has a better grasp on life than most people. He never complains, no matter what—and that challenges me," she said.

Friendly and outgoing, Brian functions at a high level of achievement, no doubt because his family is so encouraging of his endeavors.

Throughout his schooling, the family has, at times, switched him to other districts so that he would not be pushed aside. This past year, Elizabeth was Brian's 'date' for his school prom, "but he ditched me for another girl at the prom," she teased him.

Watching all the special needs students dance and have so much fun was a special thrill for Elizabeth. Throughout the years, Elizabeth has babysat for a group of parents of special needs children and has assisted at Brian's school.

Elizabeth speaks often of her great admiration for her parents who, she said, always encouraged her. It isn't that her parents haven't been strict. One rule is that the teens must be 18 years old to apply for a driver's license. Elizabeth did not consider this request unfair. "My parents drove me wherever I needed to be. And, with the work on the farm, we have plenty to do."

Elizabeth said that she grew up often preferring the company of adults to her own peers. She has always spent time developing relationships with teachers and now with professors at college. She served as a peer mediator for four years during high schooling, student library assistant, chorus, and had a major singing role in the school musical.

At church, Elizabeth serves as an altar server.

The family's love of animals is evident by the four dogs and two cats that are house broken.

"We also have 30 too many Muscovy ducks," Elizabeth said of those they raise to sell for an ethnic market.

At college, Elizabeth is a Lion Ambassador, whose duty is to represent the Berks Penn State campus by giving tours and help with special events on campus.

"Berks is a wonderful campus. The student to teacher ratio is 30 students to one," she said.

During a college speech class last year, Elizabeth took a cow to school to demonstrate how to show a cow. She had quite a bit of attention walking around the campus with a cow.

"My college adviser has offered to help me in any way possible with my duties as dairy princess. She even came to my pageant," Elizabeth said.

Within days of being crowned princess, Elizabeth had already completed several promotions and was planning more.

One of those promotions will be at Weaver's Market in Adamstown, where she is employed part time.

My blueberry harvest is finished.

Over the past several years, I've probably planted a dozen blueberry bushes. Some fairly good-sized. Some relatively small. The Farmer loves blueberry pie, and one of my goals was to be able to have my own, home-grown blueberries for use in baking pies, muffins, pancakes.

Blueberries thrive on acid soil and need at least some basic moisture to do well. It's one of those crops which does best with several bushes in a couple of varieties, to cross pollinate and set fruit. So I planted a couple of different varieties. Made sure the soil had extra acid and organic matter. Covered the plants with net wrap to foil the mockingbirds and robins.

For these efforts, I have one three-foot-tall blueberry bush. With two handfuls of fruit.

All the other bushes have gone to Plant-Failure Heaven, victims of too much rain, too much dry, too much . . . whatever.

So, when The Farmer spied three pints of very nice, fat blueberries on the kitchen counter a few weeks ago, he was impressed.

"Harvest your blueberries?" he asked.

"Yep," I replied. "I harvested 'em." Truth persisted. "At the supermarket."

Looking over a kitchen counter covered with bags of more "harvest," I took inventory.

Potatoes. Regular and baking. Cleaned. Dug. Packaged. Ready to park in the cool of the ground cellar and use as needed. Having grown up having to help pick the family's winter supply of potatoes every fall — and not impressed with the job at the time — I've welcomed The Farmer's philosophy that we could better harvest milk and let someone else produce the relatively few potatoes we need.

Grapes. Red. Crispy, sweet and cool. The perfect snack. No preparation, no waste. We couldn't grow grapes like this if our lives depended on it. Wrong climate. Thank goodness for California vineyards. And for long-haul truckers pulling refrigerated trailers laden with shipments of delicious, seedless table grapes.

Watermelon. Sliced into a half, so I know exactly what I'm buying. Sometimes, they're less expensive that way than to purchase a whole one and not know what you're getting. Go figure. We do have watermelon plants — but they're a long way — and gallons of moisture — from the finished product. However, the garden, with luck, will yield some of those wonderful, crispy, few-seeds, yellow-fleshed melons. Gourmet melons.

And, if they fail, we'll manage to survive with the ordinary red-fleshed kind. From the supermarket or the retail produce center up the road a mile. Costing 25 cents a pound, more or less. Ready to eat.

Lettuce. If there was ever a fresh kind of produce we take for granted, it's lettuce. With several different varieties available in the produce section, our salads don't have to be routine and boring.

I didn't plant lettuce this season. But some fledgling heads of tender buttercrunch came up from seeds dropped last season from a matured stalk. They sprouted in a flower bed, then dried up before the delicate heads were ready. Not to worry. You can buy several kinds of lettuce — a whole head — for under a buck. Most any market. Most anytime.

Cucumbers. Which we've been enjoying — from the market — for many weeks. There are two hills of bush cukes planted in the garden and being hand watered, along with other "hill" crops. They were just bushing out and beginning to show a few yellow blooms when a groundhog deleafed both stalks for dinner. Why don't groundhogs eat weeds? Huh?

So what? I can just go "harvest" my needs at the market . . .

Just suppose that, like our ancestors not too terribly far back, we had to provide for our own foodstuffs. Suppose there were no produce stands overflowing with fresh fruits and veggies from around the world, no shelves full of baked products, no refrigerated cases laden with fresh meats, no selections of milk and cheeses. No frozen pizzas, for goodness sakes!

What would we be eating for dinner today?

Indiana County Selects Dairy Promoters

INDIANA (Indiana Co.) — Tammy Trimble was crowned Indiana County Dairy Princess during the pageant held at Marion Center Area High School recently.

Tammy is the daughter of Tom and Faye Trimble of Indiana. She attends Indiana Area High School, where she is active in band. She shows dairy animals at 4-H competitions, at the county fair, and at the state level.

Assisting her in dairy promotion are the following dairy maids and ambassadors: Gregory Beatty, Julie Fedder, Kathy LaVan, Megan Black, Aaron George, Robby Streams, and Melissa Olson.

Todd Marino served as master of ceremonies for the evening. pages were Cala Adamson, Hannah George, Angela Compton, and Nicole Park. Escorts were provided by Marion Center FFA and were Joel Abel, Michael Neese, Adam Black, and Kevin Pollock.

Flower girl was Hannah Nehrig. Crown bear was Cody Adamson.

Julie Lockhart, the former county princess, gave a farewell speech and crowned the new princess.

An ice cream social followed the pageant. Quality Farm and Fleet of Blairsville donated door prizes.

North Jackson Ag And Community Club

The club held its meeting at the home of leaders, Joe and Sandy Pavelski.

Demonstrations were given by Carolyn Carpenter, Janet Merithew, Matthew Pavelski, and Joe Pipitone. Carolyn did hers on the health and grooming care of rabbits with two of her rabbits. Janet explained how the hermit crab finds a new house.

Matthew did his demonstration on how to throw and shoot a basketball. Joe did his on archery.

The business meeting was called to order and Lloyd Pease, leader, discussed the calf dressing contest.

Think about it. Every time you get to the end of the row, you say to yourself, "If my tractor had a better turning radius, then I'd spend less time turning around. And more time turning a profit."

Spend More Time Turning A Profit
And Less Time Turning Your Tractor.

Don't dream anymore. Because the new turning radius on the 9655 AGCO® Allis tractor has arrived. How did we do it? For starters, the frame has been contoured inward four inches on each side of the engine. And we've recessed the space between the grille and radiator, giving you even more clearance between the front tires and frame. We've also sculpted and sized the side quarter panels without disturbing the tractor's overall appearance.

- The 9655 has a 155 PTO hp and an 18-speed powershift transmission with 18 forward and 9 reverse speeds, giving you even more working options.
- The Series 40 liquid-cooled engine has a combustion chamber design which provides excellent fuel economy while reducing exhaust emissions.
- The AWD models feature a true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- As always, behind every AGCO Allis tractor, there's a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty backing it.

To see the new turning radius on the 9655, stop by and see us. We'll be glad to show you how much time and money you can save.

Good Eating A Snap With In-Season Vegetables

Good eating is a snap with a diet rich in fresh green beans and other in-season vegetables.

Eating vegetables is showing more and more evidence of adding health and vitality to your body. The National Cancer Institute recommends eating at least five fruits and vegetables a day. The Institute's goal is to push that up to five to nine servings per day—recommended in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Dietary guidelines by the year 2000.

Although people know that vegetables are packed with vitamins and minerals, many have a difficult time incorporating that many servings in their daily diet. Did you know the following?

- Green beans are a good source of dietary fiber and provide one third of a day's requirement of vitamin A with only 35 calories in a single half-cup serving.
- Fresh broccoli is a delicious source of vitamin C, and a one cup serving provides 68 percent of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin A. It is also rich in minerals providing 1.2 mgs of iron per cup with only 40 calories.
- Cabbage is an excellent source of dietary fiber and a half-cup serving provides a full day's supply of vitamin C. Cabbage has important minerals like iron and potassium.
- A single carrot provides three times the recommended daily allowance of vitamin A with only 40 calories.
- Cauliflower is an excellent source of vitamin C. A one-cup serving provides more than the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C, with only 25 calories.
- Cucumbers are a nutritious snack for weight watchers, with only 55 calories per pound, and healthy doses of vitamin A and iron.
- Sweet Corn is a good source of vitamins A and C, and a single ear contains about 90 calories.
- Sweet bell peppers with a 3.5-ounce serving provides twice the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C, healthy doses of vitamin A and potassium with only 22 calories. If green peppers are left on the stem to mature, most varieties will turn yellow, orange or red. As they turn color, their sugar content increases along with their vitamin C content.
- Zucchini contains only 14 calories and provides 15 percent of the daily allowance of vitamin C and smaller doses of vitamin A and potassium in a 3.5-ounce serving.

This is the time of the year when vegetables never tastes better and fresher.

CHEESY VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

6 cups cubed, unpeeled small red potatoes
2 cups sliced fresh carrots
1 cup fresh or frozen green beans
1 cup sliced zucchini
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
1½ cups sharp cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon dried dill
1 teaspoon basil
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
4 plum tomatoes, sliced
Vegetable spray (optional)

Cook sliced potatoes in boiling water for 10 minutes. Steam carrots and beans, set aside. Melt butter in saucepan, add onion and saute until tender. Reduce heat, add flour and stir over low heat. When mixture thickens, slowly add milk; cook, stirring frequently, 10 minutes. Remove from heat and add dill, basil, oregano, salt, pepper, mustard, and 1 cup cheese. Mix this into potato, carrots, and beans. Coat a 9x13-inch casserole pan with vegetable spray and pour mixture into pan. Arrange tomato slices on top, sprinkle with remaing ½ cup cheese. Bake 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Delicious!

Veggie patties are easy to grill, but they cook up differently than meat patties. On a clean grill, coat the rack with non-stick cooking spray. Keep veggie patties frozen until ready to grill than spray both sides with non-stick cooking spray and place directly on a medium-hot grill.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 packages refrigerated crescent rolls
16-ounces cream cheese
1 cup salad dressing
1 package party dip mix
Fresh vegetables (cauliflower, broccoli, radishes, celery, etc.)
Shredded cheese
Pepperoni

Place crescent roll dough over large cookie sheet. Bake as directed until lightly browned. Cool. Mix softened cream cheese and salad dressing together, add party dip and mix well. Spread on cooled crust. Top with sliced fresh vegetables. Add shredded cheese and pepperoni. Put in refrigerator until ready to serve. Do not bake. Cut into small pieces. Keeps in refrigerator several days.

SPINACH SALAD WITH MUSTARD DRESSING

½ pound fresh spinach
1 teaspoon Dijion mustard
1 teaspoon chopped onions
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Wash spinach gently and remove tough steams. Dry leaves carefully and chill. Combine remaining ingredients and beat vigorously. Keep in cool place. When ready to serve, pour over spinach. Toss well.

Featured Recipe

Here is a delightful grill recipe using vegetables.

The recipe is from "Veggie Life," a 100-page glossy magazine with lots of colored pictures, tips, techniques, recipes and remedies on great new ways to grow garden-fresh foods, prepare creative meatless cuisine, implement diet and exercise programs, and apply natural remedies for an improved lifestyle.

For more information about the magazine, write to Veggie Life, 1041 Shary Circle, Concord, CA 94518 or call (510) 671-9852. The web address is "www.naturalland.com."

CHEDDAR VEGETABLE STUFFED GRILL BREAD

Use leftover grilled vegetables or grill some fresh ones while the dough rises. Try onion, zucchini, potato, bell pepper, eggplant, etc.

1 tablespoon active dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
1½ cups whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon each, ground cumin and coriander
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons light sesame or peanut oil
2½ to 3 cups unbleached white flour
2 cups chopped grilled vegetables
4 ounces sharp cheddar, shredded
Cooking spray

In a large bowl, dissolve yeast in water and let stand until it bubbles, about 10 minutes. Slowly stir in whole wheat flour, cumin, and coriander. Mix well, cover, and set aside to rise in warm place about 45 minutes.

Stir in salt, oil, and 2½ cups unbleached white flour to form a stiff dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead 10 minutes, adding more flour as necessary to keep from sticking. Shape into a ball, place in a large, lightly sprayed bowl, and turn oiled side up. Cover with plastic wrap and set aside to rise until doubled in size, about 1 hour.

Divide dough into six pieces and roll into smooth balls. On lightly floured surface, roll balls into 7-inch circles (about ¼ -inch thick). Place equal amounts of vegetables and cheese in center of each circle. Pull edges up to center, pinch closed and press to flatten. Cover with a cloth, and let rise for 20 minutes.

Preheat grill to medium-hot. Gently place calzones on grill, pinched side down, and cook about 5 minutes on each side, until well marked and browned. Makes 6 breads.

Per serving: 218 cal. 8 g protein, 5.5 gr fat, 33 g carb, 418 mg sod, 10 mg chol, 3 g fiber.

What Makes Us Happy

What makes us happy? It sounds like and it is a simple question. However, there are many different answers to such a simple question. Although we have many similarities, we also have many life experiences that may make us view the same experience differently. Since there is no right or wrong answer to this question, I would like you to take a few minutes as ask yourself what really makes you happy. Ask this question around the dinner table. You may be surprised at the variety of answers you receive.

Talk about the responses, do the same things make everyone happy. This could be a good sounding board on what really is important and what's not.

As I drive to and from work each day I have the opportunity to think about some of the things that make me happy and I'd like to share the words of a song that make me happy. The song is Simple Gifts:

'Tis a gift to be simple, 'tis a gift to be free, 'tis the gift to come down from where you ought to be, And when we find ourselves in the place just right, 'Twill be in the valley of love and delight. When true simplicity is gained, to bow and to bend we shan't be ashamed to turn, Turn will be our delight: 'til by turning, we come out right.

Things that make us happy:

Freedom

The sound of laughter (especially children)

A cat sleeping in the sun (we have some cat people in our office)

Wildflowers growing along the roadside

A weekly telephone call from a family member that lives a long distance away

Family and vacation photographs complete in photo albums

Fresh green peas with new potatoes

Flowers growing and blooming in flower beds

A paycheck

Co-workers that share experiences

An office that is supportive

Sunshine

A grandson asking to be picked-up

A big hug when you get in the door

A rainy day

A new recipe that everyone likes

A good book

Home visits

When you bank book balance is wrong and it is in your favor

Clean bill of health

Short and to the point meetings

A parking space

Wild animals in nature

Please/Thank You

Music

A good piece of chocolate

Fresh flowers in the house

A finished project

This past spring my spouse and I were on a trip upon our return home and he really surprised me with a wonderful painting of wild flowers and the saying "How lovely is the silence of growing things." He had remembered that I had remarked about the saying and now we have a wonderful piece of art hanging on our wall reminding us of our trip and memories we share together. Many things can make you happy, just be aware and share your happy ideas with others.

In closing I like to share the words of another song.

Happiness runs in a circular motion,

Life is like a little boat on the sea,

Everyone is a part of everthing anyway

Lancaster Society 20

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Farm Women 20 met July 3 on the lawn of Amma Mary Groff with Freda Wimer as cohostess. Following the luncheon Anna Mary read Psalm 121 and a corresponding reading. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the Pledge of Allegiance was repeated. There were 14 members and visitors who answered to the roll call by saying where they learned to swim. There was a short business meeting with the Vice President, Jean Ressell presiding.

Dorothy Crawford reported one card had been sent and the place of the Picnic on August 7 has been changed to the Huffnagel Park. Several members enjoyed swimming while the others engaged in conversation.

Customize Your Bales

Without Paying Extra

Variable Chamber Balers Let You Make The Call.

If you demand a smaller hay package and a baler that's easy to operate, the New Idea® 4643 (4'x3') and 4644 (4'x4') are for you. Thanks to the variable bale size, you can customize bales to fit your operation. And each model creates bales that range from 30 to over 50 inches in diameter.

With so much diversity, you'll only bale the size you need. Their low-profile, full-width pickup glides easily over fields, catching every stem. The pickup height can be easily adjusted

For more details on the versatile 4643 and 4644 round balers, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

QUESTION — Linda Bupp, Westminster, Md., would like a recipe for a no sugar added angel food cake. She also would like a recipe for a whipped icing that looks like marshmallow.

QUESTION — Grace Rumer, Abington, is looking for a recipe for individual crumb buns with cheese pockets. Her husband ate some, which he said were delicious, on the Ocean City Boardwalk in New Jersey.

QUESTION — J.R. Hohmeier, Painter, Va., is trying to locate a recipe for a doughnut that was baked, not fried, and was made with a yeast dough. It was tender and flakey, and lacked that fat content of regular fried versions.

QUESTION — Peggy Tice of Felton, Del., wants a recipe for home canning salsa.

QUESTION — Catherine Shearer, Greencastle, writes that Sandy Hartman of Westfield had sent in a recipe for homemade hot dogs, which she forgot to cut out. She'd like it printed again. Since we don't have the recipe in our files, did anyone clip the recipe. If so, please send it in.

QUESTION — Mrs. Kenneth Swinehart, Cochranville, has a commercial ice cream maker, but not a recipe for making soft ice cream like that sold at Dairy Queen and Mr. Frosty. The instructions came with the ice cream maker, but no recipe. She knows a mix can be purchased, but it is expensive. The container size is 3 to 4 gallon.

QUESTION — Rita Hodun, Calverton, NY, would like the recipe for apricot and honey marinade for spare ribs, etc.

QUESTION — Bari Ann Smalley wants a recipe for hard tack cake.

QUESTION — A Finger Lakes, New York reader wants to know if a large block of cheddar cheese can be cut and dipped in paraffin to keep it from molding.

QUESTION — Verna Guzel, Canonsburg, would like a recipe for feta cheese made with goat's milk.

QUESTION — Violet Cassner, Newburg, lost a recipe for ham baked in Coco Cola. She recalls that the ham was soaked in Coco Cola overnight in the refrigerator, and then baked with a caramel glaze.

QUESTION — Stephanie Huger, Meyerstown, is looking for a recipe for pumpkin strudel with poppy seeds and sour cream or cream cheese. Her grandmother from Hungary made it, but Stephanie lost the recipe.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made ahead of time.

ANSWER — Ida Mae Shoestod, Madison, Wis., sent in a recipe for Coconut Oatmeal Cookies, which had been requested. Ida writes that this recipe came 53 years from her mother-in-law. The cookies were Ida's husband's favorite. He is deceased but the cookies are still a favorite at the Shoestod house.

Coconut Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups oatmeal
2 cups coconut

Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes. Drop according to size cookies desired. Don't let the cookies become too brown.

SCALLOPED CORN

2 cups fresh corn, scraped or cut from the ear
2 beaten eggs
½ teaspoons salt
1 cup minced seeded green peppers with membrane remove, or chopped stuffed green olives
¾ cup cream

Place in prepared souffle dish and bake in preheated 325 degree oven for about 30 minutes.

VEGGIE BURGERS

2 cups cooked or canned pinto beans or lentils
1 egg, beaten
1 small onion, finely chopped
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

In a large mixing bowl, mash beans with a fork. Add egg, onion, and seasonings to the bowl. Combine the mixture in the bowl with a spoon.

Place bread crumbs on a clean plate. Shape ½ cup of bean mixture into a patty. Coat patty with crumbs on both sides. Repeat with the remainder of bean mixture. Heat oil in the frying pan and brown patties on each side for 2-3 minutes.

FRESH BROCCOLI SALAD

1 large head broccoli (raw)
½ pound bacon, cooked, crumbled
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons apple cider vinegar

Mix broccoli, bacon, and cheese. Mix together mayonnaise, sugar, and vinegar. Add to broccoli mixture. Refrigerate 4 hours or more before serving.

VEGETABLE PLATTER WITH CHEDDAR CHEESE SAUCE

1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 teaspoon cornstarch
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups thinly sliced small potatoes
2 cups carrots, sliced
1 cup zucchini, sliced
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Combine butter and cornstarch until smooth; stir in milk, salt, and pepper. On a microwaveable platter, arrange potatoes around the edge overlapping slices slightly, forming two rows; place carrots around potatoes; place zucchini in center. Tightly cover with plastic wrap; pierce wrap several places with a fork. Place in microwave on High for 10 minutes. Check vegetables and microwave on high for 3 more minutes or until they are tender. Microwave milk mixture for 6 minutes on high, stir and microwave 3 minutes longer. Stir in cheese and microwave 3 to 4 minutes longer until sauce thickens. Stir sauce to blend in cheese; remove plastic wrap from vegetables and pour sauce over vegetables. Serves 4.

ADDITION — At the Philadelphia County Fair held recently, Anna Stevens of Lansdale, won first place and $500 in the Sweet Potato Pie Contest. Judith Smith of Philadelphia won first prize and $500 in the Pound Cake Contest. Here are recipes for you to enjoy.

Sweet Potato Pie

In bowl:
1½ cups cooked mashed sweet potatoes
Add:
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup cream or evaporated milk
Blend until smooth.
In second bowl:

3 Granny Smith applies sliced. Mix up ¾ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons corn starch, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Put in pan and cook until apple is fork tender and sauce is thickened.

In unbaked pie shell, layer apples. Pour sweet potato mixture on top and bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Watch crust so edges do not burn. If they begin to get too brown, make an aluminum foil collar.

Reduce temperature to 350 degrees. Cook 40 minutes until sweet potatoes seem firm. Cool and decorate with whipped cream.

Pie Pastry:
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon sugar
10-12 tablespoons ice cold water
2 sticks butter

Sift all dry ingredients together in medium mixing bowl. Cut the butter into the flour mixture using a pastry blender or fork until it looks like coarse meal. Continue stirring until mixture follows fork. Roll into a ball and set in the refrigerator for 30 minutes. Divide dough in half and roll out dough ½ at a time on a lightly floured surface. Place into a 10-inch pie plate. Cut off excess and flute edges.

Cream Cheese Pound Cake

½ pound butter
4 unbeaten eggs
1¾ cups sugar
8-ounces soft cream cheese
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Place butter, eggs, sugar, and cream cheese in a large electric mixer bowl. Beat about 10 to 15 minutes until light and fluffy. Add flour and baking powder and beat about 3 minutes. Turn batter into an ungreased tube pan and bake in an oven that has been preheated to 350 degrees for about 50 minutes until done.

Note: You cannot overbeat this cake batter. Can be served plain, dusted with confectioners' sugar or iced with the following:

Icing:

8-ounces room-soft cream cheese
¼ pound butter
4 teaspoons vanilla extract
4 cups confectioners' sugar

Cream together cream cheese and butter until fluffy. Add vanilla extract gradually, add confectioners' sugar, beating until smooth.

ANSWER — Mrs. Paul Kilgers, Watsontown, wanted recipe for bran muffins in which the batter may be kept in a jar in the refrigerator for several weeks. Thanks to Charlotte Smith, Mansfield, for sending this recipe that she writes is delicious and handy to keep on hand.

Raisin Bran Muffins
Or Morning Glory Muffins

4 eggs, beaten
1 quart buttermilk or skim milk
5 teaspoons baking soda
3 cups sugar
5 cups flour
1 cup vegetable oil
15-ounce box raisin bran flakes

Combine all ingredients well and refrigerate at least overnight. Batter will keep as long as six weeks in refrigerator.

Bake in greased or paper-lined muffin tins at 400 degrees for 15 minutes.

May add the following in any amount or combination desired:

Shredded carrots
Shredded zucchini
Crushed pineapple
Coconut
Chopped nuts
Chopped apples
Mini Chocolate chips
Mashed banana, etc.

Here is another recipe from Cathy Christ, who writes: "This recipe is so good. I could eat a whole dozen loaded with melted butter right out of the oven."

Refrigerator Bran Muffins

Place in a bowl:
1 cup ready-to-eat bran cereal (Post's All-Bran preferred)
Pour over:
1 cup boiling water
Set aside and cool. Cream together in large bowl:
½ cup butter, softened
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
Add and mix in:
2 cups buttermilk
Soaked bran mixture
Sift together:
2½ cups flour
2½ teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Add dry ingredients and creamed ingredients. Fold until moist. Fold in 2 cups dry bran cereal. Store batter in container in refrigerator up to 4 weeks. When ready to use preheat oven 400 degrees. Fill greased tins (⅔ rds full). Bake 20 minutes.

Beekeepers To Communicate

NEWARK, Del. — Register for the Eastern Apicultural Society's 1997 Program being held this year at the University of Delaware at the Clayton Hall in Newark, Delaware. There will be something for every level of beekeeper from beginner to expert. This year our theme is communication, beekeeper to beekeeper as well as bee to bee.

The Beekeeping Short Course

First, from August 11-13, there will be Beekeeping Short Course with Tract I, II, and III levels of beekeeping.

EAS 97

The EAS '97 Conference begins on August 13 at 1:30 p.m. There will be general sessions Wednesday afternoon and on the mornings of the 14th and 15th. Thursday and Friday afternoons will feature workshops running for 1.5 hours and attendees will have the choice of one workshop from among several options for each time slot. The EAS 97 program and workshops will be lead by the very best speakers with the latest information on topics such as Tracheal Mites and Essential Oils, Varroa Mites, Why Are Queens Superseded?, Coping With Africanized Bees, Swarming, Moving Bees, Bee Behavior, and many more "must know" topics for the enlightened beekeeper.

Also, EAS 97 will include exhibitions, honey and honey product shows, and EAS tours of historic New Castle and Winterthur Museum.

Registration

For registration information, call Dewey Caron at the University of Delaware, (302) 831-8883 or write John Tulloch, P.O. Box 473, Odessa, De. 19730.

Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Princess Meets

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Recently, Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Princess Emilie Miller, the 12-year-old daughter of Mike and Sheila Miller, Womelsdorf, had the opportunity to promote her favorite breed of beef cattle to Pennsylvahia's top executive — Governor Tom Ridge.

Emilie, who is serving a two-year reign as the state's Polled Hereford princess, took the opportunity to answer Governor Ridge's questions about these cattle.

"He asked me what the word 'polled' meant in the breeds' name," she said. "I told him it meant 'naturally hornless.'"

Miller also told the Governor she likes to show her Polled Hereford cattle and appreciates their good disposition. She has been involved with the Pennsylvania Junior Polled Hereford Association for three years, exhibiting her heifers at Louisville, Kentucky, Des Moines, Iowa, and this year at Fort Worth, Texas. Emilie is in her fourth year with the Berks County 4-H Beef Club where she serves as club secretary.

"It was exciting to meet our governor face to face," said Miller. "He was very interested in learning more about Polled Herefords and my role as princess. Governor Ridge believes farmers and agriculture are important factors in Pennsylvania's economy."

Emilie will be heading out to Fort Worth, Texas for the Polled Hereford Jr. National Show which will be held July 25-30.

Miller recently exhibited her Polled Hereford steer, Vinnie, and her heifer, Boom-Boom, at the Junior Association's Summer Preview Show held in conjunction with the Tri-State Classic at the Washington Co. Fairgrounds. Miller brought back home not only memories, but also the titles of Reserve Grand Champion PJPHA steer and Champion Junior Showman. She will be showing her steer and heifer at Ft. Worth.

Emilie will also be participating with other young Polled Hereford exhibitors from across the nation in many other Junior activities, along with showing. She will be entering a poster with the theme of "Show Down In Cow Town" in the promotional poster contest. Miller also entered two pictures in the photo contest and will be participating on the Quizbowl and Team Marketing. The state with the most points in the different contests or all around points will receive the $100 Sweepstakes prize. The points are collected by having participants in the most contests. Extra points are picked up for doing well. Miller has already helped the Pennsylvania team by placing first in the state and seventh in the country in the Computer Cow Calf Game. Her placing has earned her semen and a certificate from a nationally ranked Polled Hereford bull.

Emilie recently participated in a four-day Stockmen's Camp that was held in Madison Co., Virginia. Emilie and two other members of the Berks County 4-H Beef Club, Matt Manbeck of Womelsdorf and Ben Weist of Leesport, sharpened their livestock judging skills at this event. Their trip was sponsored by the Berks Southeast Cattlemen's Association. All three of the youth are junior members of this association.

Miller, Manbeck, and Weist were part of a group that got the opportunity to go out to farms in Virginia that raised sheep, hogs, and cattle. They also got to tour a feed mill called Orange Madison Co-op. The campers learned many livestock management tasks, including administration of vitamin and medicine injections, tail docking of pigs and sheep, and ear notching for identification purposes. The members were given pointers on how to judge the different kinds of livestock. Their knowledge was tested through "challenge quizbowls" which consisted of questions dealing with some of the things taught at camp.

"The day all ended with some fun and games," said Miller. "There were contests which included the best dressed cowpoke, which Matt won in the male contest. Ben participated in the roping contest, and I helped out my team in the greased pig relay and the hay bale throwing contest."

Berks County's Matt Manbeck brought home an award on the final day of camp, placing second out of the 22 members that attended.

"We'd like to thank our chaperone and 4-H leader, Darlene Weist for taking us down to Virginia and all that she has done to help us learn about livestock judging. We also want to express our appreciation to the Berks County Cattlemen's Association under the leadership of President Richard Faust, Sinking Spring, for giving us this opportunity," said Miller.

Pedal Tractor Pull Challenges Kids

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga County
Correspondent

OGDENSBURG (Tioga County) -- Do you love the roar of the tractors and the thrill of the tractor pulls that are happening throughout the summer?

The tractor pulls can be lots of fun, but there's only one problem. Kids aren't allowed to run the big machines.

But wait! At Tioga County Farm-City Day and other events around the area, kids are allowed and encouraged to try their hand (or should I say feet) at the tractor pulls.

Josh Dean, of Leroy pedals his way to a 9 feet - 11 inch pull in the pedal tractor pull.

The solution is a pedal tractor pulling contest with a real sled and weights that move as the tractor is pedaled.

Kids ages four to 12 were invited to use their muscles and attempt a full pull of 30 feet.

The weights used range from no extra weight to over 300 pounds added to the weight of the tractor and the sled. The amount of weight applied depends on the age of the children and the type of surface the pull is being held on. When they are pulling on grass, they tend to use lower weights.

"We had a pull at Leroy (recently) and the oldest kids were the 12 year olds and they had over 315 pounds on," said Sue Heyler.

The sleds and tractors used at Tioga County Farm-City Day were designed by Leo Plank, of Liberty and John Heyler, of Nauvoo. They got the idea of building their own machines after seeing their first pedal tractor pull at the first Tioga County Farm-City Day in 1991.

"We've done every Farm-City Day pull since," said Sue.

"We looked at some of the different ones when we built the tractors, our tractors are geared lower than others so there's more for power for pulling," explained John Heyler.

They also have a special sled for the younger participants.

"We have a little sled for four to eight year olds. We found that a four year old doesn't have a lot of strength in their legs and had trouble getting started, so we put dolly wheels on the front that are spring loaded. That lifts the sled off the ground for a ways. As the weight gets up closer to the front, it pushes in the springs and allows the sled to go down. This allows the kids to go further and feel like they accomplished more," John said.

This year 110 kids participated at the Farm-City Day pull. Participants in each age group received a certificate of participation, ice cream and a pencil from Farm Credit. Winners in each category received a winner's certificate and a Susan B. Anthony Dollar.

Although there are always kids who can pull farther than others, the Heylers want to stress one thing.

"I always tell everybody it's just for fun," Sue said. "We have something for everyone who participates and a small prize for the winner. Everyone should have fun."

For more serious participants there is a national pedal tractor pulling organization. Each year a national competition is held in September in the state of Nebraska. At this time, however there is not an organized association in Pennsylvania, according to the Heylers.

Water ... Water ... Water ...

Gardeners may find summer watering restrictions or low-water levels in their private wells in parts of Pennsylvania. Used with care, household waste water-known as gray water — is a supplemental water source for flower and vegetable gardens.

More than half of your household waste water can be used for irrigation. The water you run from the tap while waiting for a cold drink, the water you use to rinse your hands or fruit and vegetables, and even the family bath water is useful for watering most plants.

Here's a review of the do's and dot's for using gray water during a dry garden season:

Don't use toilet waste water to irrigate or fertilize — it's against the law and hazardous to public health. Human waste must be discharged into an approved system.

Don't apply concentrated soap or detergent solutions to plants. Even though most soaps and detergents are biodegradable, they should only be used in diluted form. Either dilute the wash water with rinse water, or use only rinse water to irrigate.

Don't use wash or rinse water that contains chlorine bleach, boron whiteners or liquid fabric softeners. They may harm plants.

Don't apply gray water to root or leafy vegetables such as radishes and lettuce that are usually eaten raw. When watering fruiting vegetabls such as beans, tomatoes, peppers and eggplants, apply the gray water to the soil between the rows, not directly on the plants. Mulch between the rows will help filter they gray water.

Don't apply gray water to potted plants of any kind. Their restricted root systems make them sensitive to damage.

Do plan to give acid tolerant plants like rhododendrons a boost of iron, ammonium sulfate, ferrous sulfate or sulfure late this fall or next spring. These materials will counteract the alkalinity of any soaps and detergents in the gray water.

Do apply enough water to wet the soil deeply, and apply it over a wide area to prevent soap and detergent buildup in the soil. Frequent light watering may produce shallow roots that dry out easily.

Do consider using a trickle system or similiar method that slowly adds gray water directly to the soil. Such methods prevent foliage contamination and ensure that all of the water reaches the root system.

Gray water can be siphoned into the garden rows from large containers. Perforated gallon jugs or similar containers buried into the soil will allow water to seep into the root zone. Trickle systems that remain in place might be reserved for applying gray water not contaminated with soap or detergent.

Do filter the gray water if there is anything suspended in the water. Kitchen rinse water often contains food scraps that can plug a trickle system. This water can be passed through a large container filled with coarse sand and applied directly to the garden.

Do renew summer mulches to help conserve existing ground water. Mulches will also reduce evaporation of the gray water.

Do check county or local health codes for possible restrictions on gray water storage. Garbage cans, barrels, and metal drums are good containers to store the small amounts of gray water produced each day. When these containers are fully, apply the water where needed.

Do consider other water souces around the home. The roof of your house collects a great deal of rain water. In fact, most roof surfaces are larger than the average home garden. By collecting rain water from your roof and directing it to the garden, you can double the amount of rain water your garden receives. Rain water collected in drums can be applied later between summer showers.

Do control the weeds in your garden. Weeds use as much water and nutrients as desirable plants, and they may harbor insects and diseases that can reduce the quality of your garden.

Any questions regarding the above article can be addressed to Tom Becker, Penn State Cooperation Extension at (717) 840-7408.

WORK WATCH

Still Running Strong

In past years we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. A watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. The BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your watch stops running within TWO YEARS of the date of purchase the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge.

To receive your new work watch, complete the coupon below and send it with your payment. Your work watch will arrive shortly.

After participating in "New Weight of Life" classes, Mark Anderson and Nora Good are no longer enticed by advertisements about magical pills that melt away fat. The secret to weight loss, they are convinced, is a a new way of thinking and living.

Secret To Weight Loss Is 'New Weigh Of Life'

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "I knew I needed to do something when my feet and I became distant relatives," Mark Anderson said of the his reason for joining a "New Weigh of Life" class.

Now 48 pounds lighter, Anderson, a printing firm employee and chairman of the Lancaster Recreation Commission, enthusiastically touts the benefits of the 12-week program.

"It's a new way of thinking, a new way of living," he said. "Before I was absolutely oblivious to my eating habits. I ate too much of all the wrong things. My philosophy was basically: if it tastes good, eat a lot of it."

Anderson and another proponent of the course, Nora Good, insist that they no longer get hungry and have been able to maintain the weight loss for more than a year.

Instructor Lynda Lueck-Stoner, who has been teaching the classes since 1991, is a nutrition consultant. "Classes are based on current nutrition and medical research," she said.

The program was developed by Dr. Madeleine Sigman-Grant R.D, associate professor of food science at Penn State. Using an informative, active, and individualized approach, participants learn how to make food choices they can live with for a lifetime.

Good said that she battled a weight problem for as long as she can remember. She lost and gained over the years, but could never maintain the loss until she took the New Weigh of Life classes, which are available through extension offices in numerous locations.

In addition to learning to eat differently, Good also embarked on a walking program, which means she walks two miles daily five days a week.

"I noticed a big difference in my breathing and have increased stamina," she said. "Before I always wanted to park as close as possible whenever I went to the store or for an appointment somewhere. Now I park farther away, which forces me to walk more. It's a simple easy change that I could make in my lifestyle," she said.

Both Good and Anderson spoke of the general feeling of well being they have experienced since making a few lifestyle changes.

Anderson said that he blamed daily indigestion on the stress of his job, and popped indigestion tablets frequently.

No longer plagued by indigestion, Anderson believes his former discomfort was caused by overeating, not by stress.

The components of the program are based on portion control, balancing out, and exercise.

No wrong and right foods are prescribed through the course. Instead the ADA exchange list is taught and participants learn to make choices that suit their tastes.

To keep from overeating at covered dish and buffet affairs, Anderson and Good are both coping effectively but in different ways. Good scans the items on the table and selects three or four items to eat, but doesn't bother to taste the others. Anderson, takes a small spoonful of each item.

Anderson, who classifies himself as a real planning freak by nature, finds food planning fun. He does both the food shopping and the cooking for his wife Karen and two children.

"I consider it a special challenge to modify a recipe and take special glee in fooling the family into eating healthier without their kicking and screaming," he said.

Some of the class time is spent modifying recipes together as a class. Participants weight in and record their own weight.

Although participants are eager to chart their weight-loss progress, Lueck-Stoner said, "Weight loss is not as important as the flexibility and strength gained from the changes. Weight loss is a by product of eating better and smarter. Other benefits include lowering high blood pressure and cholesterol levels."

Both Anderson and Good reported that it is much easier to shop for clothes that fit now that they took the course.

"I'm a bit of a Baptist preacher about this course," Anderson said of his proselytizing others to take the course. Both his wife and his mother have taken the course through his prodding.

According to Anderson, his wife was always thin, but her food pyramid included no vegetables. "The course teaches us how to improve our eating habits, which I think is necessary to set a good example to our children," he said.

The class teaches participants to take an in-depth look at what they are eating analyzing what they were doing when they eat. Food and mood diaries are kept to keep tract of food consumption and mood.

After tracking her intake for a few days, Good said, "I came to the rude awakening that I got to change the way I cook. Now I plan better."

Although the class is long over

Farm-City Day Draws Crowds To Tioga County Farm

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Correspondent

OGDENSBURG (Tioga County) -- "It's a good fun-filled family day and they're great people!" said Cindy Evans, a volunteer who helped park hundreds of cars at Tioga County Farm-City Day held Saturday, July 12th.

The people she spoke of were Ted and Norma Jean Schmelzle and Tom and Brenda Pepper and sons, Travis, Taylor, Andrew and Jonathan, owners of Schmelway Farms and hosts of the seventh annual event.

People from as far away as Maine attended this year's event. Others happened to be in the area visiting yard sales or stopping by the recycling center and decided it looked like fun, so they stopped to take a look around.

One visitor, who makes his home in upstate New York and who has a cabin in Germania, traveled 60 miles to take in the sights. "This is our second Farm-City Day. This is fun! I grew up in the country, but not on a farm. We love the mountains of this area too!" said Ken Hall.

When all was totaled, workers at the registration booth estimated that there were close to 2000 people through the exhibits.

"People are amazed at everything going on, " continued Evans.

This was Evans' first Farm

Tioga County Dairy Princess Ellen Norman watches as seven year-old Ethan Baker spins the dairy wheel and answers a milk related question.

This family traveled 60 miles specifically to attend the 1997 Tioga County Farm City Day. Here father Ken Hall and sons Kenny and Orin enjoy Moo Koolers at the dairy promotion booth.

Frederick County Farm Queen Is Diane Ogg

FREDERICK (Frederick Co.) — The new Frederick County Farm Queen is a Frederick High School senior who enjoys raising cattle, sheep, and horses on her family's general livestock farm.

Diane Ogg, the 17-year-old daughter of Donald and Brenda Ogg of Frederick, was crowned 1997 Farm Queen at the annual contest held July 11th at the Jefferson Community Center in Jefferson. The contest is sponsored by the county Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau women's committee.

Two other contestants, Katie Crum, the daughter of David and Barbara Crum of Walkersville, and Amy Mathews, daughter of Raymond and Mary Jo Mathews of Mt. Pleasant, will serve as 1997 Farm Princesses.

Melissa Willard, outgoing Farm Queen, passed her crown on to the new queen with a warm welcome. "This year will be an exciting and adventurous year, but it will go by fast," she predicted.

Melissa, or "Missy" as she is known, served as farm queen during the busy 75th anniversary year of the Frederick Count Farm Bureau. She plans to pursue a degree in business administration.

Diane Ogg has exhibited livestock at the local, state, and national levels. She raises Hereford, Shorthorn, and Black Angus cattle, and also sheep and horses on her family's farm. She is currently president of the Jefferson Co-eds 4-H club, and is vice president of the Frederick FFA.

Diane's schedule this fall will keep her extra busy. In addition to being jam-packed with school, farm, and fair demands and her new responsibilities as farm royalty, Diane will also be travelling to several conventions. First she will attend the Naitonal FFA convention in Kansas City, Missouri. Next on her itinerary comes Pittsburgh, for the National Institute for Cooperative Education. Finally her travels will take her to Memphis, Tennessee for the National 4-H Club Conference, where she will attend the conference as a member of the state winning nursery and landscape team.

Last year Dianne taught educators at Maryland's Ag In The Classroom program, and she will participate in that program again this year. She has helped her father do research for the Agri-future Roundtable, a local group that is working to define and find solutions to conflicts that arise with the increasing urbanization

'New Weigh Of Life'

for her, Good continues to keep a food diary as an incentive to maintain her weight loss.

Tips and techniques for cutting calories are interspersed throughout the course.

Good said that she changed from smothering her salad in salad dressing to dipping her fork into the salad dressing with each mouthful of salad.

According to Lueck-Stoner, the litmus test when considering joining a weight-loss group is to answer the question: "Do you see yourself eating like this in six months?"

Anderson said that he often hears advertisements touting some new miracle drug to make the fat disappear. Buying a miracle drug has no appeal for him. Eating right as a weigh of life, he said, is the secret to weight loss.

Now is the time to sign up for one of several series scheduled to begin in the fall. Class size is limited. Cost is $65 and is covered by many insurance companies. If you live in a county other than Lancaster, check with your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office to see if the classes are being offered. Luek-Stoner will be teaching the following classes.

- Workshop #1: 7 p.m.-9 p.m. every Monday starting September 8 and continuing for 12 weeks at the Farm & Home Center.
- Workshop #2: 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. every Tuesday beginning Sept. 9 and continuing 12 weeks at the Farm & Home Center.
- Workshop #3 or #4: 10:30 a.m.-12:00 noon OR 7:00 p.m.-8:30 p.m. beginning Thursday Sept. 11 at Lancaster Labs, 2423 New Holland Pike. Call (717) 656-0746 for more details.

Frederick County Farm Queen

of the county. And she also helps at her family's equipment dealership and holds a job at a garden center.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Nancy Gordon, pianist, and vocalists Andrea and Hannah Hood, and David and Darin Gordon. Escorts for the contestants were David and Darin Gordon and Joey Biser.

Michael Wilson, president of Frederick County Farm Bureau, updated the group on Farm Bureau activities. This year the Farm Bureau picnic will be held July 23rd at Mt. Tabor Park in Rocky Ridge, he said. Members should bring a covered dish.

In other Farm Bureau news, the Young Farmers committee has been reorganized. Officers for the committee will be: Scott Hipkins, chairman; Rick Eaves, vice chairman; Holly Delaplaine, secretary; and Marti Burdette, treasurer.

Frederick County farmers had the opportunity to dispose of off-rim passenger car sized tires on Tuesday, July 15, at ESSROC Cement in Buckeystown. In a project sponsored by the cement manufacturer, farmers only were allowed to deliver tires to the plant off MD 85 north of Buckeystown between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Larger tires (with the exception of earth-moving size) can be brought to the Frederick County landfill free of charge at a special statewide Scrap Tire Amnesty Day on April 25, 1998.

Master of Ceremonies for the evening was David Miller, assistant supervisor for career programs for the Frederick County Public School system.

The Farm Queen Contest committee includes Carole Doody and Mary Sue Grossnickle as co-chairs, and members Louise Stup, Peggy Long, Louise Ediger, Jane Smith, Laverne Heffner, Ruth Lenhart, Roselee Glisan, Peggy Garst, Publicity; and Dorothy Dudrow, Sashes.

"Flowers by Roy" donated the queen's bouquet, "Liberty Florist" donated the contestants' flowers, and Littman Jewelers donated the queen's tiara.

Tips For Summer's Sting

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Il. — For millions of Americans, summer brings the threat of insect stings and, for some, the danger of severe and sometimes life-threatening reactions. As part of a nationwide public education program, the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology offers these tips:

•If you are stung and experience symptoms such as troubled breathing, hives, fainting or any symptoms other than pain, itching, redness and swelling at the sting site, you may be having a severe reaction and should seek medical attention immediately.

•If you have experienced a severe reaction, you may have insect sting allergy; a condition which puts you at a high risk of having a similar or worse reaction the next time you are stung.

•Insect sting allergy can be treated. Ask your doctor to refer you to an allergist who can evaluate you for a vaccination program that immunizes against future allergic reactions.

•A sting kit containing injectable epinephrine is emergeny rescue medication only. It can stop an allergic reaction in process but cannot treat the underlying allergy and therefore will not protect against future reactions.

Allergic reactions to insect stings can be dangerous and sometimes fatal. Insect allergic individuals often change their lifestyles out of fear of stinging insects, sometimes avoiding outdoor activities altogether. Proper evaluation and treatment by an allergy specialist can eliminate much of the fear and misunderstanding associated with insect sting allergy. For a free inforamtional booklet, call 1-800-23-STING.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Recipes for Jumbles keep coming and coming. Thanks to many for sending recipes that are identical or almost the same and for that reason are not printed since two recipes were printed in an earlier issue. Here is one a bit different from Sandi Johnson.

Cinnamon Jumbles

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix together shortening, sugar, and egg thoroughly. Stir in buttermilk and vanilla. Measure flour, blend with soda, salt; stir in. Chill dough. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Drop on lightly greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with mixture of ¼ cup sugar and cinnamon. Bake 8-10 minutes until set but not brown. About 4 dozen cookies.

Also, here is a recipe from Betty Swann, New Oxford, with several variations of the original recipe.

Jubilee Jumbles

½ cup soft shortening
1½ cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¾ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix shortening, sugar, and eggs thoroughly. Stir in sour cream and vanilla. Measure flour. Blend flour, baking soda, and salt; stir in. Mix in the chopped nuts. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Drop by rounded talbespoonfuls of dough 2-inches apart onto greased baking sheet. Bake about 10 minutes or until almost no imprint remains when touched with finger. Spread cooled cookies with browned butter glaze.

Browned Butter Glaze:

Melt ½ cup butter until golden brown. Blend in 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Stir in 2 to 4 tablespoon hot water until icing spreads smoothly.

Coconut Jumbles: Make Jubilee Jumbles except mix into the dough 1 cup moist flaked coconut.

Chocolate Chip Jumbles: Make Jubilee Jumbles and add 6-ounces chocolate pieces.

Date or Raisin Jumbles: Make Jubilee Jumbles and add 1 cup finely cut dates or seedless raisins.

Spicy Sugar Jumbles: Make Jubilee Jumbles and sprinkle cookies with mixture of ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, and ¼ teaspoon cloves just before baking.

Chocolate Jumbles: Make Jubilee Jumbles except use only 2¼ cups flour, add ½ cup cocoa, and increase baking soda to 1 teaspoon.

Sugar Jumbles

Mix together thoroughly:
½ cup short shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift together and stir in:
1⅛ cups flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Drop rounded teaspoonfuls about 2-inches apart on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes or until delicately browned (cookies should be soft). Cool slightly. Remove from baking sheet. Makes about 3 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Glazed Orange Jumbles: Follow recipe for Sugar Jumbles, mix into dough 1½ teaspoon grated orange rind, and, if desired, 1 cup chopped nuts. Bake. While hot, dip tops of cookies in orange glaze (⅓ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, heated together).

Brazil or Pecan Jumbles: Follow recipe for Sugar Jumbles and mix 2 cups cut up Brazil or other nuts into the dough.

Leadline Focuses On Colored Wool Breeds

FREEPORT (Armstrong Co.) — The Natural Colored Wool Growers Sheep Association, Region 5, held a Leadline Show, at the Derry Agricultural Fair, New Derry, recently.

The objective of the Leadline Show is for young adults to model a 100% wool outfit and present their sheep in a most attractive manner and give spectators an opportunity to see the best of the sheep industry and the products the sheep industry give to us.

Ashley Hwostow, 11, Kittaning, won first place in Class B wearing a 100% cap and scarf, hand spun, hand knitted of non dyed natural colored wool. Jacket is 100% natural colored wool and checkered slacks 100% wool. The sheep she modeled is a Register NCWGA Black Columbia.

Malinda Nichols, 14, Freeport, won first place in Class C wearing a 100% Rust wool skirt and beret. The shawl is 100% non-dyed natural colored hand spun, hand woven. Her ram lamb "Rocky B" is a registered NCWGA Border Leicester.

Tasha Hwostow, 6, Kittaning, won first place in Class A wearig a 100% wool cap, sweater, skirt, and a hand dyed, hand spun, hand woven scarf. Tasha's lamb is a registered Natural Colored Corriedale.

Farm-City Day

City Day and she decided to become a volunteer because she knew the family and works with Norma Jean at the first National Bank of Canton. Other bank coworkers joined the many other Farm City Day Committee volunteers that helped make this year's event run smoothly.

All events ranging from the pedal tractor pull to the skin cancer screening were free of charge. Visitors also had a first hand glimpse of hoof trimming, milking, wool spinning, logging and Christmas tree trimming. Other opportunities included a wagon tour of the farm fields, a chance to see a new free-stall barn, bunk silos, lots of farm equipment, and several different species of farm animals.

Virginia Johnson, of Broomal, Pa, who was visiting friends in the area thought this was a wonderful experience. "It's very interesting. You learn things you never knew."

The petting zoo was a popular stop for children of all ages as they could get up close and personal with a horse, a lamb, a rabbit and pigs.

In the woods, forester Kerry Gyekis explained that they were performing a salvage cut in an attempt to clean and open the woodlot so the desirable species of timber could thrive.

People could also learn about the various farm organizations including feed mills, producer representatives, farm services and educational groups.

The Tioga County Dairy Princess and many dairy maids were also available to educate the public about the benefits of drinking milk. They, with the help of many sponsors handed out free Moo Koolers to all the kids who attended the event.

After selecting their favorite brand of Moo Kooler, people were invited to visit the food booth where appetites could be satisfied with chicken barbecue, sloppy joes, hot dogs, strawberry shortcake, milkshakes and more Moo Koolers. Volunteers from the Tioga County 4-H County Council and the Ogdensburg Cemetery Association worked nonstop throughout the day serving the tasty treats.

One new attraction this year was a farm auction, held to raise money for future events. Nearly 60 donated items including farm toys, bagged feed and even a tangled piece of drift wood were sold to the highest bidder.

All events, which were geared toward educating the people about farm life, were held under sunny skies.

"I'm just glad the good Lord gave us the weather he gave us," noted Brenda Pepper who was very impressed with the organization of the group.

For Jonathan, the youngest of the Peppers, the best part of the entire day was " seeing all my friends."

He also needs the address for Paragon Needleworks. One of his favorite books in the late 1940s was a Western novel with a character named Yonder Yancey. Does anyone know the author or name of the book and where he could obtain it?

ANSWER — Walter Mochari, N. Brunswick, N.J., wanted information or the location of Home Life Insurance Co. of America. Thanks to Kathleen Burdek for sending a number for a help line for all insurance companies. She used it and found the people most helpful. To request the information, call the National Insurance Consumer Helpline 1-800-942-4242, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

ANSWER — Mike Cannon's old wooden barn in Oreland is beseiged by carpenter bees that chew perfect circle holes all over the place, especially under the eves. Mike has tried wasp and hornet spray, but it doesn't bother them. The bees are driving Mike crazy because he can hear them chewing but feels helpless to stop them. Thanks to R. Sauder, York, who writes that a solution of Sevin and water in a hand sprayer will get rid of wood boring bees. Sevin is toxic to bees. Mix it a bit stronger than the instructions for spraying vegetables. Spray on the solution when bees are less active such as in the morning or evening. The Sauders have found some residual effect the following year.

ANSWER — Cindy Eshleman, Jonestown, wanted to know if anyone had any unwanted healthy animals to donate to a good home. Thanks to Sandy Olszewski who writes that she has six ewes that she will donate. Write to her at 439 Pine Hill Rd., Hummelstown, PA 17036.

ANSWER — Another source for the woman who wanted to know where to mail order wide width shoes is Lane Bryant, P.O. Box 8301, Indianapolis, IN 46283-8301. Call 800-477-7030 Operator #01 for a free catalog.

ANSWER — Michele Mackie wanted to buy Dark Shadows items from the 1960s-1970s, to replace items from the gothic soap opera that she had as a child. Thanks to Sue Hughes who writes that she has a Barnabas Collins Dark Shadows game made by Milton Bradley in 1969. The box is in excellent condition with nice graphics but one skeleton and a coffin are missing. She also has a large variety of other board games from the 1960s available. Call Sue at (814) 696-6757.

ANSWER — Eleanor Hertzog, King of Prussia, wanted to know if anyone has the book "Hankerchief Quilts, by Saron L. Newman, published by American School of Needlework Inc. The book is out of print and Eleanor is willing to pay a reasonable price for the book. Thanks to Mrily Rositzke who writes that she will send the book to Mrs. Hertzog for $4 plus .32 for sales tax, $1 postage and .68 for a large envelope. The total of $6 should be sent to Marilyn at 62 High Hill Loop, Catskill, NY 12414.

ANSWER — Lois Rausch, Walton, N.Y., wanted instructions for making a homemade drawing salve or ointment. Thanks to Mrs. Willis Shenk, Lititz, for writing that she has good results using a grated Irish potato and a bit of flour for drawing inflamation out.

ANSWER — Evan Weidman, Westfield, wanted information about June's Creamery. Thanks to Bruce Peterson, Parsonsburg, Md., who writes that the information can be had by writing American Guernsey Association, 7614-Slate Ridge Blvd., Reynoldsburg, Ohio 43068 or phone (614) 864-2409.

Ida's Notebook

by Ida Risser

When our grandchildren stay with us for a few hours, we eventually get around to telling stories. Often they will suggest that it be about a certain animal. Otherwise, I will revert to stories of long ago from my family or close relatives.

One story involves a young boy who climbed a tree in the meadow to catch a young groundhog. This was a nimble groundhog who, when grabbed by the tail, swung around and bit the child. That entailed a trip to the doctor and a subdued child.

Another story that is more than 100 years old, tells of a farm family who was handdigging a well in the yard. When they came outside to continue working after dinner, they discovered that the well had fallen in and covered all of their tools. How lucky that they were not in it at the time! The digging was then moved to another corner of the yard.

Sometimes I tell a simple story about a little girl who went to bed at her aunt's house, with chewing gum in her mouth. The next morning it was matted in her hair. So, the aunt rubbed butter into the tangle while the grandfather stood at the door and said, "Cut it off." This frightened the little girl. I was that little girl.

Then there is the story of the boy who was leading a 4-H calf when it decided to run away. But the boy held on to the rope and was dragged across the barnyard. For this act of bravery or stupidity, he got a deep gash across the top of his head, which required many stitches. To make the matter worse, the next day at school was a wrestling match that he had a good chance to win, but he had to miss it. Stories help to hold families together.

Is Your Lawn Lead Proof?

This is National Lead Poisoning Control Week. Lead poisoning is the nation's No. 1 environmental health threat to young children. According to the National Lead Information Center, very severe lead poisoning can cause coma, convulsions, and death. Low-level lead exposure causes decreased intelligence and impaired behavioral development, such as attention deficit. Lead-based paint is the most common source of high lead exposure for children. Most exposure, however, comes from contact with contaminated household dust rather than from eating paint chips. Identifying and controlling sources of lead in and around your home is an important responsibility.

Even though lead has been removed from major consumer products such as interior house paints, most gasoline, and solder used to seal canned food, it continues to show up in our environment and present a threat to human health. Although lead has been banned from house paint since 1978, the majority of U.S. homes were build before that time. According to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, about 74 percent of houses and apartments built before 1978 contain potentially dangerous levels of lead paint.

Household dust may contain tiny particles of lead released from lead-painted surfaces inside the home or tracked in with lead-contaminated soil from outside. Lead may be present in the soil around your home and near streets and highways close to your home. The narrow three-foot strip around the foundation is usually where the most contaminated soil can be found. This is because paint chips containing lead have fallen to the ground in this three-foot "drip zone" and over the years have mixed with the top layer of soil. Although total removal of contaminated soil is preferred, an easier alternative is covering this strip area with mulch at least three inches thick. You may even want to add shrubs and fencing to create a barrier.

According to the EPA, play areas can be made safer just by properly locating them in the yard. Swing sets and sand boxes should be located away from the drip zone where the most contaminated soils are found. Sand used in the sand box should be clean, uncontaminated material. When playing in the sand, kids sometimes put toys and/or their hands in their mouth. So, the sand box should be covered to prevent lead dust contamination when not in use. Soil should be tested in areas where kids are playing.

Worn dirt paths create dust. In areas where people regularly walk, paving will limit dust and dirt. Professional contractors can provide concrete walks or stone paths. A homeowner can place woodchips or heavy gravel in these areas to minimize dust.

Cars parked all over the yard destroy the grass that covers soil contaminated with lead from car exhaust. Driveways and parking lots (especially for multi-housing units buildings) should confine parking to a designated area that is either paved or has a gravel cover.

A healthy lawn is one of the best ways to reduce exposure to lead contaminated soils. A good grass cover minimizes the breakdown of soil and the creation of dust. Grass acts as a buffer that limits direct contact with the soil. Of course, a lawn requires routine maintenance with water and fertilizer to keep it healthy. This is still the most practical solution for those who want to use their yards for playing and relaxing.

Testing to determine the presence of lead in paint, dust, water, and soil is best done by trained professionals. A blood-lead test is the only way to tell if a child has been exposed to, too much lead and to begin to lower their blood-lead level. Even children who appear healthy may be at risk. The Center for Disease Control recommends that children be tested for the first time when they are one (1) year old. Testing should begin at six (6) months of age if a child is at high-risk for lead exposure. Decisions about further testing should be based on previous blood-lead test results, and whether the child is high or low risk for exposure to lead.

If you have any questions concerning lead poisoning prevention measures, lead inspection services, or testing laboratories contact the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program at 1-800-440-LEAD. For more information, look for your local health department in the blue pages of your telephone book. Or call 1-800-986-KIDS to find out how to get regular checkups for your kids.

The Cookie Monster™/"got milk?" billboard is one of four themes in ADADC's summer outdoor advertising campaign.

Cookie Monster Wants Milk

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — To help celebrate the 60th anniversary of June Dairy month, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC), hosted a milk and cookies party with Cookie Monster at the premiere of a giant Cookie Monster/"got milk?" billboard in Times Square, in New York City, on June 3.

The billboard features a milkless Cookie Monster surrounded by cookies and looking sad . . . The billboard's premiere in Times Square received national media coverage.

In celebration of the event, a giant billboard-size cookie was on hand to help satisfy Cookie Monster and the children who were even able to meet the cookie guru in person.

Throughout the rest of ADADC's marketing area, smaller Cookie Monster billboards will be displayed throughout June, July, and August, rotating among locations with the other three billboard themes: Oreo Cookies, Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and Hostess cupcakes. They will rotate among 220 locations in upstate New York and 146 locations in the Pennsylvania and New Jersey markets. In addition, 250 Cookie Monster and Hostess cupcake ads will appear on buses in metropolitan New York and Rochester.

Green Thumbs In The Kitchen Shares Tastes And Flavors of Rural America

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It's 4:30 in the starry Pennsylvania morning. Coffee perks in a bright kitchen as a few early birds being their day with song. A women in a flowered apron stirs pots, turns bacon, and mixes biscuit dough with the precision of a symphony conductor. Soon the family and hired hands will sit around the scrubbed oak table to enjoy this hearty breakfast before they begin their farm chores or head down the lane toward school. Fifty years later, the woman's daughter, now a Green Thumb worker, will share the biscuit recipe she loved so well.

Green Thumbs in the Kitchen is a new cookbook with heirloom recipes from the farms and hamlets of rural America. The cookbook reflects a time when life was simpler, when much of the food was grown at home and agricultural extension agents taught farmwives how to use new products. Green Thumbs in the Kitchen serves up memories, comfort foods, childhood favorites, and traditions. The 272-page book is packed with family favorite recipes. Where else will you find Aunt Lizzie's Doughnut Holes, Daddy's Barbecue Sauce, Mom's Chili, or Grandma's Soft Sugar Cookies?

Copies may be purchased from any local Green Thumb representative, or call the State Office at (717) 731-8530. Proceeds support Green Thumb training and employment programs for older workers.

Members active in 55 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties, assisting more than 1,350 older workers annually. Last year, participants worked more than 760,000 hours in community service assignments in 650 Pennsylvania non-profit agencies. Nearly one-fourth of older workers move off the program into higher-paying jobs each year. Green Thumb is the nation's oldest and largest provider of mature worker training and community service employment, and operates primarily in rural areas of 44 states and Puerto Rico.

BAKED FISH

1 to 1½ pounds haddock, halibut, or orange roughy
1 can cream of celery soup
1½ tablespoon dried onion flakes
1 teaspoon pepper
1 can French fried onions

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse fish and pat dry. Place in oblong baking dish. Mix soup, onion, and pepper together and pour over fish. Top with French fried onions. Cover tightly. Bake for 1 hour. Yield: 4-6 servings.

SOUTHERN BAKED GRITS

A favorite breakfast served with crisp bacon and fresh fruit.

5 cups water
1½ teaspoon salt
1 cup regular (not instant) grits
½ cup grated sharp cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Bring water to a boil in a medium saucepan. Add salt and grits and bring to a slow boil and cook for 20 minutes. Set aside ⅓ cup cheese. Add the rest of the cheese, butter, and eggs to the cooked grits and mix well. Pour into a buttered casserole dish and top with the remaining ⅓ cup cheese. Bake 30 minutes. Yield: 10-12 servings.

SAUSAGE BISCUITS

Mixture will blend easily if the sausage is at room temperature.

1 pound hot (spicy) bulk sausage
3 cups biscuit mix
1 pound sharp cheddar cheese, grated

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix all ingredients in a large bowl. Shape into small balls and place on a cookie sheet. Bake about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Yield: about 30 biscuits.

WAGONS, HO

To mark straight even rows for vegetable planting, pull a child's wagon across your garden plot after it has been spaded.

Lillian D. Johnson,

MAGIC CABBAGES

I plant 6 early-variety cabbage plants. When they mature, I harvest by cutting the cabbage 2 to 3 leaf layers up from the root system. The stem will produce a cabbage at each of the 4 to 5 leaf joints. I cut the cabbages at the end of July when they are 6 to 7 inches in diameter. By frost time the other 24+ cabbages are ready for harvest.

POISON IVY REVENGE

Spray the infested area with a solution of 1 gallon soapy water and 3 pounds of salt. A few treatments will kill it.

PEST CONTROL

•Get rid of red ants — the biting kind — by spreading quick grits in affected areas. The ants eat the grits, the grits expand, the ants are gone.

•Sprinkle salt on slugs.

•If you're unfortunate enough to pick up chiggers while working outside, paint over the point of entry with clear nail polish. It suffocates them.

•If rabbits are nibbling your garden, dust inexpensive talcum powder on or around the plants. This works on tomatoes, peppers, potatoes, and other plants. If rain washes it away, just apply more.

•Hang aluminum pie plates from stakes all around the vegetable garden to keep the birds away.

GERMAN CHOCOLATE SQUARES

I am the state director of Pennsylvania's Green Thumb program, and I live right in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch/Amish community. This is a popular recipe that combines the rich Amish baking tradition with the influence of Hershey, Pa.

60 caramels
⅔ cup evaporated milk plus ⅓ cup
1 box German chocolate cake mix
¾ cup butter, melted
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 13x9 pan. In a heavy saucepan, combine caramels and ⅓ cup milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until melted. Set aside. In a large bowl, combine cake mix, butter, ⅓ cup milk, and nuts. Pat half of dough into pan, save rest for topping. Bake for 8 minutes. Sprinkle chocolate chips over crust. Spread caramel mixture over chips. Crumble remaining dough over caramel layer. Return to oven and bake 18-20 minutes. Cool slightly. Refrigerate 30 minutes to set caramel layer. Yield: 18-20 servings.

Eyecatching Dairy Product Display Stops Upscale Shoppers

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Shoppers who strolled 57th Street in New York City were recently treated to a feast for the eyes when the display windows of upscale department store Bergdorf Goodman's featured not only the latest spring fashions, but over 4,000 servings of dairy products as well! Surrounded by packages of whole, low-fat and skim milk; chocolate and strawberry milk, ice cream and butter, mannequins were posed with glasses of milk in hand and sported fun ice cream sundae hats.

The concept of using dairy products to highlight her spring collections was the brainstorm of trendy fashion designer Ana Sui, who is known for her fresh, fun-loving styles which can often be seen on MTV. Just a few days before the display was to be launched. Bergdorf Goodman's window designer placed a frantic phone call to American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC), for help.

ADADC arranged for dairy product containers from processors in the tri-state area to participate in the display. Processors whose product containers were featured in the window collection included the following: Bartlett Dairy, Queens, NY; Dairy Fresh, Queens, NY; Hermany Farms, Bronx, NY; Hershey Foods, Hershey; Hotel Bar Foods, Northern, NJ; Land 'O Lakes, Southhampton, PA; Meadowbrook Dairy, Bronx, NY; Tuscan Dairy, Union, NJ; and Welsh Farms, Long Valley, NJ.

Processors from the marketing area of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) were used to create a "fresh" background for a trendy designer's fashions. Mannequins sporting milkshake hats were surrounded by dairy product containers in the window of Bergdorf Goodman's on 57th Street in New York City. With the help of ADADC, window designers placed more than 4,000 dairy packages in the window of this upscale department store, thus teasing window shopper's fashion fancy and taste buds alike.

The response from shoppers? One Bronx resident summed it up nicely: "It makes me hungry. I feel like getting myself a milkshake and an ice cream sundae for lunch."

GEHL®

YOUR BEST FORAGE BOX VALUE

Gehl's new BU960 Self-unloading forage box has been redesigned for improved performance and durability. Features include:

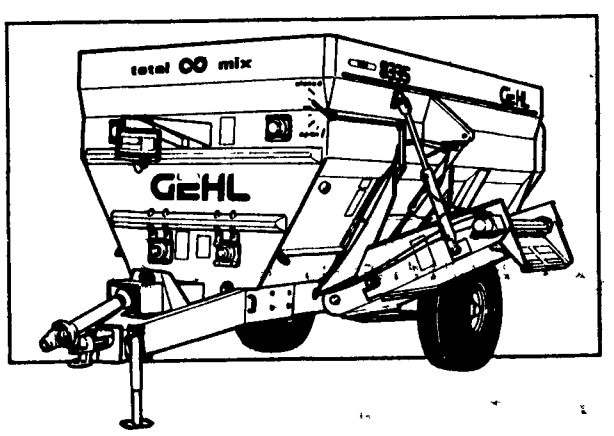
- ❒ True variable-speed drive for infinite unloading speeds.
- ❒ Single lever control.
- ❒ Improved beater design.
- ❒ Stronger drive chain and reinforced roof.
- ❒ Standard highway light package.
- ❒ Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension.

TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content

- "Hay - slicer auger "- Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

CARTER 1997

Hatfield Quality Meats goes on-line with their new Autofom technology July 21. A fresh payment program accompanies this modern technology. Many folks, including those at Hatfield, have been anxiously awaiting this day. Others, not knowing what to expect, have been taking a wait-and-see approach. What follows is not a detailed description but instead, some comments on the high points of the new program.

IS IT A GOOD PROGRAM?

It's a good program There are no traps, but there are a ton of changes In fact, the Autofom is the simplest part The grade and weight program carries only a few remnants from the previous system Don't try to absorb it all with the first kill sheet that you get back

WILL YOU BE BETTER OR WORSE OFF THAN BEFORE?

That depends on the type of hogs that you have, how closely you have them sorted, and the current market price We can say that the fatter hogs will receive less; the leaner hogs will receive more But because there are a lot of variables, it's difficult to say how much less and how much more When you get your first grading sheet, there won't be a comparison between the twoprograms

THINGS THAT ARE DIFFERENT

The Machine In the former program a grader used the Fat-O-Meat'er, an optical probe with a hollow tube, to measure fat and loin depth at about the 10th rib. These two numbers were used to predict percent lean cuts The new program uses the Autofom, an ultrasonic device made by the same company Sixteen transducers take more than 2000 readings on the carcass Roughly one hundred readings will be used to predict percent primals (similar to percent lean cuts) and a variety of other items The Autofom is stationary, and hasno moving parts and no operator

Wider Weight Range The former program paid top price for carcasses weighing between 161 and 200 lb The new program expands the weight range to 160-205 This is one of the widest weight ranges in the country

Premium Weight Range This is an add on Again, there will be no weight sort penalty unless carcasses weigh less than 160 or more than 205 lb. But carcasses weighing between 175 and 185 lbs will receive a $.35/cwt weight sort bonus. With this approach, you now have two weight-sort incentives One incentive will encourage you to keep the hogs in the standard weight range The second incentive is the bonus you receive for any carcasses in the premium weight range I'm anxious to see how successful producers will be at hitting this target. It will obviously take some effort, but I suspect producers who now achieve average weight sort penalties less than $.20/cwt will be up to the challenge.

Sliding Scale Weight Sort Penalties. On the old program, there was a set price for each eight-lb increment above or below the desirable weight range. For example, hogs between 153 and 160 lb received a $2 69/cwt discount. With the new program, each lb below desirable weight range will be discounted 1.25%. If the carcass weighs 150 lbs, it's 10 lb too light. For a carcass price of $70/cwt, the discount will be 10 lb X 1.25% X $70/cwt = $8.75/cwt.

Multiply the discount price times the carcass weight to get the discount per hog ($8.75/cwt X 150 lb = $13.13). Heavy carcasses will be discounted .5% per lb from 206-230 lbs. Carcasses over 230 lbs will be discounted 35%. The downside to this program is that hogs well out of the 160-205 lb bracket will be hammered more heavily than before. But a positive aspect is that the discount will be less when market prices are lower.

Lean Percent Prediction. The former program reported percent lean cuts (the weight of the closely trimmed hams, loins, and shoulders as a percentage of chilled carcass weight). The new program will report primal percent. Primal percent still reflects the proportion of hams, loins, and shoulders, but the type of ham used in the new prediction formula is a skinned and de-fatted ham. That makes the primal percentage slightly lower than the former lean cutpercentage on the same hog.

Sliding Scale Bonuses and Discounts. The former program had bonus and discount "intervals." Above 56% lean cuts you'd get a bonus, but the bonus came in jumps. For example, between 55 50 and 56.49% lean cuts, you received base price. The next price interval was 56.50-57.49% and so forth. So you could find hogs with slightly different backfat depths getting the same price. On the new program, the price will change every time primal percent changes

Primal Reimbursement. Just like you have target weight ranges for hogs, Hatfield has target weight ranges for the primal cuts (ham, loins, shoulder, bellies). For example, the target weight range for a loin is 15-18 lbs. If you sell a hog that is too heavy or too light, it's still possible to have some primals in these target weight ranges. The Autofom predicts the weights of the primals for each carcass. If some of the primals fall into the target weight ranges, you'll be reimbursed for part of the weight sort discount.

Discounts for Damaged and Undesirable Carcasses. There are now four categories: major damage, cull value, cryptorchids and visible boars, and condemned. Carcasses with major damage receive a discount of $8/cwt (slightly higher than the discount on the old program, but major discounted carcasses are now eligible for primal cut premiums). Cull value carcasses have multiple major damages and receive only one half base value. Any carcass with testicles will be receive only one third of base value: While this is clearly below boar market value and significantly less than prices paid for boars under the old program, Hatfield is sending an obvious message that they don't want these pigs If you have an occasional cryptorchid pig (undescended testicles), make sure he's identified so he can be marketed somewhere else

The Report. The report has a different front-page format It's easier to follow, and provides good summary information. The printout of individual carcasses on the back sheets are listed lightest to heaviest, and show the bonus and discounts on a per hog basis, rather than per hundred weight. Also the fat depth readings are now in millimeters, rather than inches.

THINGS THAT ARE THE SAME

Market price calculation. Same as before, except for the day that the market price is entered. In the former program, the price was entered on the same day. Now, the price from the previous day will be used. This will enable producers to find out prices sooner, and allow Hatfield to process checks earlier.

Standard yield. Still 74.4%. Divide the live market price by the standard yield to get the base carcass price No changes here except that standard yield is now called the price conversion factor.

FINAL COMMENTS

Genetic Selection. Unlike the old program, which reported two measurements (fat and loin depth), the new program provides none of the measurements used in the prediction formulas. Like any grade and weight program, selecting for lean hogs will provide the greatest benefit. But, at the moment, it would difficult to design a genetic program to maximize payment on the Autofom system. This October (and many Octobers to come) we will be measuring several hundred carcasses for the Keystone International Livestock Exposition. With that information, we'll be able

Growth Stage Identification Critical

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Many mid-season management decisions depend on corn growers making accurate corn development evaluations, said John Harker, Novartis Seeds, Inc. agronomist for Iowa.

Corn growers making yield loss assessments due to hail damage or other plant injury need to establish the stage of plant growth at the time when the damage occurred. Likewise, producers need to know the stage of development in order to use post-emergence herbicides effectively, take plant stand counts and make pest management decisions.

The staging system for vegetative growth starts with emergence and concludes at tasseling. Harker recommends growers define each leaf stage according to the uppermost, unfurled leaf with a visible collar. A plant at the four-leaf stage will have parts of the fifth or sixth leaf visible, but only four leaves with distinct collars.

Producers can easily determine the early vegetative stages of growth by counting the number of fully emerged leaves with collars. However, once the plant has six fully emerged leaves with collars, stalk elongation and nodal root growth tear the lower four-to-six leaves loose from the plant.

Growers can determine the leaf stage of these more mature plants by splitting the lower stalk lengthwise and looking for internode growth. The fifth leaf attaches to the node above the first elongated internode. Harker suggests growers use this node as the new reference point for counting collared leaves.

Researchers To Study Spread of Rabies

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A team of Penn State and commonwealth researchers are beginning to track the spread of rabies in Pennsylvania with an eye to limiting the distribution of the disease.

"Rabies is an emerging public health issue," said Dr. Toni Miles, professor of biobehavioral health and director of the Center for Special Populations. "Pennsylvania Department of Health data indicates that raccoon rabies has increased from no cases in 1981 to over 300 cases in 1996."

This epidemic poses a significant risk to domesticated animals and ultimately to humans. An estimated 15,000 people in Pennsylvania are bitten by animals every year. Some of these bites are inflicted by unvaccinated domesticated animals. Others are from wild animals such as raccoons.

"Although raccoon-transmitted rabies has not yet been responsible for human deaths, the cost of post-exposure rabies treatment in humans and the cost of domestic animals control are considerable," said Miles.

In the U.S., post-exposure treatment ranges from $1,500 to $5,000 per person treated.

Rabies has spread throughout the northeastern United States since 1977, and Pennsylvania now sits on the edge of this growing problem.

The researchers plan to identify the pattern of rabies spread and develop strategies for prevention by combining laboratory data on virus taken from rabid animals with sophisticated geographic information systems. The project will produce maps identifying the spread of raccoon rabies in Pennsylvania between 1982 and 1996.

Once the maps are in hand, the researchers will analyze the spatial data with an eye toward limiting the further spread of the disease.

Penn State's Center for Special Populations in the College of Health and Human Development is sponsoring this initiative. The Penn State team is headed by Dr. Dale Moore, research associate in veterinary science, and includes Dr. George Vogler, associate professor of biobehavioral health and associate director of the Center for Special Populations; Dr. Donna Peuquet, professor of geography; and Dr. Peter Gould, Evan Pugh, professor of geography. The Pennsylvania departments of health and agriculture will participate in the study.

Farm Credit Leasing Names New V.P.

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Brian K. Legried was recently appointed to serve as vice president of credit and lease processing for Farm Credit Leasing (FCL), which is part of the Farm Credit System.

In his new role, Legried will be responsible for credit administration and lease processing for the direct lease origination division, which last year placed $270 million of FCL's total $407 million in equipment on lease.

Hesston Celebrates 50 Years

ATLANTA, Ga. — This year marks 50 years of Hesston innovation in the farm equipment industry. Since 1947, Hesston has been leading the industry in the design and manufacture of hay and forage equipment.

Today, Hesston holds more than 800 national and foreign patents and continues to market innovative products manufactured in Hesston, Kan. The current Hesston product line includes self-propelled windrowers, mower conditioners, rakes, tedders, round balers, rectangular balers and forage harvesters.

Hesston Machine and Manufacturing Company was formed when Lyle Yost and an engineer invented the first grain unloading auger for his combine. Over the next decade, Hesston developed more than 70 new attachments and parts to improve and facilitate the work of combines.

In 1955 Hesston entered the hay and forage business with the introduction of the first commercially available self-propelled swather. In the late '60s and '70s, Hesston changed the way hay was made by introducing a series of innovative products.

Hesston introduced the first true one-way haying system, the StakHand, in 1969. The Hydro-Swing® mower conditioner, the industry's first center-pivot windrower, followed in the early '70s. The innovative ideas continued and in 1978, Hesston introduced the first big baler designed to produce one-ton rectangular bales.

In 1980, Hesston followed with the 460 "Beeline" baler, the industry's first in-line baler for conventional square bales. And, although Hesston did not invent the round baler, they improve upon the product by adding an "open throat" design for easy bale starting. This innovation is now an industry standard.

Kreamer Celebrates 50th

KREAMER (Snyder Co.) — Kreamer Feed celebrated its 50th anniversary on Wednesday, June 11.

The event began at 10 a.m. with tours of the mill.

More than 150 took advantage of this opportunity to see firsthand what is involved in feed production.

A buffet luncheon was served at the Kreamer Fire Hall for 300 guests. These guests were former and current customers, suppliers, employees, friends, financial institutions, and members of the local community.

Kreamer Feed received citations from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and the Snyder County Commissioners. They were presented plaques, flowers, and other gifts by suppliers and local businesses.

Kreamer Feed gave awards to present employees Romayne Kline and Charles Kessler, who each have over 40 years of service as employees. Harry Aurand and Dallas Snook received awards for more than 30 years of service each from 1952 through mid '80s until their retirement. Recognition was given to current poultry producer Merle Corbin who has been with Kreamer Feed more than 40 years and two of earlier poultry producers, now retired.

Claas Offers System On Balers

COLUMBUS, Ind. — Claas of America introduced the latest innovation in baler efficiency aimed at improved economies of operation and easier product handling, the Roto Cut™ cutting system.

The system is designed to cut the material being baled so the bale is preprocessed for feeding or bedding.

The Roto Cut cutting system features a heavy-duty helical rotor which provides even feeding of the material through the knives. The cutting knives are spaced to provide a theoretical cut length of 2¼" and are spring-loaded for protection against foreign material. The knives can be engaged and disengaged by operating a switch on the cab-mounted control box.

Claas offers the Roto Cut system on its Rollant™ 46 fixed chamber and Variant 180 variable chamber round balers, the Quadrant™ 1150 mid-size and Quadrant™ 1200 large square balers.

Glencoe Incorporates 3-Point Mounted Field Cultivators Into Product Line

ATLANTA, Ga. — AGCO Glencoe introduces two new 3-point mounted Field Cultivator/ Incorporators, the FC870 and FC875, that effectively incorporate chemicals into the soil while preparing a smooth seedbed. These new machines add another dimension to Glencoe's full line of tillage equipment.

Available in a wide range of working widths, the FC870 and FC875 come in rigid frame and hydraulic folding frame models. Working widths of the rigid frame models are 10 foot, 12 foot, 14 foot, and 19 foot, while the larger hydraulic folding models have 19 foot and 22 foot working widths with a 15 foot transportation width. Hydraulic cylinders with hoses are standard on the folding models.

The FC870 and FC875 feature four ranks spaced 17 inches apart on a 2 inch x 2 inch bar. A 4 inch shank spacing with 16 inches between adjacent shanks insures good residue and soil flow. To ensure smooth seedbed preparation and complete chemical incorporation, the field cultivator/ incorporators are equipped with ultra-high vibration tines with a choice of points or shovels. Reversible points and 2¼ inches, 4 inches, or 7 inches sweeps are available.

Dual, floating 12 inch rolling baskets with spiral blades finish incorporating while firming the seedbed. The rolling baskets are supported by flexible spring loaded mounting arms. Regreasable sealed ball bearings in the rolling baskets increase the durability and life of the machines.

Additiona features include gauge wheels with 7.60x15 six ply tires and turnbuckle or pin-type adjustments on the rigid units. Turnbuckle adjustment is standard on the folding units. Gauge wheels can be repositioned outside the tractor duals with an optional gauge wheel extension kit.

The FC870 (shown) and FC875 are the newest additions to AGCO Glencoe's full line of field cultivators. The two new machines, available in 10 foot 4 inch to 22 foot widths, were designed to effectively incorporate chemicals while preparing a smooth seedbed.

Rolls 50,000th Tractor Off The Line

AUGUSTA, Ga. — John Deere's Augusta commercial products plant recently celebrated a major milestone when its 50,000th 5000 Series Utility Tractor rolled off the line.

Mike Massie of Flint Hill, Va., bought the 50,000th tractor made in the Augusta plant since production began in February 1992.

Plant Manager Gibo Biondi and the Atlanta branch sales manager, Glenn Sears, arranged to celebrate the commercial milestone by flying Massie down to Augusta to drive the tractor off the line. John Deere Dealer Butch Gilbert of Gilbert Implements in Orange, Va., and his salesman, Billy Corbin, accompanied Massie on the trip.

Massie, a beef cattle farmer, said driving the brand new tractor off the line was "every farmer's dream. Equipment doesn't get any fresher than that."

The Augusta plant manufactures a full line of powerful and versatile compact and utility tractors, including three "55 Series" models featuring hydrostatic transmissions and the powerful 40- to 73-hp "5000 Series" tractors.

to match up conventional measurements (fat depth, loin eye area) with pricing on the Autofom system. That will provide useful data that can potentially be used in genetic selection programs.

A Positive Note. At the informational meeting I attended in Adamstown on June 26, Phil Clemens, President and CEO of Hatfield Quality Meats, provided a few remarks. He gave some well-deserved praise to Jeff Arner for his efforts in developing this program He also talked about a recent acquisition of a meat processor and the importance of reinvesting into the company. But the most significant comment he made was that Hatfield has set a goal of growing 15% per year. If they meet that goal, you'll feel the effects, which will probably outweigh any of the program changes just described. We need our packers not only to stay healthy, we need them to grow. That keeps them competitive -- and keeps you in business.

Agriculture Department Consolidates Health Programs

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Animal health programs within the Agriculture Department have been consolidated to provide better service to the agricultural industry in the commonwealth, according to Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius.

The Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory, the divisions of the Bureau of Animal Industry and the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission will be combined under a new bureau, Animal Health and Diagnostic Services.

"The consolidation provides an opportunity for improved efficiency and economies for the department," Brosius said. "We will continue to provide prompt service to the constituencies we serve."

Dr. Sherbyn Ostrich will serve as acting director of the new bureau, and as acting chief of the laboratory division. Dr. Max VanBuskirk, formerly director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, will retire on June 20. During the interim period he will help to develop the rules and regulations needed for implementation of the Domestic Animal Health Act of 1996.

Dr. Fred Rommel will move to his former position as veterinary laboratory microbiology service manager.

The opening of the new diagnostic laboratory last September has shortened turnaround times for testing and optimized computer links with laboratories within the animal health system.

The vitality of animal agriculture, representing $1.36 billion, is basic to the economic success of agriculture. The improved delivery of services to protect the health of animals helps ensure the safety of the food supply to consumers.

It also supports the stringent health requirements of the export markets. Agriculture exports for 1995 accounted for $923.4 million.

Increasing exports is a priority of the Ridge Administration, and the combined resources of the Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services will ensure the industry's ability to be competitive on the world market.

Silo Unloader Technology Leaps Forward

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — Jamesway has launched a totally redesigned unloader system that combines the best features of its Big Jim® and B.U.C.S.® Systems, with new and improved technology.

The Big Jim® Quantum™ System features an industrial-type design and heavier components that deliver faster unloading, greater feed value, and easier maintenance. The system is available in two models for use in both conventional and oxygen-limited 20- to 30-foot diameter forage silos.

Capable of unloading five times faster than sweep or auger type bottom unloaders, the Big Jim Quantum is equipped with a Jamesway double chain conveyor. Installed in the base of the silo, it quickly delivers volumes of feed, up to 1,100 pounds per minute.

Additionally, this heavy-duty system evenly distributes feed during filling, eliminating the cone effect from center fill systems and increasing silo capacity through uniform compaction. Compared to a convention bottom unloader, the Big Jim Quantum System stores up to 35 percent more forage.

With a Big Jim Quantum installation, farmers can expect greater feed value since forage is ensiled with 55 to 65 percent moisture content. This high moisture forage packs tighter in the silo, reducing the amount of air trapped within the feed.

GALAXY SKID-STEER TIRES WITH NEW "TYRLINER" RESIST PUNCTURES UP TO 1/4" IN DIAMETER!

Tyrliner protects not only the tread, but the shoulder too — where most flats occur
Tyrliner coating is at least 1/4" thick in the tread area.

It protects both the tread and the sidewall!
* "Tryliner" reduces your risk of flats - no matter how tough the terrain! Keeps downtime to a minimum.
* Forms air-tight barrier and heals punctures instantly... while you keep working!
* Turns any tire into a self-healing tire!
* Warranted for the entire life of the casing, all-season Tyrliner is not affected by extreme heat or cold!

New Rhino 3 pt. Disc Mower In Stock at Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. For Quick Availability

5 Disc 83" Cutting Width

Rhino disc mowers feature an easy access cutterbar. The innovative design of the cutterbar allows access to the disc spindle shaft and gear module without disassembly of the entire cutterbar, reducing maintenance costs and downtime. The hardened rock guards are designed to help protect the entire leading edge of the cutterbar from damage and, along with the skid shoes, are easily replaceable. A heavy-duty CAT III & Cat II offset three-point hitch made of 4"x6" thick-wall tubing, is standard to provide dependable service. A safety breakaway system is built in to provide mainframe protection against sudden impacts when mowing. With 5" of blade overlap and blade tip speed of 15,814 RPM. Rhino disc mowers provide a clean, smooth cut. Rugged construction and high performance are two reasons Rhino disc mowers are the ideal choice for fast, efficient grass mowing

Patented Free Swinging Hammer Expeller

Forged Steel Hammer

Each hammer has a nylon bushing and a replaceable manganese steel wear plate

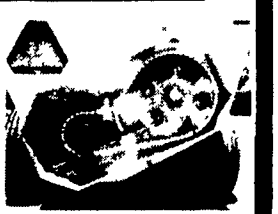
The expeller on all ProTwin models features 15 forged steel hammers mounted on a 2 1/2 shaft The hammers pivot on 1/4 bolts with nylon anti seize type bushings that allow free movement The expeller rotates at over 800 RPM allowing each eight pound hammer to swing down into the material peeling it off and slinging it underhand in a fine spread pattern with no clumps The 3 wide free swinging hammers absorb shock and tolerate most foreign objects Each hammer is faced with a work hardening manganese steel wear plate for longer life and low cost replacement The adjustable shroud allows easy hammer clearance setting for optimum spread pattern width This proven hammer expeller design enables fine spreading control and material calibration through the combination of the hydraulic door opening and ground speed



Rear Drive Compartment*

The right auger is driven at the rear and is shear pin protected Bearings chains and sprockets are easily accessible for routine maintenance

*Shields removed for illustration only
Do not operate without shields in place and functioning

AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE

Happy 20th Birthday!
to Case IH AXIAL FLOW Combines

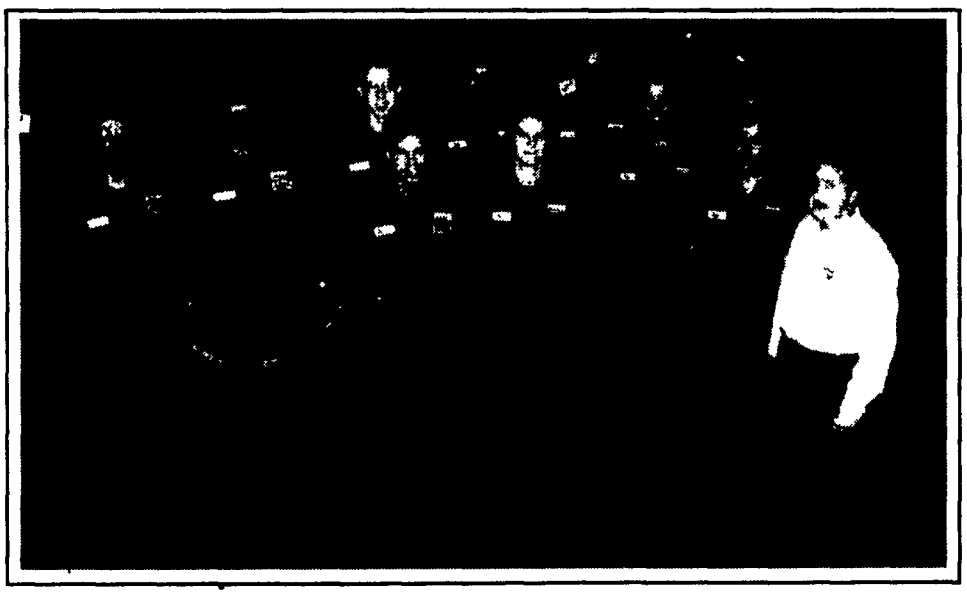
The Axial Flow concept was new in 1977. After twenty years the single rotor design that eliminated straw walkers and increased the threshing and separating area through the use of centrifugal force is still the same. But the technological advances in the 2100 Series make their cousins of 1978 and 1979 seem like antiques.

PRODUCTIVITY, PERFORMANCE, and PREMIUM GRAIN were the hallmarks of the axial flow combine in 1977 and they still are today - - more so because of the steady productivity and performance improvements, made over the past 20 years.



Hoober People are proud of their association with the Case IH Axial Flow combine since the beginning. Our customers know that our commitment to the Axial flow is based upon our ability to make the Axial Flow combine out perform the competition in all crop conditions.

COMBINE VIDEOS & BOOK

❑ NEW VIDEO! THE TWO THOUSAND MILE HARVEST. Every year, ten of the world's largest combines follow the grain harvest for a five month journey from Texas over the heartland of the U.S.A. to Lethbridge, Alberta. The crew of eighteen show what life on the road is like through their working days - coordinating moves from site to site, coping with the machinery on a grand scale, progressing with humour and ingenuity through the unpredictable and evocative midwestern landscape. This is the ultimate harvester's road movie. VHS. Colour. 60 minutes $34.95

❑ NEW VIDEO! CLASSIC COMBINES Viewers both young and old will enjoy watching 150 years of harvesting grain, from the days of the scythe to the satellite. Covers Claas, International Harvester, John Deere, New Holland & many more makes. See machinery in full action. VHS. 60 minutes. $34.95.

❑ SPECIAL! Both above videos plus book, reg. $99.85 value for $79.85

1997 FARM EQUIPMENT GUIDE

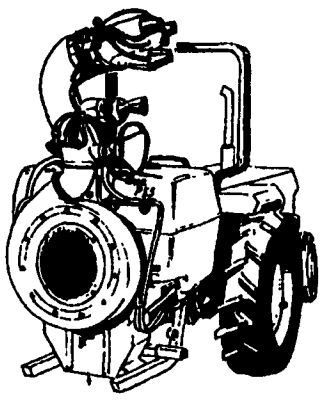
Atomize Your Crops... Maximize Your Harvest!



We are all endeavoring to profit from the best possible yield from our crops. Fighting diesease and insects with chemicals is an on-going process.

Chemicals have proven to be effective, but the secret is in the application. Atomizers have been used since the 1970's in actual field experience, and insure clean, blemish-free, bountiful crops.

cima® Atomizers

If you are interested in reducing cost, saving time and effort, and preserving the environment, while getting the most from your harvest, call for more information.

MILK PRODUCTION HIGHER SOMATIC CELL COUNT LOWER AS MORE DAIRYMEN TEST FORMULA-M

As I am writing this, there are hundred and hundreds more Dairymen testing Formula M. The results are trickling in. By the time you read this, we may have the final results. I have been testing Formula M for years and all the results have exceeded my expectations in appetite improvement; higher energy level; giving more milk; cows (even the extremely difficult or next to impossible ones) getting pregnant on the first breeding.

AND NOW!!! Dairymen everywhere are telling me that the Somatic Cell Count goes down when they feed Formula M. Over and over, I am hearing that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down. Dairymen tell me that they have tried other products and that they thought they saw some benefits, but the same Dairymen tell me that they see very dramatic differences almost immediately when using Formula M. Dairymen say they see a vast improvement in energy level and appetite. They say that they can see a significant increase in milk in a week to ten days after starting on Formula M. Some Dairymen say their cows average 5 pounds more milk per cow, per day. The last reports I am waiting for are on Somatic Cell Count. They keep coming in and they keep verifying what we have been told many times before, that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down when feeding Formula M.

If I had known all this before I set the price, (8¢ per cow, per day) I might have charged more. After all, it looks like most Dairymen will make an extra $1.00 per cow, per day.

Formula M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed Formula M according to the directions on the label, only ½ ounce per cow per day. (Formula M is very concentrated. ½ ounce per day is all they need). You can put Formula M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain mix or if you prefer, you can top dress Formula M. All you need to do to get Formula M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to FRANK LAMPLEY and give it to the driver when he delivers.

A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and costs only $92.00 (I pay freight). Formula M is completely free of drugs and made by the same people who make Vitamix.

There is one question that keeps coming up over and over, "How long do I have to keep feeding the Formula M?" "Forever?" The answer is, "Only as long as you want to keep making the extra dollar per day, per cow."

A Legend in the Industry...
The Bush Hog 2615L Rotary Cutter

Setting the industry standards for performance and reliability, Bush Hog's 2615 Legend Flex-Wing Rotary Cutter is in the clear choice for maintaining pastures and rights-of-way on even and uneven terrain. With a big 15-foot cutting width and wings that flex from 90° up to 22° down, this rugged cutter gives you fast, on-the-go control of all mowing functions. Cutting height is from 2 to 14 inches and cutting capacity is recommended for material up to 2 inches in diameter.

BUSH HOG®

BEST TURF MOWERS FOR A QUALITY CUT.

The Bush Hog TD Series Tri-Deck Finishing Mowers are available in 15 or 17-foot cutting widths and are ideal for sod growers, golf courses, land owners, municipalities and recreational sites.

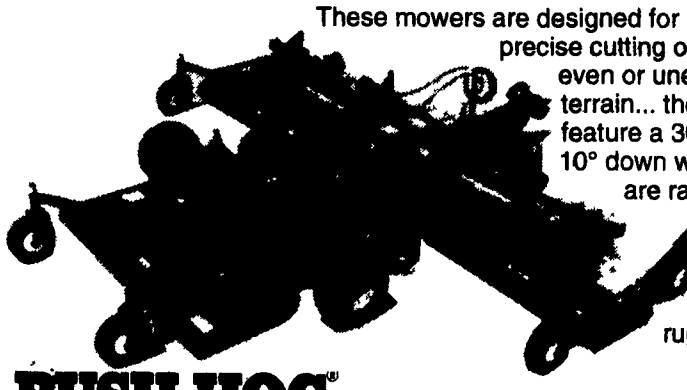
BUSH HOG ALLIED PRODUCTS CORPORATION



These mowers are designed for precise cutting on even or uneven terrain... they feature a 30° up and 10° down wing flex and are rated for 40 and 45 minimum tractor horsepower. Gearbox rpm is 540, and deck construction is rugged; 7-gauge steel.

BUSH HOG®

The ATH AIR TUNNEL FINISH MOWERS CUTS LAWNS FAST & EASY.

With Bush Hog's ATH Air Tunnel Finishing Mowers, cutting large lawns is fast and easy. Adjustments are minimal and these mowers give you the features needed to tackle heavy grass and uneven terrain. Heavy, 7-gauge steel deck plate, floating top linkage and lower link allow uniform cutting. High blade tip speeds and 1-1/2 or 2-1/4 inch blade overlap assure clean cutting. Select a 60, 72 or 90-inch model to match your tractor and cutting needs.

3 CUTTERS FOR ALMOST ANY JOB.

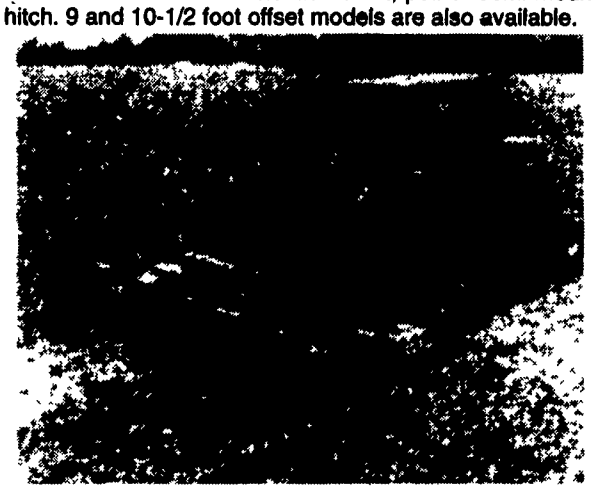
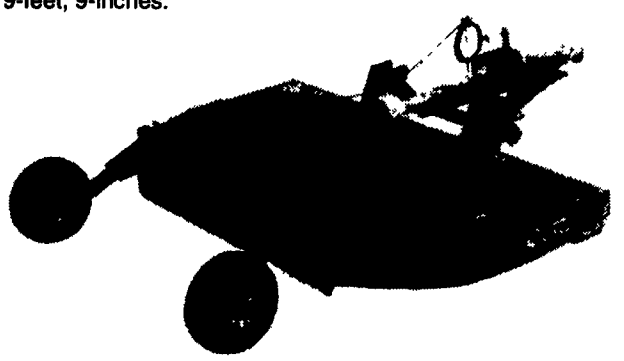
The Bush Hog 3200 Series Rotary Cutters are your best choice for the widest range of mowing requirements. These rugged cutters are provided in 9, 10-1/2 and 14-foot widths and with a selection of lift, pull or semi-mount hitch. 9 and 10-1/2 foot offset models are also available.



BUSH HOG®

Three Ways To Control Grass On Larger Acreages.

2510 Series Rotary Cutters are available in three hitch designs: three-point lift, pull or semi-mount. But no matter what your choice, all models yield outstanding results with general mowing and pasture clipping jobs. Cutting width is 9-feet, 9-inches.



BUSH HOG®

Three Backhoe Models to Match Your Tractor
AND DIGGING REQUIREMENTS.

The Bush Hog line of rugged backhoes gives you a choice of models with digging depths from 8 to 10-1/2-feet.Operation is made easy, with all operating functions controlled by two handy levers from the adjustable, cushioned operator's seat. Models are available for 20 to 100 HP tractors with a wide selection of bucket sizes to match your requirements. If you have digging chores to be done come in today and let us show you a Bush Hog backhoe.

SQUEALERS MOW DOWN THE COMPETITION.

Bush Hog Squealers have outsold the competition because they are dependable. Each model is equipped with a tough Bush Hog gearbox that carries a two-year warranty. And, except for the 42-inch model, all Squealers feature oval type blade pans. The 60 and 72-inch models have an "in-line" shear pin with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap. The cutter blade tips move faster for more efficient cutting. And Bush Hog quality is built into every unit to cut grass and maintenance problems at the same

A COMPLETE FAMILY OF LOADERS FOR OVER 1400 TRACTOR MODELS.

The Bush Hog QT Line of Front End Loaders now match over 1400 tractor models. Eight different loaders.. from the smaller 1845 model that fits 12-21 HP tractors, to the 4845 model recommended for 90-150 HP tractors...all feature ease of attaching and detaching, ease of operation, a wide range of attachments and Bush Hog durability.

BROILER INDUSTRY NOT CHICKEN ABOUT EXPANSION

H. Louis Moore
Professor Of Agricultural Economics

In recent years there has been much news which would lead us to conclude that the meat industry is headed down the tubes. A partial listing of factors working against the meat industry includes feed shortages and high prices, vegetarianism, mad cow disease, trade barriers against meats with growth hormones, and E-coli problems.

The truth is that the meat industry is growing. Each year U.S. consumers eat more meat than in the previous year and we also provice more meat for export. Red meat and poultry consumption in 1995 was 178 pounds per capita, up nine pounds from eight years earlier. Red meat consumption has been stable during this period, while poultry consumption rose nearly 12 pounds during the period.

The nation's meat producers have been expanding since 1987. Total meat production in 1997 will be about 78 billion pounds, up 35 percent from 1987. Broiler production is expected to reach 28 billion pounds this year, up slightly more than 80 percent since 1987. It is not unusual for broiler production to increase 4 to 5 percent on an annual basis.

It was surprising in 1996, when feed prices went through the roof and there were reports of poultry operations suspending production until feed prices fell, that broiler production actually grew nearly 5 percent. In the first quarter of 1997, broiler production grew only 3 percent from a year earlier. The industry's looking beyond the current high soybean meal prices.

It would be expected that poultry expansion might grow faster in the second half of 1997 and into 1998 based on the prospect of big crops. USDA announced on June 30 that corn plantings were expanded 1 percent this spring. It was expected in April that producers would plant 2 percent more acreage to corn. Despite less acreage than expected, yields are likely to increase 3 percent. This is calculated based on the early planting of the crops. At the end of June, about 70 percent of the corn crop was in good to excellent condition and a near record crop is expected. This will result in lower meal prices during the next year.

Because of changes in the 1996 Farm Bill, farmers are becoming much more market-oriented than in the past. During the spring, soybean prices were much more attractive than corn prices, so many producers reduced corn plantings and put extra acres into soybeans. Consequently, soybean acreage nationally is up 10 percent form 1996. A record crop of about 2.6 billion bushels is expected.

U.S. grain production basically sets the world price, as the U.S. is the world's largest corn producer, growing more than double the production of China, the second producer. In soybeans the U.S. grows more beans annually than the next four largest producers combined (Brazil, China, Argentina, and India).

Exports have turned out to be a huge bonanza for the U.S. meat industry. From the end of World War II until 1992, the U.S. was a net importer of meat.

Despite our growing exports of beef and pork, we always imported more than we exported. We have not been an importer of poultry at any time.

Since 1992 we have become a net exporter of beef, pork and poultry. In calendar year 1997 we will export about 5.2 billion pounds of poultry meat. This is equivalent to 18 percent of total U.S. poultry production.

The fastest growing market for U.S. poultry has been Russia and other republics of the former Soviet Union. The people love our chicken, but the Russian government threatens to limit our imports. They believe we are dumping poultry into their market. They just cannot believe that our industry is so efficient that we can deliver poultry to them at about half the cost of their own production.

We can't predict how long the export market to Russia will last, but we can predict that U.S. production and consumption will grow. If Russian demand slows, we will probably rely more on the Pacific Rim countries for export growth.

Agriculture Secretary Lays Groundwork In Republic Of Poland

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Returning from the Ridge Administration's recent five-day agricultural trade mission to Poland, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. said he believes the delegation's meetings built a stronger foundation for expanded economic relationships between the commonwealth and Poland's agricultural businesses.

"The Republic of Poland has a long and important tradition of a strong agriculture, and I believe we share common interests which can be beneficial to both communities," Hayes said. "I look forward to returning later in July to work on specific trade opportunities."

While in Poland, Hayes met with the U.S. Ambassador to Poland, officials from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce mission in Poland, the Polish Minister of Agriculture, and members of Poland's Senate Committees on Agriculture and Foreign Affairs.

Hayes' visit is part of Gov. Ridge's continuing effort to expand marketing opportunities for all aspects of Pennsylvania industry, including agriculture, the state's leading industry.

Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker led the administration's first trade mission with the Republic of Poland, with a team of eight companies who focused on environmental technology. During that trip, agreements were signed which totaled $20 million worth of business for the Pennsylvania companies which participated.

In 1996, Pennsylvania's agriculture exports to Poland totaled $2.5 million, with the leading products being lumber and wood products and food products. Pennsylvania's agricultural exports totaled $976.8 million in 1996.

ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS

With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

MEMBER: International Silo Assn. - PA Forage & Grassland Council - American Soc. of Agric. Engrs. - Cro Storage Institute.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE
WHEELING
Channeldrain
ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.
1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

Buying Income Streams for cash
CASH ADVANCE PROGRAM
Production Flexibility Contracts

If waiting for your Production Flexibility Contract payments is limiting your growth or holding you back on your plans, there is now a solution. The CASH NOW PURCHASE PROGRAM allows you to sell your future contract payments for cash dollars today. The flexible nature of the program allows you to:

- Sell all or part of your contract payments depending on the amount of cash you need now. Since this is not a loan, no payments are due directly from you and the cash you receive now does not show up on your books as a loan.
- Repurchase any remaining future payments due, if your needs change later.
- Raise cash, typically within 30-40 days.
- Sell payments on both owned and leased land operations.
- Limit your primary responsibility to remaining in compliance with the Production Flexibility Contract Program.
- Participate in a program that is deliberately designed to allow you full control of your operation. This includes provisions for selling your land, dropping out of the program, buying more qualifying land, and more.

To obtain more information and a written price offer, you need to proceed as follows:

- Contact us. We will send a one page pricing request form. Provide us payment information about your production flexibility contract on the PFC pricing request form. Since we can buy all or part of your contract payments, you need to specify the amount of capital you need now. We will prepare our offer based on your figures.
- Upon acceptance of our offer, we will prepare contract documents for your signature.
- Upon request of the signed contract documents from you, we will request any additional information needed and submit the necessary document to The Farm Service Agency for their acknowledgement.
- Once The Farm Service Agency acknowledgement has been received and other conditions of closing have been met, the agreed upon funds are wired to your account

IN ALUMINUM BODIES
EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

High Production Comes From Care Of Little Things At This New Dairy Of Distinction

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MOHNTON (Lancaster Co.) - Nestled in the valley along Bowmansville Road just before you cross Route 222 is Willow Springs Farm. As you descend along the gravel farm lane beside the green alfalfa field to the nice farm buildings, the peaceful surroundings are in great contrast to the nearby Adamstown commercial activity at the antique malls and flea markets. A large bank barn and three silos keep the crops and house the cows. Two farm houses and other heifer and machinery buildings give the impression that this dairy farm is operated by a family that likes their work.

Then you meet Glenn and Margaret Gockley and their son Lamar and daughter-in-law Michelle, and two grandchildren, Aaron, almost three, and Maranda, age 1, and you are treated to a family visit that makes this not only a Dairy of Distinction from roadside appearances but also from the inside out. Softspoken and unassuming, the Gockleys talk about themselves with reserve, maybe with more reserve than the facts would merit.

They milk 56 registered and grade Holsteins that average over 26,000 pounds of milk. Most of their cows milk over 100 pounds, and the herd has been averaging over 90 pounds for the last six months. This homebred herd has several cows that have produced over 40,000 pounds of milk and No. 87 was 6th in the state for protein with 1,200.

"We like our work at least 90 percent of the time," Lamar said with a smile. "Most jobs you have some things you don't like. But the grass is always greener on the other side of the fence. Some people leave the farm and are back in five years."

The Gockley family purchased the farm nearly 40 years ago. Then the cows didn't milk as much, but the cost of machinery was not as high. Today with rented ground, they farm 350 acres to grow forages for the cows.

The herd is housed in a conventional barn and fed both forage and grain four times a day. Amounts are determined by production. A new milking sys

STATE College, (Centre Co.) - Everyone traveling in Pennsylvania, both residents and non residents, will have beautiful dairy farms to observe as they drive through our countryside. A special reminder of this fact comes each year as the new Dairy of Distinction award winners are announced. This year 26 new dairy farms have been added to the 633 farms that received the recognition since the program began in Pennsylvania in 1987.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification program sponsors these awards to recognize those dairy farmers who pay particular attention to the appearance of their land and buildings. Most people who drive by the farm don't realize that in addition to a lot of work to produce milk, it also takes a lot of effort to keep the farmstead looking good too. But whenever a consumer sees a nice looking dairy farm, the association with good wholesome milk is easy. And milk gets good publicity.

Russ Rooks, president of the Pennsylvania program said that dairymen want the sign at their farm to provide advertising for milk. Others use the designation to help find good employees for the farm.

Created in 1983, the Dairy of Distinction Program, is designed to highlight those farms that help to create a posi-

ROY COALE III

At Hidden Valley Ayrshires, Littlestown, in Adams County, they milk 40 registered cow and have 20 head of young stock. Owned by Roy Coale, III, the herd started from a 4-H calf that was given to him, and now there are seven generations of animals that trace to this first calf. Coale spends all his time with the cows because someone else does the farming and either sells the crops to Coale or takes them to another farm. Coale merchandises cattle by selling at national and state sales. His BAA is 105.1 with the top cow scored at 89 points. He just started the herd about a year ago after graduating from Del Val. In the future, he would like to expand to 50 cows and hold it there. Coale thinks debt load is the most important thing to manage.

VAUGHN H. MAY

For the Vaughn H. May Dairy of Distinction, it's important to be self-sufficient. May, of Breezewood, prefers to raise all the crops needed to support the 60-cow grade Holstein dairy, according to Nancy, Vaughn's wife. The 600-acre dairy includes 400 tillable acres. The Mays care for the 60 head of milking cows and 50 head of replacement stock. Milking is tiestall to pipeline. The Mays, who grind their own feed, are members of the Maryland-Virginia Cooperative. Vaughn took over the dairy in 1968 from his father, John May. Vaughn concentrates on fieldwork, ensuring soil fertility to get maximum crop production. The Mays farm with their grandson, Lance, 17, son of Vaughn May Jr. and wife, Vickie.

MICHAEL DIETRICH

Located northwest of Kutztown is a new Dairy of Distinction farm operated by Michael Dietrich. He is the fourth generation of the family to farm the place. Michael owns the cows and buys the crops from his dad. The family has had this business arrangement since December, 1995. They farm 150 acres and milk 41 registered Holsteins in a conventional barn with TMR feeding. Michael thinks you need to keep the cows clean and watch herd health. As time goes buy, he would like to expand the herd to 80 or 100 cows as part of a long range plan. The Dietricks also have a milk hauling business.

BERKS Dairy of Distinction

WILLIAM AND KAREN BOYD

At this Berks County Dairy of Distinction, they farm 920 acres of cash crop, corn, beans, and wheat and have 45 Holstein cows. They don't raise the young stock and try to buy the best replacement cows possible. Herd average is 22,700 and they have several cows above 30,000 lbs. of milk. TMR is fed with top dressing for production. Haylage and dried shelled corn form the basis for the dairy feed, and they try to keep the cows eating. The farmland in their area is under a lot of development pressure, and they farm a lot of rented ground until it is developed. William thinks you should not do things half way but strive to get the highest production at the lowest cost. William and Karen Boyd bought the farm in 1980. They have four children, Rebecca, and son-in-law Don Nissley and grand daughter Kelsey, 5 mos.; Melanie 17; Dora 13,; and Shana 11.

CURRYVIEW FARMS

Cow comfort, particularly mattresses in freestalls and fans in the barn, help a dairy to become successful, according to Dennis A. Brumbaugh of Curryview Farms, Martinsburg. Brumbaugh said it is important to pay attention to all the little details, he said, which can "all add up" to potential farm success. Curryview Farms manages 220 acres and 95 registered Holsteins. On DHIA, the herd averages 21,466 pounds of milk, 693 pounds of protein, and 788 pounds of fat. A high producing cow is a Leadman milking more than 140 pounds per day. Curryview ships to Land O' Lakes. They use a computer to keep farm records and have been using a TMR since 1983. Dennis farms with wife Teresa and son Keith, 17; daughter Traci, 14; and Dennis's mother, Doris, who helps on the farm, along with sister-in-law Barbara Brumbaugh. They also employ one part-time hired man, Paul Buell. The Brumbaughs moved onto the farm in 1968, and Dennis's father Don was farming the land since 1953. Dennis took over the farm in 1974.

JERRY AND JOAN BECHTEL

The 77-cow combined Holstein and Jersey herd of Jerry and Joan Bechtel of Martinsburg believes that central to good dairy management is keeping the cows comfortable. They installed fans in the barn and look to ways of keeping the cows comfortable and productive. Jerry said the farm maintains 60 head of Holsteins and 17 head of Jerseys, both registered and grade, with an additional 40 head of young stock. They milk tiestall to pipeline. On DHIA, rolling herd averages 22,000 pounds for the Holsteins and 16,500 for the Jerseys, at 3.7 percent fat and 3.2 percent protein. They use a computer to keep track of farm accounts. Of the 110 tillable acres, the farm includes 60 acres of corn, 40 acres of hay, and five acres of barley. The Bechtels soil test regularly and have achieved good production from the crops, according to Jerry. Jerry farms with wife Joan and three children, including a son, Jason, 16 and two daughters, Jamie and Jennifer. The Bechtels purchased the farm from John and Minnie Dean.

GEORGE AND DAVID SMITH

The George and David Smith Farm in Martinsburg has some plans to slowly expand the herd size in a conservative manner. The keys to success, said David, are managing "the little things," including cow comfort (Smith makes use of mattresses), mastitis control, and genetics. David said the 140-tillable acre farm manages 115 Holstein, mostly grade though a few are registered, using a double-6 parallel parlor. They ship to Land O' Lakes. On a resent DHIA test, the herd's average was 22,000 pounds. A computer is used on the farm to record milk weights, and farm accounting records are kept. A TMR is used on the farm. The farm was purchased by George Smith, David's father, in 1963, and David was in partnership with his father from 1989 until last year. Now he rents from his dad. David manages the dairy with help from Amy, his wife, and two daughters, Laura, 6 and Lindsey, 3.

PAUL ROBBINS

At this new Dairy of Distinction, located in Bradford County West of Ulster, the Robbins family farms 200 acres and milks 67 cows that average 22,000 lbs. of milk. The cows are fed TMR with corn silage, haylage and hay grown on the farm and grain purchased. Paul and Judith Ann Robbins and their son Paul Kevin and his wife Billy Jo operate the farm. They strive for the best quality milk, trying to keep the SCC count as low as possible. They obtain the best breeding possible with Paul Kevin doing the artificial insemination. They have the cows analyzed to match the bull's type. While the farm was started back in 1965 with little capital, Paul believes it would be hard for a young person to start that way now.

ALBERT FRITZ

This new Dairy of Distinction is located in southern Butler County near the Allegheny line. Albert Fritz and his son Luke farm 300 acres on the home and neighboring farms. They milk 55 Holsteins that average 21,000 lbs. of milk. The cows are housed in a conventional barn with feed given according to production. The farm came into the family in 1910. Albert says the major change from the past is that prices for purchased items have tripled, but milk prices have stayed the same.

At this new Dairy of Distinction in Centre County, they farm 150 acres of forage to feed their 50 Holstein cows and young stock. Duane Ilgen and his son Scott man the farm. The herd average is at 21,000 lbs., and they milk in a conventional barn, feeding hay and corn silage several times a day. The farm has been in the family since 1911, making Scott the 4th generation on the farm. They are especially careful to keep the cows comfortable and watch nutrition and herd health. They want to do a good job with the cows. The farm is located east of Centre Hall.

MELVIN STOLTZFUS FAMILY

At Melwood Farm they farm 220 acres of owned and rented ground with the crops being certified as organic. Their 35 registered Holsteins average 27,000 to 28,000 lbs. of milk with 1,000f and 895p. Herd type is 106 BAA making it one of Chester County's top herds. They milk in a conventional barn and use TMR. This has made feeding cows a lot easier. Plans do not call for certifying their milk production as organic, but Melvin would not rule it out sometime in the future. Melvin and Mary Ellen Stoltzfus have eight children, Merlin 18; Melanie 16; Martha 14; Marita 11; Mark 9; Marlena 6; Matthew 3; and Mandel 6 mos. The family has lived on the farm for 20 years.

CRAIG HAYES

The new 305 acre Dairy of Distinction farm of Craig and Karen Hayes is located in Crawford County with an Edinboro address. The farm was purchased 23 years ago after Craig worked off the farm for five years. Over the years they increased the number of stalls but always looking to not overextend themselves in debt. This is still the farm goal. Craig said he has always thought 100 percent down and no monthly payments was a rather good way to go. Any money that is made from the purchase goes to the farmer and not the lender. Today under the prefix of Hay-Lo they have a mixed herd of Holsteins, Brown Swiss, and Jerseys, milking 45 cows that average 17,000lbs. of milk and have 35 calves and heifers. And in the future, Craig believes farmers must bargain more for what they get for their milk and not take what someone will give.

DOUGLAS STANHOPE

On the 115 acres of this Dairy of Distinction farm in Crawford County, they milk 45 Holsteins that average 23,000lbs. of milk. The young stock are farmed out to be raised off the farm. Douglas and Nancy Stanhope moved here from Ohio in 1985. Their son Gregg just graduated from college. The herd is fed TMR and milked in a conventional barn. The Stanhopes believe it's important to keep the farm looking good as an advertisement to consumers. And they believe milk should be put in more convenient containers so people can consume milk in place of soda. Douglas said he was not looking to expand the herd but would like to see milk prices better so everyone could stay in business. Technology has changed over the years so that now with good breeding and nutrition put together you get more production, but it still takes good management to make things work. He said it was disturbing to him that the government gathers all the records to prove it takes $16 to $18 per 100lbs. to produce milk but nothing is done about it.

DENNIS AND JIM RYND

The Rynd home farm has been in the family over 200 years, since 1791, with Dennis and Jim Rynd the 6th generation. This partnership farms 320 acres of corn and alfalfa with a total of 550 acres. They milk 130 registered Holsteins that average 21,000lbs of milk in a conventional barn. A TMR feeding program is used with special attention to costs and getting the most out of the herd without going overboard. Tunnel ventilation was installed last year and has helped with comfort and herd health. Family members include: Jack Rynd, father; Dennis and Marsha and children, Brooks and Paula; Jim and Lori and children, Jamie, Kristen, and Andy, and nephew Shawn.

EVAPORATIVE COOLING

AVS KOMFORT KOOLER™

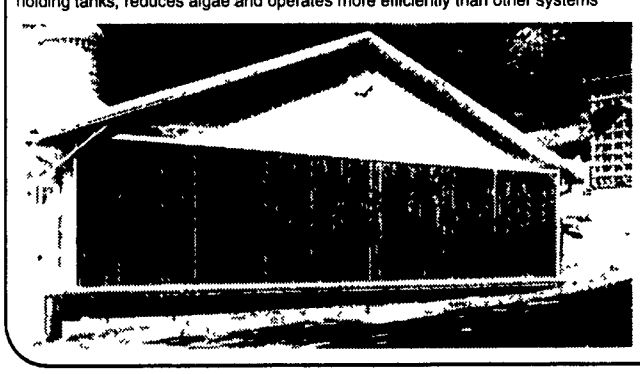
AVS Komfort Kooler™ evaporative cooling systems combined with a tunnel ventilation system can lower the temperature of free stall barns as much as 20 degrees depending on ambient temperature and relative humidity conditions. Komfort Koolers™ utilize the natural cooling effect of evaporation, effectively lowering the temperature of incoming air to increase cow comfort and improve milk production. This self-contained evaporative cooling system eliminates separate holding tanks, reduces algae and operates more efficiently than other systems



Every Dairy Farmer knows - comfortable cows mean increased milk production

PETER MARKEL

At this Lehigh County Dairy of Distinction, Peter and Meg Markel, Breinigsville, and their three children, Megan 16, Sarah 11, and Peter 2, farm 110 acres located northwest of town. They milk 30 registered and grade Holsteins that average 18,000 to 19,000 lbs. of milk. They house the cows in a stall barn and pay special attention to producing quality milk. They qualify for the highest quality awards and have a history of SCC counts under 100,000. To do this, they keep the cows healthy and keep milking equipment in excellent shape. Since their family drinks milk out of the tank, they want to keep the quality at the best possible level. In addition, they receive a premium price for their milk. Peter believes you need to select breeding sires for good type, and then the production will come along. They farm 110 acres of forages to feed the cows.

SEC-WIN FARMS

The secret to success on a dairy? James Sechler believes the farm, managed by him and partner Bradwin C. Winters, is successful because they provide a mix of good feed to the cows, a consistent milking time, lots of straw in the cow bedding, good management, and "lots of hard work," he said. The 500-acre dairy in Somerset includes 180 acres of corn, 100 of oats, 140 of alfalfa, and 30 in barley, with the rest in pasture. Sec-Win Farms milks 85 Holstein, all registered, and maintains about 80 young stock. On DHIA, the dairy produces a rolling herd average of 22,300 pounds milk, 791 pounds fat, and 726 pounds of protein. Milking is tiestall to pipeline. They installed a TMR mixer two years ago. The result? An addition 2,000 pounds in milk, according to Sechler. Sechler farms with wife Peggy and son Brett, 23, who majors in environmental studies at Shippensburg. Also, Winters' wife Amy and son Christopher, 21; Adam, 14; and Erin, 19 help on the farm. The farm has been in the family since 1936. The partnership with Winters began in 1975.

PROCLAMATION

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK
August 10 - 16, 1997

WHEREAS, Last year, the 642,000 dairy cows on our Commonwealth's farms produced 10.6 billion pounds of milk, which maintained Pennsylvania's status as the fourth largest milk producing state in the country. Pennsylvania also ranks second nationally in the annual production of ice cream, with 66 million gallons per year, and sixth in the production of cheese, with 348 million pounds per year; and

WHEREAS, the dairy industry is the leading segment of our Commonwealth's number one industry, agriculture. More than 38 percent of the agricultural income of Pennsylvania is generated by milk sales which represent a $1.46 billion contribution to the Commonwealth's economy. In addition to our 10,800 commercial dairy farmers, thousands of Pennsylvanians are employed in the manufacturing and processing of dairy products. As these statistics reveal, the Pennsylvania dairy industry continues to be sensitive to and meet the changing demands of consumers; and

WHEREAS, the Dairy of Distinction program was developed to recognize the most attractive dairy farms in Pennsylvania. Rating them for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance, a team of skilled judges carefully select those dairy farms exhibiting the highest standards of excellence. Since the inception of the program in 1987, six hundred and fifty-nine Commonwealth farms have been honored, including twenty-six farms receiving Dairy of Distinction awards in 1997.

THEREFORE, In special recognition of the strength and vitality that our dairy farmers and their families bring to our rural communities, I, Tom Ridge, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim August 10 - 16, 1997, as DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK in Pennsylvania. I encourage all Pennsylvanians to recognize the invaluable contributions made by the dairy industry to our economy and our quality of life.

GLADE VIEW FARMS

Successful dairies are made through a lot of hard work, particularly when it comes to ensuring cow comfort with lots of straw bedding, according to Mark Martin of Glade View Farms, Berlin. This 500-acre, 70-cow dairy raises grade Holsteins and milks tiestall to pipeline. Mark took over operation of the farm from his wife, Tammy's, father James Kimmel in 1996. Kimmel operated the farm since 1969. Mark farms 70 acres of corn, 70 of oats, 140 of hay, and 50 in pasture with wife Tammy and two boys, Nicholas, 6 and Jacob, 2. Mark said Nicholas helps feed the young stock.

HARRY W. MOSHOLDER

Keeping debt load and costs down are the keys to successful business management on a dairy, according to Harry Mosholder in Rockwood. "Never spend any more money than you could afford to lose," he noted. The farm raises all of its own grain, including 60 acres of corn, 17 acres of oats, and more than 100 acres of hay. They also pasture the cows, but don't use rotational grazing. This Dairy of Distinction includes 115 tillable acres on the farm and an additional 30 rented acres. According to Harry, the dairy cares for 40 milking Holstein, mostly registered, and 40 young stock. Milking is from ties-tall to pipeline. On DHIA, the herd averages 22,500 pounds of milk, 730 protein, and 830 fat. The milk is shipped to Gallikers in Johnstown. Mosholder said a TMR is used. The farm has been in the family since 1906, and Mosholder finally purchased the farm in 1972. Harry farms with wife Donna, a schoolteacher, and sons William, 21, a junior at Penn State majoring in dairy and animal science and Matt, 15. Harry's mother Dorothy also helps work the land. Also, Harry's sister Pat helps on the farm.

WALKER GROVE FARM

The 60-cow Holstein herd of Walker Grove Farm, Somerset, owes a lot of production success to a TMR, which Kurt Walker believes improved milk production. Milk, from tiestall to pipeline, is shipped to Sani-Dairy. The herd includes 60 Holsteins on test, 90 percent of which are registered. There are a total of 170 cows on farm, including young stock. The farm uses a computer to keep farm records. A TMR managed by a local agribusiness is used. Included on the 300 tillable acres are 160 in corn, 70 in alfalfa, 30 in oats, and 40 in mixed hay. Kurt farms with wife Lucinda and son Daniel, 7. Also, Scott Walker, Kurt's brother, works full time and Scott's wife Janeth helps on the farm. For eight years, Kurt was in partnership with his father, Ray, and mother Anna. Kurt began renting the land from his parents in 1992.

Jo-San Dairy Farm Is Susquehanna County Dairy Of Distinction

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

GIBSON (Susquehanna Co.) — Joseph Pavelski, owner of Jo San Farm, Gibson, is one of the people who this year have applied for and received the designation of their farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

A relatively new, 40-foot by 200-foot, 50 tie-stall barn, with milkhouse and office built after a 1992 fire destroyed the old barn; the modern house built in 1977; a big farm sign; the care to maintaining the lawn and personal desire to maintain and beautify the farmstead — all these things are just the face of what makes the farm beautiful to Pavelski.

What really makes a dairy farm beautiful is a family that nurtures the land and each other.

The Dairy of Distinction Program has as its goal the promotion of consumer confidence in dairy products. Clean, healthy looking dairies are good advertising for clean, healthy milk and milk products.

Locally, tourism is benefitted by aesthically pleasing scenery, and it can be counted upon that passersby, whether consciously or not, will judge not only the appearance of the farm, but the values and work ethic of the farmers and the community in which they belong.

That first-glance images can mean so much can be repugnant — "Don't judge a book by its cover."

But first-glance images can also say a lot.

A manicured farm can be interpreted to reflect people who are meticulous and who would never fail to properly clean the milking equipment and vacuum lines between milkings so that bacterial growth or oxidized fats don't have a chance to introduce off-flavors to the milk.

A groomed landscape can be interpreted to mean that cows are fed and watered well and not set out into an excercise lot knee-deep in muck.

A fenced-off stream can say, in addition to having a Golden Rule respect for the neighbor downstream, that the farm owner is concerned for the well-being of his cattle and wants to minimize the chance for water-borne parasites and infections to affect the herd's health.

Such care as required for minimum consideration into the Dairy of Distinction Program can say many, many positive things about the family, about their values, about what kind of neighbors they might be.

It seems to especially say that the farm owners understand what is required for success and how to achieve it, working together, with discipline and mutual respect, as well as with love.

The Pavelskis have a 45-head milking string of registered Holsteins with a BAA of 107.9. The rolling herd average is 21,800 pounds milk, 814 pounds fat and 720 pounds protein.

According to a recent classification of 44 animals, the herd had seven Excellent cows, 22 Very Good, and all the rest Good plus, except for one heifer which was Good (though she just freshened and he expects her to increase with the next classificaiton).

Pavelski said that though his dad had the farm first, it didn't become a dairy specialized farm until after Joseph started taking over and he had grade cows for 10 years.

Then he bought registered cattle. "But I found out that a registration doesn't mean (the cow is any) good. So, I started buying good registered cows, then index, using the top," he said.

He said his herd has produced 20,000 pounds of milk or better for 20 years.

Over that time, however, he said his opinion of focusing all on top index changed, and he has become convinced that it has its drawback, especially in longevity. He said iit is his opinion that the top index heifers will produce at first, but won't last.

"They are short-lived. Farmers are losing money on cows," he said. "A (high index) cow never pays for herself. They only last a lactation and a half."

He said that if done as inexpensively as possible, the cost of raising a heifer to first lactation is about $1,100, though his cost is more.

In effect, he suggested that the high index heifers are too refined and not as hardy or sturdy. He said that by the time she starts making milk and producing to pay for herself, then she develops some problem and has to be replaced.

On the other hand, he is reluctant to shed a productive cow from the herd, if she isn't making a 100-pound lactation peak, or some other self-created, high-achievement benchmark.

"Farmers are losing more money they don't see, because they are replacing too many cows. We have a least 10 cows over 10 years or more (in the Jo-San herd)," he said.

He said that includes a 91-point Excellent 12-year-old, and a just-freshened 13-year-old.

"We sell a lot of cows, and we really have a low somatic cell (count) with these old cows," he said.

He said that with low milk prices, what is really paying his bills is the fact that his herd is dominated by cows milked long enough to pay for themselves and their upkeep, as well as the money that comes selling offspring.

"We sell quite a few dairy replacements," Pavelski said. "I sell good cows to commercial cows. Some guys want milk."

The Jo-San Dairy, named after Joseph and his wife Sandy, is 300 acres, with about 65 acres tillable. They rent another 100 acres of hay land.

They raise all grass hay and make baleage — using timothy, orchard grass and native grasses — that tests from 16-percent protein to 25-percent protein. It's best for thin-soiled, short season, hill-and-dale land of the upper Susquehanna River Basin in which the farm sits.

He spreads manure a lot, he said, because he uses a lot of bedding, but he said he believes that using a lot of bedding has kept his somatic cell count low and his cows healthy and comfortable.

They buy all their grain, and they have all their own machinery, which he said is in pretty good shape.

But he is concerned about the growth of developments and resort and non-residential ownership in his area.

"We're getting a lot of suburbia," he said. "They are buying now eight farms in the township. The whole county is down to very few (farms left).

"I don't blame anybody for selling," he said, adding that in the past, the experts always said that the reason for

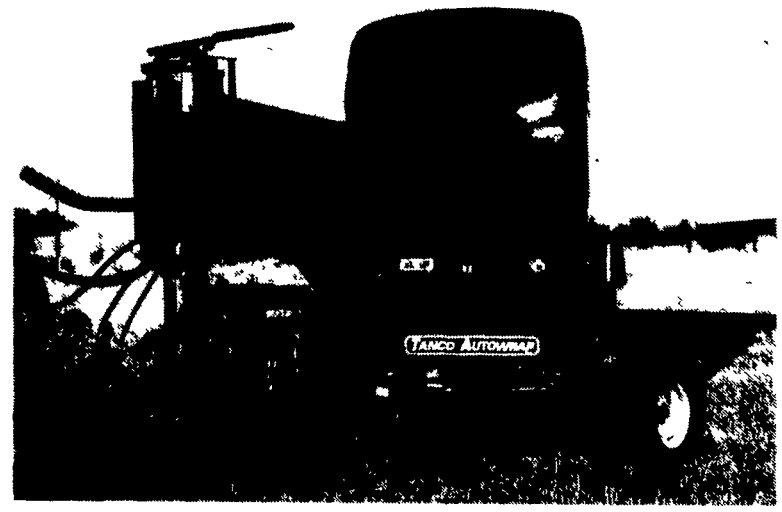
DAIRY OF DISTINCTION HAY CROP
YOU SHOULD CONSIDER ROUND BALE SILAGE!



- High quality forage.
- Harvest when crop is ready
- Reduces reliance on drying time.
- Lower field losses.
- Different grades of hay can be kept separate.
- Low capital investment compared to conventional method.
- Low horsepower and fuel requirement
- Possibility of extra cut, earlier and later in the season.
- Bales can be sold as cash crop.
- Better herd health with long stem fiber.

Talk with a farmer who's doing it, he'll give you more reasons!

TANCO BALE WRAPPER

TANCO... The Wrapper That Wraps Bales Others Won't
GIVES YOU HAY OF DISTINCTION

- Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.
- Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.
- Adjustable extendible axle: On trailed models the extendible axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counterwieghts.
- Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.
- Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp". Once it "burps" the bale does not reseal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.
- Optional "High Rise" axle kit for soft ground conditions.
- Models available to fit every individual need, including machines to wrap big square bales. Tanco was first to build a large square bale wrapper, & continues to produce advancements in bale wrapping technology.
- Positive bale positioning: While begin wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.
- Durability: Tanco's subframe is one of the heaviest of any machines available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users.
- Price: From a basic 3 point Model AW250, to the trailed Model AW550 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices are very competitive. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.

But now, being in direct competition with international milk supplies produced with different regulations, cheap labor and land, and long distance hauling, and having the increasingly high overhead and taxes and real estate values, a farmer doesn't need to give any excuses for having a dairy farm failure. It isn't his fault.

"Expenses are sky high, but I can do it (continue to farm), because I lived poor all my life and I know how to do it.

"And that's the worst part. (Dairy farmers) keep hoping all the investment and time, the desire to own the farm... will pay off.

"If I were a true businessman, I wouldn't be farming."

He bemoaned the price of milk he receives compared to the price of a farm truck he is asked to pay.

"Why is it," he asked, "that I get the same price for milk that I did in 1977?"

That was the year that he bought his current uninspectable pickup truck (for regular road use) for which he paid $3,800 new.

He said the same-use model offered by the same manufacturer is closer to $38,000 today.

The disparity in value growth is large.

Pavelski even joined a group of dairymen to march on Washington D.C. on July 15 in an attempt to bring some sense of fairness to dairy pricing.

Some farmers perceive widespread deceit and greed on the part of management decisions in retail, marketing and processing; they sense that competitiveness has gotten out of control and decisions are being made for goals other than sustaining the health of an industry.

Some sense that executives are playing with the price of milk that farmers get in order to win marketing chess games and that farmers are dispensable pawns.

Some see government's role in poor dairy prices in several different ways: being in the way just enough to allow retailers and processors enough excuses and legal obstacles to be able to reduce the price of milk to farmers while increasing it to the consumer; not reacting properly because of not understanding or caring about what is going on; or reaction poorly because the two-party political system's tit-for-tat funding-raising system is not held separately enough from day-to-day government action and creates too much influence against fulfilling public policy that serves the most good.

Of course, there are other opinions.

And a lot of this has been working on his mind, especially lately, Pavelski said.

For example, the bottom line is that a pretty farm won't set the pricing of milk right, nor solve the rest of the problems of the world.

In the most detached sense, a pretty farm is probably wasting money that could be used better for something else, such as crop insurance.

After all, the majority of milk is mostly marketed to processors as a generic product and it gets treated that way.

But, there are reasons for achieving the qualities that are required of a Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction.

An aesthetically pleasing farm is a more pleasant farm on which to work.

There is also something to family farms, as with many family businesses, that lend themselves more to beautification efforts — milk is not the major product of a family farm, people are the product; people who know that some things can't be measured by money, and can be valued all the more.

When their barn burned, Pavelski said the value of a supportive and helpful community was demonstrated.

"You can't believe how many friends you can have," he said talking about how the cows and heifers ended up going in all different directions to different farms, and feed was supplied in generous amounts. "You just can't comprehend how many good neighbors and friends you have."

His children are his pride. "All the kids really like farming," he said.

Their daughter Cathy Pavelski was the first girl from Pennsylvania to win a national dairy judging title. She is currently in California working for Alta Genetics, having graduated with a degree in dairy science from Penn State University. She was the national first place 4-H winner in Wisconsin, and she also was a first place collegiate dairy judging winner at Louisville, Kentucky.

The year she went to Madison, she and Michelle, their other daughter, who is currently studying to be a doctor, were the state's first sisters on the team.

The sisters are competitive, he said. "Michelle was first in Pennsylvania, and then Cathy beat her at nationals."

Joseph and Sandy have two boys — Steven who is currently in his second year at Penn State pursuing a dairy science degree; and Matthew, 10th grade high school student son, Matt, who is on the county dairy judging team.

The boys enjoy dairy cattle and judging as well. Steve had placed first at Delaware Valley College competitions when he was in 4-H.

Joseph said he has an office full of his childrens' trophies.

"The kids began showing cows in '85; the first year they went to states, and went to states every year except last year. We had some good cows, but Cathy, Michelle, and Steve on 4-H team, they had a really good time in Louisville.

"Last year we missed the first All-American in a while. But for last three years have the Susquehanna County Fair premier breeder and exhibitor award, and we showed the grand champion last year, and had the best bred and owned."

The family was also the first recipient of the county fair's Miller Page Memorial Award, which is granted to the best bred and owned Holstein.

"I want them all to get an education," Joseph said. "All of them like sports, all have done well academically. They have done well in high school and better in college. They know it's a lot of money (to go to college).

"But, after they all go, they can farm if they want to, but they'll have something to back them up."

SNYDER BROTHER FARMS

Snyder Brothers Farms recently installed a high moisture corn unit on the property, and believe that to be successful, breeding and animal health (cow comfort) are essential. They installed rubber mats in the freestalls. The 430-acre farm includes 250 tillable acres, with 80 acres in corn, 120 in hay, 40 in oats, and 10 in barley. The brothers, James and Keith Snyder, care for 70 grade Holsteins and 45 young stock. They milk tiestall to pipeline and average, on DHIA, 19,200 pounds of milk, 728 fat, and 616 protein. They chip to Sani-Dairy. They feed a combination of hay, haylage, and high moisture corn and make use of 30 acres of pasture. The Century Farm is cared by James Snyder and wife Barbara and Matthew, 11; Daniel, 9; and Laura, 6. Keith farms with wife Kim and a son, Jed, 13 and daughter Molly, 12.

Using less stalls at maximum efficiency lowers the total cost of your automation and improves labor efficiency. Comparison shows it takes as much as 50% fewer AutoFlow stalls to achieve the same throughput as with similarly automated herringbone and parallel systems.

As milking equipment becomes more sophisticated and more expensive, the investment per stall becomes an important factor. The Surge AutoFlow parlor maximizes efficiencies per stall without sacrificing cow throughput.

HILLMONT FARMS

Hillmont Farms, Berlin, operated by Jay and son Kirk Hillegass, care for three separate farms in all, according to Tine, wife of Kirk. Tine said the dairy milks 110 all-registered Holstein and cares for an additional 150 young stock. They use a double-8 herringbone parlor and ship to Galliker's Dairy, Johnstown. They make use of a computerized feed system and have been using a TMR for eight years, said Tine. The initial farm has been in the family for 200 years. Jay and Kirk have been partners for 18 years. Kirk farms with Tine and three children, Juliana, 14; Luther, 8; and Alec, 6. Also, Jessica Coddington, 18, helps on the farm part-time. The long-term goal of the dairy is to "transition from a partnership to a single owner," said Tine. To be successful, today's dairy producer "has to be an excellent manager," she said.

CONGRATULATIONS

President Rooks' Message

Since the Dairy of Distinction program began in Pennsylvania in 1987, hundreds of dairy farmers have applied to have their farms recognized as a "Dairy of Distinction." We have had another good for the program. Those attractive farms that are honored will receive a colorful farm sign that is truly an advertisement for the dairy industry, not only to neighbors, but to those who pass their farms. This is the purpose of the program: to be a point of pride in promoting the source of the state beverage——milk.

We want to express our thanks to all that applied for their award this year. And we want to express our thanks to all who supported the program especially those who supported the program financially.

If you applied and did not receive the award, then apply again next year, correcting items needed to be corrected. One dairyman applied this year mainly to have the sign up for advertising milk on the highway. He feels the more who participate in the program will help improve milk sales. That is the bottom line.

The winners in 1997 will be recognized on Tuesday, August 12 at Ag Progress Days at 2:15 p.m. in the special events building. We hope you are able to attend. The photographs taken by your local district and enlargments provided by Lancaster Farming will be displayed.

Thanks again to all our hard-working volunteers on the committees for making the program successful.

Plan To Enter The Next Dairy Of Distinction Program

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc., is prepared to receive applications for the 1998 awards. This program rewards clean, well-kept farms to help with consumer acceptance of dairy products in the store.

State President Russ Rooks, Allentown, said the program has been well-received, and officers look forward to an excellent program again next year.

The program provides rewards of recognition to producers who maintain attractive production sites. The recognition benefits the entire dairy industry, as well as individual dairy farmers. Not only does the favorable publicity generated by the program in the general press help bring modern farm practices to the attention of urban people, farmers use the distinction to promote their own operation or seek and hire farm labor.

Mike O'Connor, the secretary for the Pennsylvania program said applications may be sent to him at any time after January 1, 1998. Deadline for applications is April 15. Judging is completed in May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. The states are divided into districts, and a local committee oversees the program in each district.

A team of judges designated by the local committee visits each farm and uses a score sheet to rate each farm. In Pennsylvania, in addition to this team of judges, the sanitarian for the farm's cooperative or dealer-handler is asked to be part of the judging process.

"One of the things I always tell people is that, even though they may not now have the most fancy place, they can work toward principles of the Dairy of Distinction program," O'Connor said. "By doing this, they work toward a goal that encourages consumers to use more dairy products."

Winners receive a colorful, 18x24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed at the entrance to the farmstead. In addition, as in past years, an 11x14-inch color portrait of the farm will be given by Lancaster Farming to each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program.

"As a dairy farmer, you work hard all year long, taking care of your farm," said Helen Fountain, program executive secretary. "In addition to managing your herd, there are lawns to mow, flowers to plant, and overall maintenance to keep farm buildings looking great. You deserve to be recognized for all the hard work, dedication and pride you put into your farmstead.

"It's time you and your farm received some recognition for your hard work. The coveted Dairy of Distinction award will give you that recognition. In addition, your attractive farm will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, thereby stimulating milk sales and encourage public support for the dairy industry."

This representative Dairy of Distinction Farm was named in 1997 and is owned by Albert Fritz in southern Butler County. Farms that look attractive help to make a good impression on consumers who buy dairy products.

Active dairy farms in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania are eligible to apply for the award. Criteria for the Dairy of Distinction awards include clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads, and lands; and well-maintained fences. Cleanliness of animals, barnyard, feed areas, as well as manure management are also taken into consideration.

Applications are available from each state's program secretary or local cooperative extensive offices.

- In New York, contact Carol Weddle, New York, Holstein Assn., 957 Mitchell St., Box 190, Ithaca, N.Y. 14851.
- In New Jersey, contact Angust Knispel, RD 1, Box 325, Pittstown, N.J. 08867.
- In Pennsylvania, you may contact Mike O'Connor, professor of dairy science, Penn State University, 324 William L. Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802.

Pennsylvania Districts

Pennsylvania is divided into 10 districts. Up to 10 Dairy of Distinction awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to the applicant.

Pennsylvania area chairpersons are: District 11, George Wilcox; District 12, Brett Brumbaugh; District 13, Susan Alexander; District 14, Dave and Janet Hileman; District 15, Norman Coons; District 16, Robert and Bernice Gabel; District 17, Craig Williams; District 18, Allen Roszel; District 19, James Barnett; and District 20, Russell Rooks.

As a winner you will receive a certificate and a nice sign to install at the end of your farm lane. In addition, Lancaster Farming will present a color farm portrait print to each of this year's winners in Pennsylvania. If your farm is a winner, be sure you or your district committee takes a color photograph of your farm and sends the negative and proof to Lancaster Farming in time for the awards ceremony.

OH, THAT MEXICAN INAPPETENCE!

This year's national Dairy month is over, and I have just returned from another foreign-assistance assignment abroad. There are so many dairy topics I could tackle, but it is so hot right now that all I can think about is how to shut off this heat or, at least, diminish its effect. People can head for air-conditioned places, but what about dairy animals — our cows, goats, and sheep? What can they do to beat this heat? And they still must give milk two or three times a day without changing the level of output.

In a few places in Saudi Arabia, where money is no object, some Holstein herds actually enjoy air conditioning. And in Florida, because of some excellent development work by Experiment Station engineers, cows in many commercial herds are cooled by full showers a couple of times each hour.

I am not the only one thinking about the heat and its effects. Just look how many magazine and journal articles cover hot weather, heat stress and what to do about it. At the risk of taking "coals to New Castle" or "owls to Athens," I will add a few ideas of my own, which include reviews of new research.

The long ears of tropical Brahma or Zebu cattle and of Nubian dairy goats function successfully as radiators in hot weather, enabling those animals to get some relief from the heat. Northern climate cows, such as Holsteins, Guernseys and Ayrshires (and Swiss dairy goats), have short, erect ears, so they suffer because they have no such cooling mechanism.

A little-known fact, however, is that the horns of dairy goats are highly vascularized — that is, full of blood vessels. Horns serve as a cooling mechanism for Swiss goats, thus reducing the temperature of the brain by 2 degrees below the average body temperature. This is significant, because the control center for eating or not eating is in the brain. The primary consequence of hot weather is a reduction in feed intake, yet a common U.S. dairy management practice is to dehorn calves and goat kids, thus depriving these animals of that potential cooling mechanism.

When it comes to hot summer days, dairy farmers worry that their dairy animals lie around in the shade and do not eat. As a result, milk yield drops as much as 35 percent per day, total lactation decreases, and ovulation or estrus halts. Holsteins, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Swiss goats suffer when temperatures go above 80 degrees Fahrenheit. Jerseys, Brown Swiss and Nubian goats have a slightly higher tolerance level. What can dairy farmers do?

Recent research in Missouri (Journal of Dairy Science 80 (1997) 1206-1206) examined the benefit of adding niacin at 12, 24 or 36 gram/day/cow on heat stress. This B vitamin dilates blood vessels, thereby aiding in the skin peripheral cooling of cows on hot days. They found that cows' skin was cooler and their milk production slightly higher, but the most important problem, feed intake, was not improved.

Other new research in Arizona (Journal of Dairy Science 80 (1997) 1172-1178) included periodic water showers and air fans for cows in addition to feeding extra (3 percent) supplementary fat per diet dry matter. The idea is to reduce heat generation from eating a normal feed ration by increasing its nutrient density with fat, thus providing more energy with less volume of feed. Results showed how difficult it is to help heat-stressed cows by way of feeding — they just do not want to eat as much as usual. The cows know instinctively that eating makes them more hot.

Cows suffer from what I like to call "Mexican Inappetence" syndrome. It sounds better than just saying "reduced voluntary feed intake" or "heat-stress-induced lower feed consumption." All it means is that dairy animals have no appetite for anything. And just as our cold winter storms come across Canada on the "Canadian Clipper," the hot winds originate in the Gulf of Mexico — therefore, "Mexican Inappetence."

Research in Arizona showed that while the manipulation of the ration in the right direction, physiologically, did not help hot cows sufficiently, but a milk production increase of more than 5 pounds/day/cow and increased feed intake was achieved with periodic showers and air fans. To be of any value, shower cooling must take place where cows spend most of their time: 1) where they eat silage or a total mixed ration (TMR), and 2) in the holding pen. As cows wait to be milked, they crowd together and get overheated. We have done both at the University of Delaware dairy barn with good success.

Other good advice comes from the Georgia and Kansas Experiment Stations on how to overcome that inappetence of dairy animals when the hot air from the Gulf of Mexico stagnates here:

- Don't walk cows long distances.
- Provide clean, cool water, even out in the pasture!
- Reduce roughage to 40 percent of total ration dry matter.
- Increase energy and protein density of the ration.
- Adding 1 pound fat can reduce the grain ration by 2.25 pounds.
- Keep ration fat contents as high as 6.0 percent.
- Make ration protein levels about 20 percent.
- Keep potassium ration contents between 1.3-1.5 percent.
- Limit grazing to early morning and evening.
- Shower and fan cows — regularly and frequently — where they congregate as soon as the temperature reaches 80 degrees F.
- Feed TMR several times per day for better freshness.
- Moisten TMR to 45-50 percent water contents for improved intake.
- Clean feed bunks daily and remove leftovers.
- Use rumen buffers to control acidosis.

If you follow these tips for taking the heat off your milking animals, they will lose that inappetence, and you will reap the financial benefits.

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

| Example | Mueller | Competition |
|---|---|---|
| Cost of equipment | $41,000 | $28,000 |
| Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years | $17,550 | $22,850 |
| Total operating cost for ten years | $58,550 | $50,850 |
| Savings | $ 2,400 | |

High Production Comes From Care Of Little Things At This New Dairy Of Distinction

Lamar believes you need to watch for all the little things. At the first sign that a cow is off feed, you need to look for the cause. And the calves need to be well cared for. They have not lost a calf in a long time.

Lamar worked for Atlantic Breeders for a year after high school, but the family life on the farm drew him back. Here the little tots play with miniature tractors and wagons of various colors on the living room floor. Little Aaron makes sure this reporter knows that he may ride with daddy only on the big tractor that has a cab.

"Why?"

"Because I might fall off. Grandpa's tractor doesn't have a cab."

And after the family poses for pictures with the new Dairy of Distinction sign, Maranda and Aaron get a ride in the express wagon from Grandpa.

And as you drive up out of this peaceful farm setting, you know the Gockleys have just shared a bit of what real farm family life is all about. And a beautiful bouquet of gladioli from the garden, set in wet paper towels and wrapped in tin foil has been sent along to confirm their great hospitality.

Dairy of Distinction

Brillion

Dairy of Distinction

The "Quality Crafted" Line Better Seedbeds... Better Stands

SOIL BUILDERS
5-7-9-11-13 Shanks

SOIL BUILDERS. Optional - Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars. Available in 2 & 3 bar.

BRILLION COMMANDER SYSTEM

Versatile tillage tools such as Billion's Soil Commander allows the use of Chisel Shanks or Deep-ripper Shanks to break up soil compaction. Front disk gangs and optional rear leveling disks cut residue, breaks clods, level the field and prepare the field to absorb moisture from melting snow and to reduce soil erosion. Brillion's Field Commander combined with a Brillion Pulverizer excels at creating the perfect seedbed for spring planting. C-Shanks or S-Tine Shanks leave a uniform mixture of soil and surface residue for the most effecient chemical incorporation. The X-Fold Pulverizer (shown below) breaks up clods, firms the soil without compacting, eliminates air pockets in the soil and levels the soil for optimal seed placement. For less time in the field and better yields, go Brillion

AG SURE STAND SEEDERS
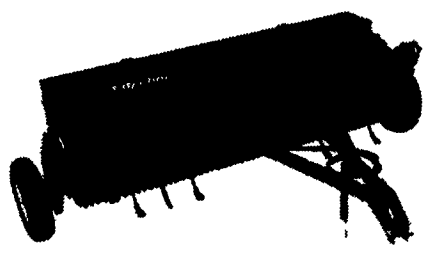
5 Ft.-8 Ft.-10 Ft.-12 Ft.



For years Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for plantinggrasses and legumes... and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, high seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more. Available In 3-point or pull type. SSPT604, SS8, SS10, SS12

3 PT. BASKET HARROWS
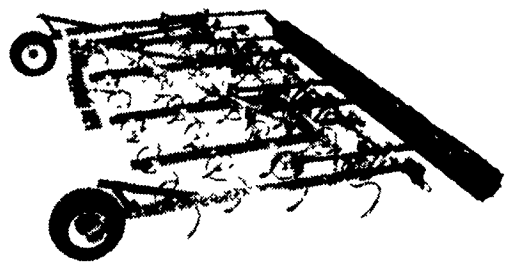
12 Ft., 15 Ft., 18 Ft.



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable coil tine leveler bar. Gauge wheels are optional.

LANDCOMMANDERS
3-5-7-9-11-13 Shanks

The front disc gang has 22" x 1/4" disc blades on 15" spacings. They are designed to cut residue and work the ground to a depth of 6". The Landcommander has the ability to till from 8" to 20" deep. The rear disc gang has 20" x 7 ga. disc blades on 7.5 spacing. The 6"x4" mainframe is designed to handle the stress from the deep till shanks and disc gangs.

P-SERIES TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS
10 Ft. to 20 Ft.

Rotary Frame Pulverizers; PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS
19 Ft. to 46 Ft.

The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Available with 20" Ductile Rollers.

2 or 3 BAR CHISEL PLOWS
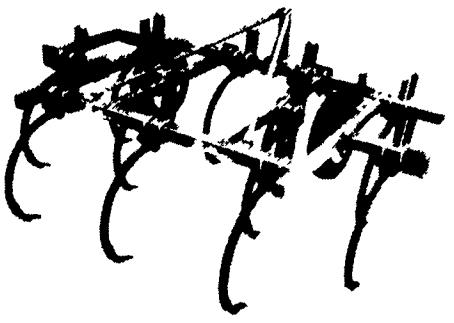
5 7-9-11 or 10-12-14-16 Shanks



The CPP series of mounted models enables you to turn short and fast... to transport easily, utilizing your tractor's hydraulic system.

M-MD PULVI-MULCHERS
7'4", 10'4", 12'4", 13'8" , 15'

The Brillion Pulvi-Mulcher converts fall or spring plowing into clod-free, high yield seedbeds. Just flick the tractor hydraulic control, pulvi-mulcher lifts to transport wheels.

ML SERIES PULVI-MULCHERS
12'6", 13'10", 15'2", 18'9"

- Easy rolling 20" ductile iron notched or crowfoot roller wheels with 5 year limited warranty.
- Longer life external mounted bearings.
- Longer, heavier drawbar for shorter turns.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER - 3-5-7 Shank

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander.. designed to break up hard-pan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.
